Major Issues Not Effecting Votes

WASHINGTON AP -- Nine states have now held primaries without any indication to date of two chief concerns among voters -- the war in Viet Nam and the rising cost of living.

Historically, any widespread scenes of discomfort or dissatisfaction has reacted against the ins, no matter of which party. Yet in the primaries thus far the voters have evidenced no disposition to turn out incumbent members of Congress who were challenged within their own parties.

Nevertheless, political strategists are holding to their estimates that what happens in the congressional elections next fall will be greatly influenced by the developments meantime in Viet Nam and on the price front.

In the normal course, the minority party picks up seats in the House of Representatives in an off year election, particularly when it has lost heavily in the presidential year as the Republicans did in 1964.

Thus, the GOP will have to gain a substantial number of House seats in order to claim a success in this year's campaigning.

Picking any number as the break even point between success and failure could bring arguments on both sides.

But Chairman John M. Bailey told the Democratic National Committee earlier this year that historically the party in power loses 37 seats in the House in an off year election. He reminded that the Democrats lost 77 seats in 1940, two years after a landslide victory by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presidential election.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen has been talking of a possible GOP pick-up of 50 seats.

Holding 140 seats now, the Republicans would have to gain 78 in order to take control of the 435-member house.

Of the nine states which have held primaries, six have elections this year for the Senate but in only two were incumbent senators opposed in the primary. Democratic Sens. John J. Sparkman of Alabama and Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma breezed to renomination in primaries.

Democratic Sens. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia had no party opposition. Neither did Republican Sens. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and John G. Tower of Texas.

Bids To Be Opened May 26

Fielding Potashnick, President of Sikeston Industrial Development Company, today announced that:

Sealed proposals for the construction of a factory addition to Canvas Products Company for the Sikeston Industrial Development Company, will be received at the office of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce, City Administration Building, Sikeston, until 2:00 P.M. Thursday, May 26, at which time bids will be opened publicly.

Plans and specifications for the project may be inspected and information concerning the securing thereof, the conditions of bidding, the required bid security and the contract documents may be obtained, together with the printed form on which BIDS MUST BE MADE, at the office of Buchmueller, Whitworth & Associates, Architects and Engineers, 412 Tanner Street.

The addition will enlarge the existing building by 27,000 square feet and will be used by Canvas Products Company to rearrange their loading, unloading, manufacturing and storage facilities. The new addition will provide additional employment.

Puxico Youth Dies at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 19-year-old Puxico youth, Robert Daniel Bates Jr., died at 10 p.m. in the Southeast Missouri Hospital here, as the result of an accident Wednesday.

The accident occurred near Sturdivant on route V, in Bollinger county when a 1961 GMC lime truck, driven by John C. Bailey, 59, Sturdivant, made a left turn into a barnlot.

As he entered the lot, he struck a 1965 Ford, driven by young Bates, head-on. The body of Bates was taken to the Morgan Funeral Home in Advance. Bailey was cited for careless driving by the highway patrol.

In an accident four miles north of Bragg City yesterday at 2:50 p.m., a 1955 Buick, driven dy Pegry Ann Martin, 17, Hayti, went out of control on a gravel road and turned over. She received cuts on her left jaw. She was charged with not having an operator's license.

Sandra Struwe, 21, Sikeston, received bruises on her head and knees, when struck by a 1961 GMC truck, driven by William Summerlott, 34, East Prairie.

The driver of the truck pulled up to an intersection and did not see the 1962 Dodge, driven by Miss Struwe, whose car was struck in the side. Summerlott was charged with careless driving.

Two persons were injured on a county road, four miles east of Millersville, yesterday at 5:30 a.m.

A 1959 Ford, driven by Donald Smith, 22, Millersville, and a 1966 Chevrolet, driven by Lloyd Seabaugh, 44, also of Millersville, met headon. A passenger, Karen Seabaugh, 19, was injured, and taken to the Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau, while the driver of the Ford, was treated by a Jackson physician.

Sentence Krueger To Three Life Sentences

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS, Tex. AP -- Paul Eric Krueger, who registered in a rooming house under the name Vic Solo a few hours after he shot three fishermen for no apparent reason, was sentenced to three concurrent life terms in prison Wednesday.

The California youth's surprise pleas of guilty and immediate sentencing closed a case which Dist. Atty. Sam Jones of Corpus Christi, called "the most heinous crime ever committed in history of the Texas Gulf Coast."

Krueger, the 18-year-old son of a San Clemente, Calif., industrialist, showed no emotion as sheriff's deputies hustled him from the courtroom. The defense waived all appeal and he will be sent quickly to the state prison at Huntsville.

He was indicted for the April 12, 1965 slayings of John D. Fox, 38; Noel D. Little, 51, and Van D. Carson, 40, all from Corpus Christi. They were shot while fishing off a pier 30 miles south of Corpus Christi.

The trial was transferred to Dallas on a change of venue. A similar move to Brenham earlier this year ended in a stalemate when a jury could not be selected.

Before Judge A. D. Jim Bowie passed sentence, Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill Alexander of Dallas read into the record several affidavits. These detailed how Krueger and a companion embarked on a trip to Venezuela which ended with the unprovoked slayings.

Krueger took the witness stand briefly to state that he had changed his plea voluntarily and the affidavits were "true and correct."

One was given by John Philip Angles, 16, of Hollywood, Calif., who came from California to Texas with Krueger and was present at the slayings. He now is in the state reform school at Gatesville.

Enrollment Tomorrow In Sikeston

Pre - enrollment for next year's first grade pupils will be held in the Sikeston Elementary Schools tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Parents may enroll their children in the school nearest their home. Notification concerning school assignment will be made at that time or at a later date prior to the beginning of the next school term.

The requirements for enrollment and entrance to school for the next term are as follows:

1. A child must have reached his sixth birthday on or before September 15, 1966.

2. Parents must present a record or evidence of a successful vaccination for smallpox; also, immunizations against diptheria and polio are required in order for a child to be admitted to school next September, 1966.

3. Parents must present a valid certificate of birth issued by the state wherein the child was born for entrance to school. (Church or hospital certificates are not acceptable.)

It is absolutely necessary that all first grade children now living in the district who expect to attend school next year be enrolled tomorrow.

It will not be necessary for children to accompany the parents.

A special "orientation day" for the children will be held on May 20th, from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m.

Emergencies

Seven emergency cases were reported at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

More Americans Killed In Viet Nam

STREET WIDENING improvement continues daily in Sikeston. The street department is shown completing the project in the 200 block of North New Madrid street. Each side of the street was widened four feet. Shown at left is William Stokes, superintendent of the department, overseeing the project.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- More Americans were killed in combat last week than troops of the South Vietnamese government, allied military spokesmen announced today.

It was the second time that American combat dead exceeded the Vietnamese in the five years of American involvement in the war.

Spokesmen announced 82 Americans died in battle last week compared with 61 Vietnamese, although the size of the government armed forces is nearly triple that of the 255,000-man U.S. force here.

It was also the lowest number of Vietnamese battle deaths this year.

During the politically turbulent week of April 3-9, 95 Americans were killed in combat compared with 67 government troops.

The 82 Americans killed brought the number of U.S. combat dead to an unofficial total of 1,386 for the year and 3,234 since Jan. 1, 1961. The Vietnamese report 3,334 killed for the year.

Viet Cong losses were reported as 456 killed--the same figure as the previous week's--and 121 captured, an increase of 23.

As the war continued today, U. S. Marines and airborne troops battled the Viet Cong in three operations while American planes continued to pound targets in North Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman reported Navy planes from the Carrier Enterprise came two miles closer to Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port, to hit a Soviet-built missile site Wednesday. The site was 10 miles from the port city, and the spokesman said smoke billowed 2,000 feet into the air after the attack.

The closest previous attack to Haiphong was 12 miles.

Three missiles were fired from the site before American bombs struck it. None of the planes was hit. But near the North Vietnamese town of Dong Hoi an F105 Thunderchief was shot down by antiaircraft fire, and its pilot was reported missing. It was the 236th U.S. plane lost in raids on North Viet Nam.

Ground action picked up sharply, and elements of two U.S. Marine divisions and of the 101st Airborne Brigade were thrown into battle.

About 90 miles northeast of Saigon, in a thick, tropical jungle, the paratroopers attacked an estimated 200 to 250 men. An American military spokesman said they were Viet Cong. Vietnamese sources said it was the crack 141st North Vietnamese regiment which had recently moved into the area.

American troops ploughing through the jungle poured fire on a small enemy unit Wednesday afternoon, and toward the end of the day enemy fire grew

$45,311 Suit Filed By Russian Lady

KANSAS CITY AP -- A suit for recovery of $45,311 in U.S. government bonds has been filed in Federal Court by Mrs. Luba Orland of Moscow, Russia, against her niece, Mrs. Dorothy Ross of Kansas City.

Judge Elmo B. Hunter took Mrs. Orland's petition under advisement following a hearing Wednesday. Judge Hunter indicated he would ask her to be present for trial.

Mrs. Ross, through her attorney, Charles Harris of Wichita, Kan., contended Mrs. Orland is an imposter and that her real aunt is dead.

In her petition, Mrs. Orland states that she is the sister of the late Rugin Spivak, the father of Mrs. Ross. Spivak, who came to the U. S. from Russia in 1911 when he was 17, died here Nov. 19, 1948.

Mrs. Orland also states that the bonds were issued to Spivak in his name and hers.

Mrs. Ross and her husband, Edward Ross, have been indicted by a Wichita grand jury charging them with forging the signature of Luba Orland to the bonds and cashing them in 1962 at Concordia, Kan.

Live Models In London

LONDON AP -- Henry Mose replaced the wax models in his shop window Wednesday with scantily clad girls and stopped traffic in Carnaby Street, the home of British "mod" fashion.

Motorists and pedestrians gaped and halted as Diane James, 18, and Gina Baker, 19, stepped into the window clad in panties and bras.

Cheers turned to boos when the pretty models started to dress. After donning pants suits, they stripped and put on evening dresses.

With the narrow street blocked by cars and about 300 people, police moved in to get traffic moving again.

Moss said he was paying the girls 5 pounds ($14 a day) "plus brandy to keep them warm."

Hearnes Signs Three Bills Into Law

JEFFERSON CITY, AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signed three bills into law Wednesday, including one to allow junior colleges to issue revenue bonds for construction of dormitory, social, recreational and dining facilities.

Another signed was an increase for members of the Board of Probation and Parole. The chairman's pay would be raised from $10,500 a year to $17,500 and associate members would get $15,000 instead of $9,000.

A third bill transfers a tract of land in Rolla from the State Division of Geological Survey and Water Resources to the State Division of Mental Diseases as a site for a new regional mental retardation clinic.

Bids For Roadwork

The Missouri State Highway Commission has issued a call for bids May 27 for highway construction and improvements estimated to cost $13,750,000 on about 115 1/2 miles of the state's highways.

The work covers 15 1/2 miles of Interstate system projects estimated to cost $6,000,000; for 91.3 miles of Primary and Urban system routes estimated to cost $6,000,000 and 8.8 miles of Secondary (farm to market) system work estimated at $1,750,000.

Interstate system projects are:

PLATTE: Interstate Route 29 --highway beautification (planting of trees and shrubs) from the Buchanan county line southeast through Platte City.

ST. LOUIS: Interstate Route 44 -- 0.7 miles grading and 22 and 24-foot wide asphaltic concrete paving for outer roadways from Route 141 east towards Sunset Hills.

NEW MADRID: Interstate Route 55 -- constructing two rest area facilities about a mile northeast of Marston.

NEW MADRID - PEMISCOT: Interstate Route 55 -- 14.8 miles grading, bridging, signing and laying two 24-foot wide divided portland cement concrete pavements from U.S. Route 61, northeast of Marston in New Madrid county, southwesterly to present U.S. Route 61, south of Portageville in Pemiscot county. The work includes nine bridges.

NOTICE TO EDITORS

The State of Illinois and the State Highway Commission of Missouri will ask for bids on the following project on May 20:

ST. CLAIR COUNTY, ILL., AND CITY OF ST. LOUIS, MO: Interstate Route 70 -- construction of concrete bridge hub guard, parapets, median, alumunim handrail and barrier rail, bituminous wearing surface, lighting and signing on the Mississippi River Bridge at Poplar Street between the MacArthur and Eads bridges from East St. Louis, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo.

Primary system work includes:

CLINTON: Route 116 -- 4.8 miles 20-foot wide bituminous mat surfacing from Route 33

New School Park Dedicated

ORAN -- Ceremonies were held yesterday at Oran High School dedicating a campus park to the memory of the late Miss Anita Barnes. Miss Barnes was a member of the Oran faculty for 30 years and was elementary school supervisor at the time of her death in 1964.

The park will be called "Barnes Garden". It was constructed by the members of the Oran High School landscaping class under the supervision of Mr. E. G. Smith, Landscaping Instructor.

The memorial of a sundial and granite marker was financed entirely by members of the student body, board members, faculty and employes.

People Urged To Convert Postal Savings

Postmaster Pleas M. Malcolm today urged citizens who have funds on deposit in the abolished Postal Savings System to convert their holdings into United States Savings Bonds.

"Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, who is Chairman of the Federal Savings Bonds Campaign, has appealed to the 930,000 Americans who have $285,000,000 on deposit with the Post Office Department to convert their investments into United States Savings Bonds.

"I join him in urging local citizens who have Postal Savings Accounts to make that change which will be of great benefit to both themselves and our country. Savings Bonds offer every advantage of convenience and security formerly available through Postal Savings Certificates plus many other advantages unique to Savings Bonds," Malcolm said.

Details about the procedure for conversion can be obtained from the Postmaster of any Postal Savings Depository Post Office, which includes Sikeston.

The Postal Savings System, in operation since January 1, 1911, was discontinued April 27, 1966, by Act of Congress. The Post Office Department presently is liquidating its accounts and July 1, 1967, will transfer all unclaimed assets of the System to the Treasury Department.

The decision to abolish the Postal Savings System was made because of declining interest in it by the general public as a savings and investment medium. Higher interest rates paid by financial institutions and other means of investment had attracted the bulk of funds which formerly went into Postal Savings and the convenience factor was negated by expanded hours of service by banks.

The original purposes of the Postal Savings system were to (1) get money out of hiding, (2) attract the savings of immigrants who were accustomed to saving at post offices in their native countries, (3) provide safe depositories for people who had lost confidence in private banks and (4) provide more convenient depositories for savings of working people who were unable to bank during regular banking hours.

"Those purposes have long since been fulfilled," Postmaster Malcolm commented, "and, as Mr. O'Brien has emphasized, no greater new purpose could now be served by funds on deposit in the Postal Savings System than to put them to work for America in the form of United States Savings Bonds."

Ed Carson

Carson Ends Tenure at Sikeston

Ed Carson, who for the past six years has been instrumental music instructor in the Sikeston junior high and elementary schools, has accepted a position as music instructor at North Junior high school in Kirkwood, St. Louis county for next year.

He will be replaced by Ronald Williams, formerly of Campbell. Williams is presently a music instructor in the Woodland schools at Lutesville.

Before coming to Sikeston in 1960, Carson taught music at Clarkton, Illmo - Scott City and Jackson high school.

Williams is a graduate of Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark., with a bachelor degree in music.

His wife, Sally, was also raised in Campbell. They have one son, Brian two and one-half years old. They are members of the Baptist church.

A "BOSS" HAS NOTHING TO DO . . .

EXCEPT--

--decide what to do and tell somebody to do it.

--listen why it should not be done, or done by somebody else, or done differently.

--follow up to see if it has been done and discover it hasn't.

--inquire why and listen to excuses.

--follow up a second time only to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly.

--point out how it should have been done but conclude that as long as it has been done it may as well be left as it is.

--consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done if he had done it himself in the first place.

But to do it himself would strike at the very foundation of the belief that a "BOSS" has nothing to do.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

The Business Council begins a four-day meeting at Hot Springs, Va., today.

THE STOCK MARKET, according to an old Wall Street adage, hates uncertainty. The sharply declining indices of early May are a tribute to that old saw. Traders seem not so much afraid that the government will raise interest rates and impose new taxes to cool off the boom -- or that it won't -- as they are unhappy that they don't know at all what the government really will do.

Thus a meeting in Hot Springs, Va., in mid-May presents an ideal and most discreet forum for administration leaders to give the business community some fresh confidence. This would be the semi-annual meeting of the Business Council, which is being attended by 140 to 150 executives of the country's biggest corporations. Originally the Business Advisory Council, the group once had a semi-official connection with the Commerce Department. It shook the "Advisory" and the government tie in July 1961 after a dispute with Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges over the secrecy of its meetings and over its composition.

But the relationship with government is still both intimate and respectful. Amond the administration leaders who are crossing the Potomac to brief the BC are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Presidential Economic Adviser Gardner Ackley, UN Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Commerce Secretary John T. Connor, and Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler.

IT WAS FOWLER who on May 5 firmly replied, "No, not yet" to tax increase proposals. He said that current inflationary problems could prove temporary. A hastily concocted tax boost could be an "overcure." What is needed is "to apply as much restraint as necessary -- and no more."

Two days earlier Federal Reserve Chairman William McC. Martin had called for a "simple, clean-cut, across-the-board increase in income taxes -- both corporate and individual." Martin argued that a tax increase is "the logical way" to deal with inflation problems which arise from the federal budget deficit. He said that the United States is "very near full employment, if not at it."

This point of view was echoed on May 5 by Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund. Schweitzer said that in the present situation he would "rather err on the side of increased taxes, and doing things like that."

THE THREAT OF INFLATION bothered the Federal Reserve Board long before it did the President's advisers. When the Fed raised its discount rate last Dec. 5, the almost monolithic reaction of administration spokesmen was chagrin. The President himself, in his neo-Populist fashion, had told the Business Council only three days earlier: "We can produce the goods and services we require without overheating the economy."

An interesting middle position is taken by the Washington Post. The newspaper suggests that Congress pass a tax increase without an effective date. Then the actual hike -- when and if -- would be made after an intensive consultation with government and business experts.

At any rate, the administration will soon want to share its thinking. The present meeting of the powerful and prestigious Business Council offers a good medium.

A POOR LOCATION

There is no such thing as a "poor location" for a store that advertises and promotes.

The right kind of advertising can create traffic for any store regardless of location. All that is necessary is to give the customer a good valid reason for going to the sideline location.

There is one other point worth remembering, too. Once the advertising program is started it must be continued. This means that the appropriation for advertising must be budgeted to go around the year.

A BITE OF CROW

We fought him in the past -- as hard as we knew how -- but passing years and cooling passions have opened our ears to the beginning whispers of history telling us we were wrong: Harry Truman was a good president.

We thought we were right, as did 80 percent of the nation's dailies representing 90 percent of all daily circulation. Yet the people told us we were wrong, and history upholds the people. After nearly 20 years, a thread of small truth found here, another there, have woven into a larger tapestry of truth. Integrity and conscience demand we confess our sin, apologize for our arrogance and honor our fellow Missourian.

Today, more than 400 friends honored him--ambassadors, statesmen, governors, and just plain people -- with a birthday party for Harry. The President and the chief justice of the Supreme Court took time from a busy day to call him their sincere best wishes. Not as a gesture of polity, but because here is a man who deserves honor.

Harry Truman turned 82 yesterday. A benevolent 82? Hardly; a ball of fire never cools as long as there is flame, and that "give-'em-hell" flame will burn fiercely as long as there's a breath left in the Man from Missouri.

We remember Mr. Truman vividly on the night he accepted the vice presidential nomination in his native town of Lamar. It was our first glimpse -- not a favorable one, for his voice was flat and slightly raspy, his speech uninspired. Mr. Truman never could speak from script, but off the cuff, Harry was a delight to newsmen.

The whispers of history are reminders of courage we once failed to see -- courage seldom seen in politics or statecraft.

For example in 1948, Harry Truman was licked, and everybody -- even we -- told him so. Three years in the White House -- foot in mouth many times -- had not endeared him to Americans who, a Gallup Poll revealed, were nearly two to one against him.

His party was split, not once but twice, as Henry Wallace and Strom Thurmond formed their own parties. New Dealers turned against him, Labor scorned him, and a son of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt led an open revolt to find another candidate.

In June, the Republicans, well-financed and well unified, nominated Tom Dewey, a proven administrator with a national reputation. In July, the Democrats nominated Truman for lack of another candidate, and convention banners, "We're MILD About Harry," revealed his party's real feeling. Democrats went home to dream of happier days -- in say, four or eight more years. Federal office holders put their homes up for sale getting ready for the exodus from Washington.

Democratic leaders wouldn't support his campaign, wouldn't even raise funds for it. Harry hit for the hinterlands -- the people of America. With strong, earthy, common-people talk, he fired them up. They, finally meeting and seeing this fighting bantam, gave him their hearts.

He couldn't win; everyone said it, even on election eve. No one believed in Harry -- none but the people. Result: the political upset of the century.

Courage? Statecraft? In Greece, Harry Truman stepped in and halted a Communist takeover; in Iran, he hurled the challenge of conquest back in the Kremlin teeth; in all Western Europe, he stood firm until Moscow backed down. No wonder Winston Churchill later said to Truman, "You, more than any man, saved Western Civilization."

NEW YORK AP -- How long has it been since you've taken a teen-ager to lunch?

Why not do so today -- just as a gesture of peace and to let him know you recognize him as a member of the human race?

Surely there is a teen-ager in your neighborhood who doesn't carry a switchblade knife, gulp goofballs, or go around beating up old people and snatching purses.

The teen-ager in recent years has been the target of a lot of abuse from reformers, social critics and professional woecriers. It is as if we grownups, seeing the mess the world is in, were trying to wash out our own guilt by making our next generation feel guilty.

Many teen-agers feel it is them against the world, for everywhere they turn they meet a fresh tirade.

What the average teen-ager needs is not so much a friend in court -- because he isn't haled into court -- but a friend out of court. He doesn't need someone to gnat-pick him to death, but someone to try to understand his confusion and groping dreams.

Adults smile tolerantly or sneer intolerantly at the problems of adolescence. But being an adolescent is a terrible ordeal, a lonely and private struggle of the reaching soul, a swim for life in trouble waters.

Never again in this world does one need as much help as he does in the eight years between 12 and 20, when all's in doubt and nought seems certain. Never again will he have to sift and choose between so many conflicting and bewildering values and possibilities.

For all the appalling wildness of a minority of teen-agers, the typical one today really isn't so bad, is he?

He may watch television too much, talk on the telephone too long, be a bit brash in dealing with his elders, afflicted with acne, and subject to leg cramps if he has to walk more than three blocks.

They are more than balanced by virtues. The teen-ager is no lazyboned shirker. He is being stuffed with ever-expanding knowledge as if he were a Strasbourg goose, and spends more hours studying at school and at home than most men work in offices or factories.

He is no soft-muscled coward either. He is carrying the brunt of a jungle and air war in far-off Viet Nam, a war as tough as American men have ever fought anywhere. These young soldier idealists -- and most of them are idealistic about their mission -- should be our nation's major pride.

The truth is that the American teen-ager, on the whole, is as good as any that time has ever produced. And instead of knocking him, it might be a good idea to take the kid out to lunch, pat him on the back and tell him how lucky we are to have him around in days that may get more dangerous before they get safer.

REAPPORTIONMENT -- In describing the proposed constitutional amendment on state reapportionment, Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) said, "It is simply an opportunity to give the people of this country -- by constitutional amendment, the right to decide how they want to be represented in the states. Why stand in the way of the people being permitted to make a choice as provided in the Constitution?"

AND 30 1/2 NOT TO GROW ON

A farmer in Huron County, Ohio, notes Tax Foundation, Inc., recently took a personal puzzlement to the editor of his local paper, the "Wellington Enterprise," in these words:

"Dear Editor: The boys at the office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service . . . .say there's too much corn in the country, so they'll give me $1,170 to not plant 30 1/2 acres of it.

"But they don't want me to not grow too much corn so if I'll plant the other 30½ acres of my allotment they'll give me another $860, or $2,030 for growing 30 1/2 acres and not growing 30 1/2 acres. $585 of this is cash on the barrel head as soon as I'll sign on the dotted line. The balance I'll have to wait for until I get my 30½ acres grown and my 30 1/2 acres not grown.

"It doesn't take much work to not grow 30 1/2 acres of corn so I can get me a job and work long enough to get laid off. Then I can get paid for not working and for not growing corn and I can spend my time writing letters to the editor."

As of the end of 1965, the Commodity Credit Corporation had 530 million bushels of price-supported corn in inventory. It cost Uncle Sam $647 million, or $13.56 per U.S. family to acquire this surplus corn, the Foundation estimated.

"Yes, yes," she urged, "go on . . ."

A MATTER OF HANDS

What one hand giveth, another hand taketh awa.

That is often the case with taxes.

The Washington publicists see to it that all-out notice is given to tax reductions. But it's a different story with tax increases. As little as possible is officially said of them.

Take, for instance, the social security tax. From the time the system got under way in 1937 until 1949, the maximum was employer. Under existing law, it is scheduled to reach $222 on each of the payers in 1968.

However, a pending bill, which includes the dubious medicare program, would shoot it up farther and faster. By 1987, each employee earning $6,600 or more a year would have to pay $369.60 and his employer would match it, for a total of $739.20.

That isn't the end to the tax story. The states have been joining in the act, with new or increased sales, income and other such taxes.

So, to repeat, what one hand giveth, another hand taketh away.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE DESIRE TO BE FREE

It is a grave error to assume that most men automatically desire freedom above all else. If they did, the history of mankind would have been vastly different, and far less tragic.

Some men in any age can always be found who put freedom first. But they must never cease to teach their fellow-men its blessings, both by words and by example. People who are losing, or who have lost their freedom, find that their lives have become barren, monotonous, empty and meaningless, but they do not understand why.

There is a concerted effort among all who wish to supplant freedom with power, or find freedom an obstacle to their plans, to convince people that freedom is undesirable after all. Their favorite device is to convince the people that security should come first and freedom later. That way they justify the use of force, the antithesis of freedom, in order to promise economic security.

Thinking that most people know little history, these planners for a total state are confident that most people do not know, and will not learn, that only in freedom and the absence of coercion is the kind of production possible which can banish poverty forever.

The desire for freedom does exist in most people. But, like a delicate plant, it must be carefully cultivated. The natural yearning for freedom must be defended and justified against all the insidious doctrines of collectivism and forced altruism that would kill it. That is the constant task and the high calling of freedom's champions. HLH

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- Art Buchwald, my non-serious colleague, came out to the farm the other day for lunch. Nosing around the place, he remarked:

"I'm here for Senator Dodd to see if the place is worth $5,000,000."

"Of course Sen. Dodd has been damaged," remarked Mrs. P. "He won't be able to hold those $100-a-plate dinners anymore and put the proceeds in his own pocket."

All kidding aside, there are some important aspects to libel suits brought or threatened for the purpose of stopping public discussion.

John F. Sonnett, attorney for Sen. Dodd, let one aspect out of the bag when he appeared before Judge Alexander Holtzoff over the weekend, when courts normally are not in session and with only one side being heard, in Dodd's recent $5,000,000 publicity stunt. Very frankly Sonnett stated "The vendetta will not voluntarily stop" unless "immediate steps" are taken.

In other words, a primary purpose of Dodd's libel action was to shut off further revelations regarding Dodd.

ANOTHER LIBEL THREAT

Simulatenously, in San Francisco, the Christopher Farms Dairy sent telegrams to all of our California newspapers warning against publication of my columns regarding the convictions of George Christopher for watering milk and taking farmer kickbacks. Christopher is now running for governor of California.

The telegrams were signed by James C. Purcell on behalf of Christopher Dairy Farms, a "corporation." The telegrams emphasized three times that this "corporation" might be damaged, implying that a corporation could scare editors more than an individual.

It did scare some California editors into suppressing the column. It also scared radio station KFBK in Sacramento, owned by the McClatchy Newspapers, into suppressing part of a radio broadcast.

However, the Christopher Farms Corporation is owned by the man who aspires to the highest office in California, which rates with New York as a stepping-stone to the presidency; so it would seem fair that the voters know the full record of such an important candidate whether he hides behind a "corporation" or not.

The record consisted of criminal pleas entered in the court records and the inspection books of the California Health Department. These are privileged documents, open to public inspection. However, the average voter hasn't the time to go up to Marin County or San Francisco to look at the records, so he has to rely on the press to inform him.

The press, of course, is protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution in performing this duty and more recently by the Supreme Court's decision in New York Times versus Sullivan that public officials are definitely subject to criticism without newspapers being subjected to the expense of jury trials; though I confess that some U.S. District judges have been very slow about reading and following the Supreme Court's opinion.

In any event, regardless of the Dodd libel suit or other threats of suits, this column will continue to do its best to report the facts regarding public officials or would-be public officials who have had conflicts of interest. Sen. Dodd, Democrat of Connecticut, and Ex-Mayor Christopher, Republican of California, both fall in this category.

RELUCTANT ALLIES

It's being kept out of the British press, but U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce in London has quietly sounded out the British about transferring some of their 50,000 troops, now defending Malaysia, to South Viet Nam.

Behind the Ambassador's discreet inquiry is the fact that President Sukarno of Indonesia is now stripped of his power; so military pressure on Malaysia has eased. This makes several thousand jungle-trained British troops relatively idle. Since they are next door to Viet Nam, the United States would have to have them transferred to the South Vietnamese battlefront.

Ambassador Bruce's suggestion, however, was not well received. Opposition to the Viet Nam war is so intense in Britain that the Labor government would have a revolt from its own members if British troops were used in Viet Nam.

American diplomats abroad are doing their best to win friends for Premier Ky in South Viet Nam, but it's tough going.

Ambassador Walworth Barbour in Tel Aviv has called upon Israeli Foreign Minister Aba Eban to ask Israel to recognize South Viet Nam. Since Premier Ky has publicly stated that Hitler is his hero, this is quite a request to make of a Jewish foreign minister. Furthermore, American policies in South Viet are most unpopular all over Asia, whether Moslem or Jewish.

Foreign Minister Bean is an old friend of the United States, served a long time in Washington as ambassador, but in polite language he told Ambassador Barbour "No."

CAPITAL NEWS CAPSULES

Politics Pay -- The Communications Satellite Corporation, a semi-public organization which beams radio and TV signals off a satellite to the rest of the world, is supposed to be non-political, but it certainly understands politics. It has placed one ground station in Washington state, home of Chairman Warren Magnuson of the Senate Commerce Committee, and another in Moorefield, West Virginia, the district of Chairman Harley Staggers of the House Commerce Committee.

Valenti's salary -- Jack Valenti will receive a $125,000 salary as czar of the motion picture industry, plus $50,000 for expenses. In addition, Louis Nizer, who was pushed out of the job when the President intervened on behalf of his young assistant, will get a $1 million fee to be Hollywood's legal counsel. It pays to have friends in the White House.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Militant Leftist Bloc Launched Inside Labor To End Conflict They Call "Dirty U.S. War" in Viet Nam

New York: -- A militant labor leader, who has accused the U.S. of fighting a "dirty war which is poisoning us," has been pushing a whirlwind campaign to organize a powerful union opposed to American policies in Southeast Asia.

It is a daring move. For, if successful, the new bloc could mobilize thousands in every great city. But it is the kind of political venture with which its leader, David Livingston, has long been identified.

Though his name hardly is a byword in the land, in informed labor circles he is synonymous with mass, militant, direct labor action and perpetual left-wing stormy petrel-ism on all issues since he helped launch the Bring the Boys Back Home Movement at the end of the last big war.

Now he wants to end this one--fast. And he has gathered around him a bloc of other militants in labor who met Tuesday, May 3, and launched the Trade Union Division of SANE.

With Mr. Livingston, who is president of District 65 of the wholesale and retail international, are leaders of unions with several hundred thousand members in the hotel, banking, auto, fur, jewelry, hospital, transit, men's clothing, state, county and municipal, oil, chemical, atomic and furniture fields.

With them before the formal launching in an auditorium near the United Nations Plaza was lanky Al Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers.

After some phone conversations with Mr. Livingston, Mr. Shanker, leader of some 40,000 New York City school teachers, quit the group. His letter to Mr. Livingston, written after he saw the "call" dispatched by the organizing group to hundreds of union chiefs, speaks quite succinctly for itself:

"Dear Dave: As I indicated to you in an earlier phone call, I did not want to speak out against our government policy in Viet Nam," Mr. Shanker wrote on April 22.

"My personal position and that of the national American Federation of Teachers is to support President Johnson. However, I did agree that it would be a good idea to have a Trade Union Division of SANE, and I did agree to act as a sponsor for a founding meeting.

"Unfortunately, the invitation that went out, while worded somewhat mildly, is also misleading.

"It talks about the fact that many have 'spoken out' on Viet Nam and goes on to say that 'one group of Americans conspicuous by their absence from the national dialogue has been organized labor.' I do not think this is so.

"The AFL-CIO and many unions have spoken out in support of the government's policy.

"Thus there can be no other interpretation of this statement than that it is the intention to organize a group to speak out against the government's policy in Viet Nam, something which I did not intend to do and do not intend to do.

"Also, after some thought, I really do not think it is a good idea to have a trade union branch of SANE since I don't think that unionists have any special interest in the problems of war and peace. We all face this issue as citizens rather than unionists.

"I think. . .it would be best . . .to remove my name from furture participation."

The SANE call, signed by 16 fairly influential labor leaders, charged that "we intend to rectify" the "condition" -- meaning the alleged failure of American labor to speak out.

Many believe this to be a strange charge, indeed. Mr. Livingston, an avid reader of labor resolutions, should have known that the AFL-CIO national convention said after careful consideration of the Viet Nam conflict:

"The Communists are waging a war of conquest, a war for the annexation of South Viet Nam by Ho Chi Minh's regime. This war is not an isolated local conflict. It is an integral phase of the Communist drive for dominating the world. . .

"In this realization, the American people fully support President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam. Our Convention pledges unstinting support by the AFL-CIO of all measures the Administration might deem necessary to halt Communist aggression and secure a just and lasting peace."

This was reaffirmed by the Executive Council two months later.

It is therefore as obvious as the stone face on the Sphinx that Mr. Livingston and his militant bloc are ignoring the voice of some 18 million unionists. It is obvious that Mr. Livingston and his group are breaking with their national leadership in the first mass schism on the labor front.

It is a daring move. It will be countered. There will be noise on the nation's streets.

A formidable left wing has surfaced in the labor movement -- and, of course, at this crucial moment in the nation's history.

Miss Darlene Buchanan

Buchanan-Owens Vows To Be Pledged June 18

Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Buchanan wish to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Darlene, to Danny Owens, son of Mrs. Willis Owens and the late Mr. Owens of Vanduser.

The bride-to-be graduated from Sikeston high school and is presently employed as a bookkeeper at Jarvis and Conn Motor Company.

The prospective groom graduated from Vanduser high school and attended college in Rolla. He is now employed at the State Highway Department office.

Plans are being made for a June 18 wedding at 7:30 p.m. at the First General Baptist church. Friends and relatives are invited.

Alumni Association Has Annual Meeting Saturday

MATTHEWS -- The Alumni Association of Matthews high school held its 28th annual dinner meeting Saturday evening. Eighty - seven members and guests were present for the banquet served in the multi-purpose room by members of the Christian Women's Fellowship. The school colors, black and gold, were used in the decorations, class year dates decorated the tables, and gold chrysanthemums were used in the floral arrangements on the tables.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Sam Harbin, vice-president of business developments and customer relations of the Bank of Sikeston. Harbin discussed changes in values, morals, attitudes toward essentials and luxuries. Many in the audience were in agreement that we provide our youth too much and deprive them the opportunity of developing the initiative and satisfaction of earning for themselves.

A quaret composed of Mrs. Luthada Ashley King, Mrs. Jeno Silverthorn Richards, Joe Silverthorn, and B. B. Conrad, accompanied by Miss Louanna Sutton, sang numbers that struck a note of nostalgia for alumni who were former glee club members.

Billy M. Burch presided during the business session. The invocation was given by Nelson Lumsden. Lester M. King, superintendent of schools, welcomed the group. Response was made by Wallace Waters. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Alma Daniels Curtis. Announcement was made that Miss Sharon Shorter was the recipient last year of the $100 alumni scholarship awarded the highest ranking senior enrolling at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau.

The Class of 1932 enjoyed a letter from Capt. Curtis Tetley of Falls Church, Va., which was accompanied by an album of color photos of his family, the oldest grandchild, and newspaper clippings concerning family activities. He mentioned the embarrassment he experienced soon after his last air view of Matthews high school. In 1942, during World War II, he was flying a plane. When an assignment brought him through the area, he "buzzed" the school, proceeded northward to the Pharris Ridge community where he flew too low when he "buzzed" the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Tetley, as a signal to meet him at the Sikeston Airport. The strand of utility wire on the plane bore mute evidence as to the cause of the community being in darkness for several hours.

The group voted to have the next meeting in February or March of 1968, the definite date to be set by the executive committee. Officers elected by acclamation as presented by chairman of the nominating committee, Gene Curtis were: President Mrs. Alma Daniels Curtis, vice president, Billy M. Burch; Secretary Mrs. Patsy McCoy Payne; and Treasurer D. G. Scott, Jr. Though there will be no general meeting in 1967 the scholarship will be awarded by the executive committee.

Those attending, other than from the Matthews - Sikeston area, were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Daugherty, Jr., Topeka, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. (Doris Jo Keaton) Don Lewis, Creston, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. (Barbara Ratcliff) Clifford Proffer, Mrs. Carlean Harber Binford, Weldon and Kirkland Harber, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Claudie M. (Dorothy Kelso) Walls, Normal, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hubbard, Cairo, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Limbaugh, Chaffee; Mr. and Mrs. Hestel Panter, Portageville, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ayers, Dexter.

Golf Notes

Thirteen Sikeston ladies journeyed to Blytheville, Ark., Tuesday for a day of golf and a luncheon.

The weather was very cool but dry, and all reports a very good time.

Mrs. J. F. Cox and Mrs. Glen Joyner tied for honors representing the Sikeston Club.

For the golfers who stayed at home there was golf as usual. Prizes were awarded for putting skill. The winners were Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Charles Stamp and Mrs. Joe Dye.

Lotus Emerson joined a group of players at the Cape Girardeau J. C. Course and came home one golf ball richer.

It has been overlooked that the local players are invited to Kennett next Tuesday. However, since many of the ladies take off at the drop of a golf tee, a delegation will be made up for the trip.

May 24 is visiting day in Sikeston and some 60 guests are expected.

An old floor trunk can be used as an extra low table or seat if you dress it up with a colorful cotton slip-cover. Trim the cover with ball fringe or cotton braid, stitched around the top and bottom edges.

For hot-weather driving, use cool, comfortable seat covers made of cotton terry cloth. Elasticized for perfect fit, covers are absorbent and easy to keep clean. Just remove and toss in washing machine.

Mrs. Joy Pasaka

Joy Pasaka Accepted in Dance Group

Joy Pasaka, dance instructor of Sikeston, has been notified this week of her acceptance into Dance Masters of America. This is a professional organization of nationally recognized dancing teachers who are members in good standing of Dance Masters of America, Inc., of New York, N. Y. To belong to this organization, a teacher must be judged from both a personal and professional viewpoint to make sure her students are deriving the maximum benefits of the tremendous values found in properly taught dancing. Since Mrs. Pasaka teaches more than one type of dancing, it was necessary for her to take two tests -- one in ballet and one that covered tap and jazz. The testing was in three parts, written, verbal and demonstration.

Part of the code of dance ethics a teacher must accept upon becoming a member of Dance Masters of America, is constant study of the dance as it is a living art.

Mrs. Pasaka will study ballet this summer in St. Louis and jazz in Memphis, as well as attending the clinic of Dance Caravan in St. Louis.

Several of Mrs. Pasaka's dancing students, of whom she is proud, are appearing in the Little Theatre production, "The King and I." They are Debbie Wheeler, Vinnie Ralph, Janie Vandivort, Cindi Waters, Anne Heckemeyer, Peggy McMullin, Linda Hale and Nancye Trigg.

The 1966 Joy Pasaka Dance Revue entitled "Hey Look Us Over," will be held June 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the junior high school auditorium.

Canalou PTA Installs New Officers Monday

CANALOU -- The Canalou P. T. A. met Monday for its last meeting for the school term. Mrs. Fred Lasters, a former P. T. A. president, installed the new officers. Mrs. Lasters held a lighted candle which represented the organization.

The officers are president, Mrs. Betty McCann; secretary, Mrs. Beulah Peterson and treasurer, Mrs. Martha Wilkening. Each lighted a candle from the one Mrs. Lasters held thus taking a light to direct them in their offices. Mrs. Lasters presented each with a pin.

Mrs. Collins Is Hostess to Class Meeting

The Kings Daughter class of the First Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. F. F. Collins Monday afternoon. Mrs. James W. Hackney was a visitor.

Mrs. Ruth Turner opened the meeting with prayer. The devotional was given by Mrs. Fred Tope. The title was "Praise the Lord" and the reading was from Psalms 113.

Poems in honor of Mother's Day were given. Mrs. Collins gave "Way of Cross." Mrs. Edith Spidell, the class teacher, read "Faith of Our Mothers." "A Mother Dear" was given by Mrs. Thomas Mathis. Mrs. Wade Moore read "My Mother" and Mrs. Tope gave a reading, "What Difference Does It Make."

Mrs. Stella Freeman, class president presided over the business meeting. The secretary's, treasurer's and group captain's reports were given and accepted.

Mrs. Spidell led the closing prayer. The meeting adjourned for a social meeting. The hostess served cake, punch and coffee.

The June meeting will be with Mrs. Tope.

Dogs Streak Past Notre Dame

Manley Hurls Two-Hitter In 4-0 Victory

The two-hit, five strikeout pitching of Sikeston pitcher Rudy Manley overpowered the visiting Notre Dame Bulldogs here yesterday afternoon 4-0.

The victory was the eighth of the year for the Dogs against one loss.

Manley was the Bulldog of the hour, pitching a near spotless game and using his batpower to club his opponents for two hits. Manley, while going two for two at the plate, drove in two runs and scored one for himself.

Manley was tapped for only one extra base-hit, as he had to pitch to only two extra batters. Manley was backed up by relief catcher Dave Shy, who connected on a putout at second base with a fine throw.

The Bulldogs next game will be in the state high school baseball tournament. They will meet either Cape Central or Fox of Arnold at Festus, Mo., next week.

Bulldog coach Hal Lane switched up the batting order. With power hitting catcher Jim Ramsey out of the lineup the team needed the punch in the middle of the batting order.

Rudy Manley set the side down in order the first three innings, with the Notre Dame nine collecting only one hit in the first three innings, and that by pitcher Paul Compass who was thrown out trying to steal second base in the second inning.

The Bulldogs started right to work on Notre Dame's pitcher. With the first two batters making outs the Dogs started a rally with Limbaugh lining a single to right, stole second, Mike Garner singled, moving Limbaugh to third, and Limbaugh scored on Rudy Manley's fielders choice. Garner collected the last out of the inning by trying to steal third base.

Notre Dame collected their second hit of the game in the fourth inning. Ernst grounded out to the first baseman, Flaker collected the hit, Wulfers walked putting men on second and first with one out, but star hurler Manley got the next two batters to fly-out.

Richard Montgomery started the Dogs rally in the third inning, after the second inning ended up with Ellison collecting the only hit for the Dogs in the inning. Montgomery singled after leadoff batter Greg Bailey flyed to the left fielder. Montgomery collected the second out as Limbaugh grounded to the third baseman who threw to second getting Montgomery. Mike Garner reached first on an error and Manley singled driving in Limbaugh. Mike Couch doubled driving in Garner and Manley. Couch was thrown out trying to reach third base, for the last out of the inning.

The Dogs had another scoring chance in the sixth inning as Garner grounded out for the first out of the game, Manley and Couch with hits and Ellison walking, loading the bases with one out, were unable to score as the next two batters popped out ending the inning.

Garner collected two stolen bases for the Dogs while Limbaugh bagged one.

Knicks Grab Russell In First Round

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- Cazzie Russell of Michigan comes out of Wednesday's National Basketball Association draft as the No. 1 college player in the country -- to the surprise of nobody.

The New York Knickerbockers, who had won first pick on the flip of a coin with the Detroit Pistons, really never hesitated in picking Russell.

"We felt this was the guy all along," said general manager Eddie Donovan of the Knicks. "After we won the toss we knew this was the man we wanted. He has a strong body and great basketball knowledge.

"We expect to try him at guard although he has the ability to be a forward, too. His forte is not shooting. He's just a well-rounded player.

"I spent a couple of hours with him at Ann Arbor about a week ago and I have a feeling he will play with us. I was very impressed by him as an individual."

Russell, who says he also has an offer from the Harlem Globetrotters, said he would make a decision next week.

The Pistons also wanted Russell but settled for Dave Bing of Syracuse as the No. 2 pick among the 79 players selected by the 10 clubs.

The pros naturally put the emphasis on size. Russell is 6-foot-5 1/2 and 218 pounds. Bing is 6-3 and 185.

Clude Lee of Vanderbilt, 6-9, 220, already has made plans to play with a company team in Milan, Italy. However, after he was picked by San Francisco in the first round, he said he would talk about pro ball in the near future.

Matt Guokas of St. Joseph's in Philadelphia had said he planned to play college ball another year but he might change his mind, too, after being taken in the first round by Philadelphia.

Bill Russell, new coach of the Boston Celtics, made his first appearance in the job as he and general manager Red Auerbach, the retiring coach, picked Jim Barnett of Oregon, 6-4, 180, as their first-round draftee.

Jerry Chambers, who led Utah to the Far West regional title in the NCAA competition, said he was shocked to learn the Los Angeles Lakers made him their No. 1 pick. "I'm happy but I thought Cincinnati or St. Louis would take me first," he said. "But it's great. I used to play against Elgin Baylor back home in Washington, D. C."

Walt Wesley, 6-11, 235, was the biggest man taken in the first round. The big boy from Kansas went to the Cincinnati Royals. Dave Schellhase of Purdue, the nation's top college scorer, lasted until Chicago got the 10th and last pick in the first round.

Other first round picks were Lou Hudson of Minnesota, by St. Louis, and Jack Marin of Duke, by Baltimore. Hudson is a top-flight scorer who suffered a broken hand in early season and played only 17 games.

Like Mays? Curt Flood Thinks It's a Compliment

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Curt Flood of the St. Louis Cardinals has spent most of his major league career playing the same position as Willie Mays.

Therefore, Curt Flood could be pardoned for feeling slightly bitter—if he felt any bitterness.

"Being second to Willie Mays?" Flood said. "How can that bother someone? Being second to him is quite a compliment because he certainly is one of the greatest athletes of the decade.

"I don't worry about it. Willie makes his money and I make mine because we both do well."

If Mays is the greatest, National Leaguers ask, how far behind is Curt Flood?

During the last five years he has batted .322, .296, .302, .311 and .310, but he's been on just one all-star team—as a pinch-runner in 1964.

"Well," Curt philosophized, "every year either Hank Aaron or Roberto Clemente gets hurt, too, and they're pretty fair ballplayers."

The 1966 season may be the biggest challenge yet for Flood, who has become the key man in the St. Louis offense now that Cardinal general manager Bob Howsam has completely remolded the 1964 World Champions.

Gone are Ken Boyer, Bill White and Dick Groat, which means opposing pitchers will be able to concentrate more on Flood this season.

"Personally," Flood said, "I hated to see our ball club break up because those men had valuable talent. They were the best in their fields. But baseball is like any other business. You have to look further than a year or two ahead. And that's what our front office was doing. Bad, good or indifferent, I will still give my 100 per cent."

Flood's 100 per cent, unfortunately, will not match Mays who, at 34, is having another great season.

"I think Willie can go five more years," Flood said. "He takes tremendous care of himself.

"If he's slowing up at all, it comes in spots. About the only time I noticed it is in his ball park where it's colder and he can't be as loose all the time. But when he gets into our ball park where it's hot, he's the old Mays—unbelievable.

"It's amazing how he keeps that pace up because he has so many outside pressures. I know I resist as many outside things as possible because I feel baseball demands all your time and concentration."

The pressure on Willie Mays grows each season, but Willie's batting average, his home runs and his RBIs grow proportionately.

Five more years.

Curt Flood isn't counting.

Major League Figuring

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- What were the odds before the start of this season that anyone other than Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale or Claude Osteen would pitch the first shutout for the Los Angeles Dodgers? Rookie Don Sutton turned it in Wednesday night in a 5-0 victory over Philadelphia.

Here are the cold facts about how the weather is affecting the major league baseball schedule: In the first 31 days of the season through Wednesday, 41 games have been postponed, 25 in the American League and 16 in the National. In the first 31 days last year, only 21 games were weathered out.

Hammerin' Hank Aaron is nailing down a fast home run pace. He's 23 games ahead of 1965. He hit his 10th and 11th homers in the Braves' 29th game, an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night. Aaron did not hit his 11th homer last season until his 52nd game, on June 19. He finished with 32.

Willie Horton, Detroit's young outfielder, has a lot of catching up to do. After 17 games a year ago, he was leading the American League in batting with a .406 average, and had nine homers and 21 runs batted in. After 17 games this season, his average is .189 with only two homers and eight RBI.

The Phillies aren't getting much hit production from Bill White, whom they obtained from St. Louis last winter. The veteran first baseman, usually a .300 hitter, slipped to .198 Wednesday night after four hitless efforts in the game against Los Angeles.

BATTING -- Hank Aaron, Braves, hit two home runs and drove in five runs as Atlanta snapped its five-game losing streak with an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati.

PITCHING -- Gaylord Perry, Giants, won his fifth game with a six-hitter as San Francisco ran its winning streak to 10 with a 6-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

Major League Roster Cut Down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major League rosters were down to 25 players today following last-minute transactions that resulted in the shifting of several well-known baseball names.

The deadline for reaching the mandatory 25 players was midnight Wednesday. Dick Schofield, Larry Jaster, Wes Covington, Chuck Schilling and Tom Cheney were among those asked to pack their traveling bags.

Schofield was sold to the New York Yankees by San Francisco. The Yanks made room for the veteran shortstop by sending pitcher Jack Cullen to Toledo of the International League on option.

Jaster, a starting pitcher for St. Louis during the first month of the season, was optioned to Tulsa of the Pacific Coast League. The southpaw had a 1-2 record for the Cards.

Covington, 34-year-old outfielder, was released outright by the Chicago Cubs. He had been acquired from Philadelphia last winter.

Schilling, former Boston second baseman, was optioned by Minnesota to its Denver affiliate in the PCL. The Twins also cut outfielder Ted Uhlaender and Joe Nossek. Nossek was claimed on waivers by Kansas City while Uhlaender was optioned to Denver.

The Washington Senators sold Cheney to Hawaii of the PCL. He set a major league record for strikeouts in one game when he fanned 21 in a 16-inning game against Baltimore in 1962.

THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

A Review of the 1964 Term

PROPERTY AND BUSINESS
(Conclusion)
(Justice Black dissention)

His condemnation of the philosophy by which explicit provisions of the Constitution could be read away if the Court found "competing" considerations was:

The subvert the protection of the Contract Clause here, as well as the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments' prohibition against taking private property for public use without just compensation, the Court has, as I said, imported into this constitutional insupportable due process a "balancing" technique to which I have objected in cases arising under the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, and which has done so much to water down the safeguards of First Amendment freedoms. The Court says, "Laws which restrict a party to those gains reasonably to be expected from the contract are not subject to attack under the Contract Clause, notwithstanding that they technically alter an obligation of a contract." Otherwise stated, a person can make a good deal with a State but if it turns out to be a very good deal for him or a very bad deal for the State, the State is free to renege at any time. And whether gains can "reasonably be expected from the contract" is of course, in the Court's view, for this Court to decide. Thus this Court's judgment as to "reasonableness" of a law impairing or even repudiating a valid contract becomes the measure of the Contract Clause's protection.

The Court's position that the right of redemption is a mere technicality which Texas could alter was rebutted as follows:

Much as has been said about the wealth of Texas, I was unaware until now that a multi-million dollar windfall for that State could be dismissed as a mere technicality; it sounds like more than a technicality to me, and perhaps to the purchaser whose rights Texas took away from them.

He concluded:

At most the Court's reasons boil down to the fact that Texas' contracts, perhaps very wisely made a long time ago, turned out when land soared in value, and particularly after oil was discovered, to be costly to the State. As the Court euphemistically puts it, the contracts were "not wholly effectual to serve the objectives of the State's land program many decades later. Settlement was no longer the objective, but revenues * * *" among other things were. In plainer language, the State decided it had made a bad deal and wanted out. There is nothing unusual in this. It is a commonplace that land values steadily rise when population increases, and rise sharply when valuable minerals are discovered, and that many sellers would be much richer and happier if when lands go up in value they were able to welch on their sales. No plethora of words about State school funds can conceal the fact that to get money easily without having to tax the whole public, Texas took the easy way out and violated the Contract Clause of the Constitution as written and as applied up to now. If the value of these lands and of valid contracts to buy them have gone up in value, that increase belongs in equity as well as in sound constitutional interpretation not to Texas, but to the many people who agreed to these contracts under what now turns out to have been a mistaken belief that Texas would keep the obligations it gave to those who dealt with it.

All this for me is just another example of the delusiveness of calling "balancing" a "test." With its deprecatory view of the equities on the side of Simmons and other claimants and its remarkable sympathy for the State, the Court through its balancing process states the case in a way inevitably destined to bypass the Contract Clause and let Texas break its solemn obligation. As the Court's opinion demonstrates, constitutional adjudication under the balancing method becomes simply a matter of this Court's deciding for itself which result in a particular case seems in the circumstances the more acceptable governmental policy and then stating the facts in such a way that the considerations in the balance lead to the result. Even if I believed that we as Justices of this Court had the authority to rely on our judgment of what is best for the country instead of trying to interpret the language and purpose of our written Constitution, I would not agree that Texas should be permitted to do what it has done here. But more importantly, I most certainly cannot agree that constitutional law is simply a matter of what the Justices of this Court decide is not harmful for the country, and therefore is "reasonable" . . . James Madison said that the Contract Clause was intended to protect people from the "fluctuating policy" of the legislature. The Federalist, No. 44, at 301 (Cooke ed. 1961). Today's majority holds that people are not protected from the fluctuating policy of the legislature, so long as the legislature acts in accordance with the fluctuating policy of this Court.

This opinion should endear Mr. Justice Black to those who think that property still has a claim to constitutional protection. It is surprising to thus find him as the justice most likely to receive an award from the American Conservative Union, but perhaps this indicates better than anything else where the Court has travelled in recent years.

The Court did, however, hold that if one's rights are to be taken away, one has first the right to receive notice thereof and the opportunity to be heard. But considering how few property rights are left, it seems that answering such a notice is often an exercise in futility.

Baptist Men Have Meeting

The Baptist Men's organization met May 2 for its regular monthly dinner meeting. It was held in the church dining room where a ham dinner was served to the group.

After a time of fellowship, President Lenzi Beck called the meeting to order with Bill Hayden giving opening prayer. Beck discussed the camping opportunities for the girls and boys available at the various Baptist camping grounds. John W. David gave a report of the activities for the boys and girls at Windemere, the Baptist state assembly grounds on the Lake of the Ozarks.

Rev. Hackney gave a summary of the activities that will be available at the Van Buren Baptist assembly for the young people from June 25 to July 3. Some 750 to 850 boys and girls in this area will register there for Christian camping weeks. Also reported on was the camping area in this association, the Charleston Baptist assembly grounds. There will be three weeks camping this summer.

Beck then presented the guest speaker, Pat Lea, a member of the Baptist Men's organization, who spoke on "Life and Death" and told how related one is to the other. His talk and illustrations were a challenge.

Rev. Hackney, pastor of the church, also gave a report on his revival at the Calvary Baptist church in Jefferson City. He told of the plans to bring the Leonard Sanderson revival crusade into this area next year in cooperation with all the churches in the area.

The group discussed plans for welcoming their new minister of music and education, David Laird from the First Baptist church of Alexandria, La. He is a native of this state and is a graduate of Mehlville school and New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

The meeting adjourned with Leon Chapman and S. A. Lockhart giving closing prayer.

Small Tax Division Proposed

WASHINGTON, AP - Establishment of a "Small Tax Division" in the U.S. Tax Court was proposed in Congress yesterday.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the proposal he is sponsoring along with Sen. Edward Long, D-Mo., would give small taxpayers an opporrunity without lawyers and accountants, to air their differences with the Internal Revenue Service before an impartial commissioner.

"The small taxpayer," Magnuson said, "is faced with staggering disadvantages in his dealings with the federal government in comparison with the large, corporate taxpayer."

The large taxpayers, he said, have experts who not only wring out every conceivable deduction and exemption but who are successful in negotiating a settlement in 85 per cent of the cases brought before the tax court.

The small taxpayer's "first, and usually last, impulse is to quit -- throw in the towel, pay the deficiency no matter how unjust he believes it is, rather than face the tiers of faceless bureaucracy or bear the burdens of a court fight," Magnuson said.

The bill would call for appointment of 20 small tax commissioners to hear taxpayer appeals from deficinecy assessments of less than $2,500.

No one who has worked for the Internal Revenue Service within the preceding five years would be eligible for appointment as a commissioner.

If you're building a home this year, make sure your bathrooms are big enough says the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn. For instance, the typical 5-by-7 bathroom is really too small for the quality fixtures you want. You can squeeze in a small tub, water closet and lavatory. But there's no room for a countertop lavatory with twin bowls and storage space beneath. There's no room for the bidet, which is becoming more popular in America today and is highly recommended by many physicians for its hygienic value.

Besides adding to your family's convenience, larger bathrooms increase the resale value of your house, if you ever decide to sell. Rebekah Lodge Admits Eight New Members

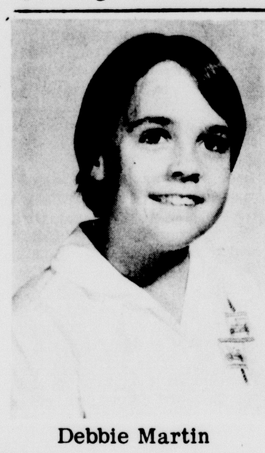
The Sikeston Rebekah Lodge met at the Odd Fellow Hall Friday evening with the noble grand, Mildred Vincent, presiding.

The order of business included the beautiful impressive Rebekah Degree for the following new members: Mrs. Marilyn Jo Evans, Lenell Kindred, Norma Duff, Norma Jean Yant, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Andres and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Howell.

Lecturers serving were Noble Grand, Mildred Vincent; Vice Grand, Mrs. Jim Denbow; Chaplain, Bernice Cummins; past N. G., Addie Brothers and Secretary, Alma Mackley. Other officers are Conductor, Bobbie Taylor; Warden, Freda Penrod; Musician, Float Vaughn; Guardian, Opal Greer and Color Guards Fern Taylor, Carrie Petifurd, Maggie Lee Grady and Lillas Heacox.

There were nine visitors from the Charleston lodges and the District Deputy President Ann Newton from the Morehouse lodge. Following the order of business, the Degree work and drill of the officers, all retired to the dining room for a social hour and refreshments.

MISS EMILY BRENNECKE, left, gives pointers to Jane Anne Baker, center, while Pam Ayers, right, works with oils. Sikeston Art League's exhibit May 28 and 29 hopes to have entries from both girls. Miss Brennecke will have two paintings in the exhibit.



Debbie Martin

Debbie Martin Wins State DAR History Contest

In an assembly at the Lee Hunter school Monday, Debbie Martin, a fifth grade pupil, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Martin, was presented an American History State award for her winning essay, "Washington's Advice."

She was the first prize winner and was presented a charm bracelet by her school and a book, "Watchwords of Liberty," by the King's Highway Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Sikeston. The presentation was made by Mrs. Helen Loud Jones, regent.

Debbie's essay:

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S ADVICE

Part of George Washington's Advice was about education. He said, "Promote institution for the general diffusion of knowledge. It is essential that public opinion should be enlightened."

Washington stated the above in his Farewell address published in a Philadelphia newspaper on September 19, 1796. He could see far into the future and understood, even then almost two hundred years ago, the importance of education for all. But then the importance was great too, you had to have knowledge to advance yourself. It wasn't a question of thinking you know, or not caring, you had to really know.

Men must have had knowledge to discover the atom, and to send other men up in space. They had to have knowledge to explore other lands, and to even write books. Washington wrote his speech on education because he knew most men wanted to learn. So he tried to convince them to learn as much as they possibly could.

But now education is even more important. And George Washington knew it would be. He convinced men to want to learn. So they did. They want to learn even more now than they did fifty, one hundred, or even two hundred years ago.

Men and women knew they had to have knowledge to run the homes, factories, the offices, to practice medicine and law, and everything else. Even a small child has to have knowledge to learn how to walk. And that's why schooling is so important now. You have to have knowledge to go to school and get through life. And men and women do.

Even now our President Johnson is extending education throughout the United States. Just recently, President Johnson signed an education bill and made it possible for one hundred, forty thousand students to go to school.

President Johnson said in a speech that "education is no longer a luxury but a necessity". He also said "that the federal government intends to be a partner and not a boss."

And I'm very, very sure George Washington would have entirely agreed with him.

Morehouse News

A portrait of the late Mrs. Helen Cain, librarian in charge of the Poplar Bluff Public libaray for 26 years who died suddenly on April 11, 1964, was presented the Board of Trustee of the library recently was a memorial gift of three local friends of Mrs. Cain, her family and the Library.

The contributors who are known only to the immediate family commissioned Mrs. Lucia Trovillian, a St. Louis artist, to paint the likeness in oil. Mrs. Trovillion and her husband, Henson, are both former Morehouse residents and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Simmons of Morehouse and a very fine artist. The picture will hang in the public library as a memorial to the woman whose dedication to the Library and its broadening program of service may always be remembered.

Mrs. Bob Sullivant of Morehouse won the Bingo contest. She had gotten her card at Clarks Corner Grocery Store in Morehouse.

Homecoming Is Planned at Blodgett May 29

BLODGETT -- Memorial and homecoming day will be Sunday, May 29.

The basket dinner will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Methodist church. All visitors will be introduced and the audience will exchange news of mutual friends.

After dinner, the usual memorial service will be at the honor roll board at 2:30 p.m.

This affair began in 1943 and is becoming a town tradition. It affords the citizens, together with former residents, an opportunity to honor past and present members of the armed forces -- especially those who gave their lives in World War II and the Korean War.

All visitors are welcome.

Guests were Tonia and Rissa Thompson, Dawn, Mike, Ronnie and Norman Hurley, Billy Ross, Martha Crump, Pamela Gollhoper, Darla and Douglas Scott, Jeanie Elrod, Sammie Whitlock and Ricky and Donald Taylor.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, punch and potato chips were served to the guests and favors were jumping ropes and puzzles.

Mothers assisting Mrs. Bledsoe were Mrs. Connie Thompson, Mrs. Nancy Hurley, Mrs. Lois Ross, Mrs. Darlene Scott, Mrs. Jewell Taylor, and Tammy's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Osteen.

The group was entertained with pony rides.

Started Custom

The custom of standing during a performance of Handel's "Messiah" originated with England's George II. The king was so moved by the Hallelujah Chorus at the London premiere that he rose and remained standing until its conclusion.

One of the important figures in the dissemination of jazz was Fate Marable, a bandleader who played on steamboats sailing up the Mississippi from New Orleans. Although he was known as a pianist, Marable also played jazz on the steam calliope.

The Prayer

For Today From The Upper Room

Continue thou in the things, which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them. (II Timothy 3:14)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the Holy Scriptures which have been preserved for us across the centuries. May Thy Word indeed be for me as "a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." In Jesus' name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are the proud parents of two beautiful children--a little boy three years old and a 10-month-old baby girl. We adopted these youngsters through the Tennessee department of welfare.

Not a week goes by that someone doesn't say, "It certainly is wonderful of you to take those poor little children into your home. God will bless you some day for your kindness."

The remarks are invariably made in the presence of the children who are too young to understand, but one day soon they will.

How can we make people realize that these children have made our house a home and that God has already blessed us a hundredfold? Please provide us with an answer that will assure our children that we love them and we did not take them into our home because we felt sorry for them. Thank you.--MRS. FURIOUS

Dear Mrs.: Children are given the warm feeling that they are wanted and loved by the way they are treated and not by listening to their parents talk to friends.

I do feel that you should respond to your ignorant acquaintances, however, not to reassure your children, but to educate the clods. Tell them--as you told me in your letter--that God has already blessed you, and that the children have enriched your lives beyond your ability to describe it.

Dear Ann Landers: My letter is to let you know I am with you ALL the way on this tipping nonsense.

You said, "People who do not believe in tipping should, (1) park their own cars on the street -- if they can find a space, (2) eat at home, (3) carry their coats and hats around all evening.

If enough of us who are against tipping will take your advice, Ann, the restaurant, hotel and tavern owners, the parking lot tycoons and others will surely feel the pinch and do something drastic -- like pay their employees a living wage.--TIRED OF BEING BLED

Dear Tired: You make an excellent point, but your solution would not ease the burden of the customer. The increased cost of doing business would be passed right along to you and to me in the form of higher prices. As for me, I'd prefer higher prices and no tipping, but the prospects of getting it are mighty slim.

Dear Ann Landers: The confidentials at the foot of your column have always intrigued me. You once explained that those messages are abbreviated because you have been asked not to print the letter -- just the advice.

Although some of the confidentials are fairly obscure I can often guess what the letter was about. And now I wonder if you would do something I don't believe you've ever done before. Will you let a reader supply a confidential? I'm aching to say something to the three daughters who want their 70-year-old mother to move in with one of them. They are afraid if mama goes to an old folks' home the neighbors might think the daughters didn't want to take her in.

Here is my Confidential:

Confidential to Three Daughters: Let your mother go where she will be comfortable. You have given her so little of your time and attention through the years that she knows how you really feel. I hope your mother leaves her money to charity or to some old man she met last week. -- ALSO INDEPENDENT AND UNWANTED

Judge Granted Injunction

WASHINGTON AP -- A federal judge has granted a permanent injunction prohibiting railroad firemen from striking in an attempt to restore 18,000 jobs knocked out by an arbitration board two years ago.

The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen said it would appeal the ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff. Union President H. E. Gilbert called the decision "an unbelievable conglomeration of inconsistencies."

The ruling made permanent a temporary injunction Holtzoff had granted earlier at the railroads' request. It froze the situation for firemen in the complex legal argument which triggered last month's strike by firemen against eight carriers operating in 38 states.

The union had contended that expiration of the arbitration board's order March 31 restored rates of pay, rules and working conditions that existed before Congress created the board Aug. 28, 1963.

"On the contrary," Holtzoff ruled, "the provisions of the award and the actions taken under it during its effective period created a new set of rules and working conditions as of the date of its termination."

The decision added that any attempt to change the status of firemen must be made through procedures of the Railway Labor Act. "Any strike of railroad employes called before the exhaustion of all remedies provided by the Railway Labor Act would be illegal," he added.

On the other hand, the decision said "the carriers may not dispense with any more firemen pursuant to the terms of the award or offer comparable jobs to any of them . . ."

Bodies Found In Wreckage

By VINCE CAROCCI

SOMERSET, PA. AP – The bodies of Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Walter E. Allessandroni, his wife and two other persons were found Monday night in the wreckage of a light airplane in a snow-coated mountain gully.

Allesandroni, 51, managed Gov. William W. Scranton's unsuccessful battle to wrest the Republican presidential nomination from Barry Goldwater in 1964.

He was making the flight for a campaign speech in his bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor in the May 17 state primary.

The four died Sunday when their private twin-engine plane fell in rugged Allegheny Mountain terrain -- known to pilots as the "graveyard of the Alleghenies" because of the dangerous weather conditions that often prevail.

Besides Alessandroni and his wife, Ethel, the dead include James E. Staudinger of Abington Twp., who was the Republican chairman of Montgomery County and a member of the State Liquor Control Board, and the pilot, Melvin E. Ladin, 28, of Collingswood, N.J.

The plane was carrying Alessandroni from the state capital at Harrisburg to Uniontown where he was to address the Fayette County Tavern Association.

An association official said later that there wasn't much concern when he didn't arrive because it was snowing and sleeting and it was assumed that the plane had turned back.

The discovery that the plane was missing wasn't made until about 24 hours after it went down. Mrs. Staudinger phoned Harrisburg to inquire about her husband. State officials began checking.

Probably more books have been written about birds than any other member of the animal world. There are between 10,000 and 12,000 living species of birds, and human curiosity about them is greater than ever. It is estimated that, in North America, 250,000 persons own at least one book about birds. In Great Britain, the figure is 100,000 persons. In the latter nation, one book about birds is published every week.

Hearnes Urges Bankers Cooperation

ST. LOUIS AP - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes urged the bankers of Missouri Tuesday to cooperate in improving the state legislative program in order to "design and build a better state."

"Unless the state government and state banking join to maintain a strong program," he said, "and even improve that program, a vacuum will be created."

He added this warning in a speech prepared for the annual Missouri Bankers Association convention:

"In state government, when a vacuum exists, the federal government fills it with their seemingly unlimited prerogatives. At the risk of being called hardheaded and lacking vision, it is my belief that Missourians prefer to have those of you here today --their fellow Missourians -- handle their financial affairs, rather than transfer that administrative privilege to Washington."

The governor pledged his administration "will join you in every effort to keep your industry healthy and growing."

Hearnes disclosed appointment of a special committee headed by C. W. Culley, head of the State Finance Division, to propose updating of banking laws in the 1967 legislature.

It includes nine bankers, four legislators, plus representatives of the bankers association, the Missouri Bar Association and the State Banking Board.

The governor noted the assets of Missouri state banks have risen from $4.8 billion at the end of 1964 to more than $5 billion at the close of 1965. He said this rise of 5.5 per cent is "indicative of a sound state as reflected by sound banking."

Hearnes also commented on the $1.116 billion budget. Approved by the special legislative session, an increase over his recommendation.

He said he had not had time to study the bills in detail, "but it occurs to me that it has not been too many years ago that the variance of $18 or $19 million would have been a matter of concern because probably the governor at that time would not have been fortunate enough to enjoy an economy expanding rapidly enough to give hope that such elasticity in state financing could be absorbed without a tax increase or without endangering the type of budgeting I personally prefer -- the tight type."

Johnson Defended

WASHINGTON AP --The Johnson administration's "unexampled record of success in agriculture" was defended Monday by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman said this record stands as a convincing reply to 40 Republican House members who recently criticized administration farm policies.

"The American farmer working with this administration and a majority of the Congress has acted these past five years to develop farm programs that have brought about amazing results," Freeman said.

Freeman said those results include an increase of nearly $3.5 billion in net farm income since 1960.

The Republican congressmen sent a telegram to President Johnson April 29, saying that actions taken by the administration in recent weeks to put a lid on rising food and farm prices "have done and will do little to lower consumer food prices but would insure financial hardships for many farm families."

Mongolia Draws Renewed Interest

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON AP -- U.S. officials were reported looking with renewed interest Tuesday at the possibility of opening diplomatic relations with Mongolia, a pro-Soviet Communist country in central Asia bordering the Soviet Union and Red China.

The move was proposed Monday by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. He said it would help to ease international tensions and provide the United States with "a valuable listening post" at a strategic point of the rivalry between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The State Department was silent on Mansfield's proposal but policymakers are known to believe that it would work to U. S. advantage. However, the government of Nationalist China on Formosa has opposed U.S. recognition of Mongolia in the past. It regards that remote land as a part of China.

The issue of U.S. nonrecognition policy toward Mongolia arose in its sharpest form in 1961 after the Soviet Union insisted that if the African country of Mauritania was to be given a seat in the United Nations Mongolia must be admitted at the same time.

As a result U. S. diplomats in Moscow discussed recognition with Mongolian diplomats and found that the Mongolian government was agreeable to establishing diplomatic relations. Action was blocked, however, by Nationalist China which, as a member of the U.N. Security Council, threatened to veto Mongolian membership in the United Nations.

The political tangle thus created was straightened out when the United States dropped its recognition plan and both Mauritania and Mongolia were voted into the world organization.

Since that time U.S. policy on the recognition question has been reviewed periodically but without any publicly known action being taken.

"Hobson's Choice"

The expression "Hobson's choice" to mean "this or nothing" arose from the refusal of the London carrier, Thomas Hobson, when letting his horses on hire, to allow any animal to leave the stable out of its turn.

1st Lieutenant Michael R. Cook

FORT BUCKNER, OKINAWA (AHTNC) -- Army 1st Lt. Michael R. Cook (right), whose cousin, Mrs. Karen S. Pratt, lives on Route 2, Sikeston, Mo., receives the Purple Heart Medal for wounds received in Vietnam from General Harold K. Johnson, Army Chief of Staff, at Fort Buckner, Okinawa, April 17.

The Purple Heart Medal is given to soldiers wounded in battle.

General Johnson was on a one-day visit to Army units and facilities in Okinawa when he presented the medal.

Lieutenant Cook, a member of the Military Advisory Command, Vietnam, is recovering at Fort Buckner.

The 24-year-old officer is a 1959 graduate of Sikeston (Mo.) High School and received his B. S. degree in 1964 from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

PACIFIC, MO. (AHTNC) -- Army PFC James T. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Butler, Parma, Mo., was assigned to Battery C, 1st Battalion, 62d Artillery, in Pacific, Mo., May 3.

This unit, part of the nationwide U.S. Army Air Defense Command, provides air defense in the St. Louis area.

Butler, a generator operator with the unit, entered the Army in February 1965 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 18-year-old soldier attended Parma High School.

FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, IND. (AHTNC) -- Army Pvt. Jerry K. Keene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Keene Sr., 305 Ramsey st., East Prairie, Mo., completed a journalism course at the Defense Information School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., April 22.

During the ten-week course, Keene was taught to make Army news releases to military publications and civilian news media. He also received instruction in producing tape interviews and speech writing.

Keene entered the Army in October 1965 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier was graduated from East Prairie High School in 1964 and was engaged in farming before entering the Army.

A change in the criteria has revised the requirements covering the enlistment of prior servicemen into the Air Force.

A prior serviceman may now enlist at the same grade he held at the time of his separation from active duty if the enlistment is completed prior to the 2nd anniversary of his date of separation. Before this change was announced, a prior serviceman had only one year in which to re-enlist in the same grade he held when separated from military service.

This change is effective immediately and is expected to remain in effect through June 30, 1966.

A former serviceman of any of the Armed Forces may also enlist within 180 days after the 2nd anniversary of his separation from military service at only one grade lower than held at the time of his separation, 2 grades lower prior to the 3rd anniversary of his separation, and 3 grades lower prior to the 4th anniversary of his separation from active service in any of the Armed Forces.

Complete details on joining the Air Force may be obtained from your local Air Force recruiter.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK. -- Vendors and contractors in the surrounding area of Blytheville Air Force Base will attend a special Vendors Appreciation Day here Thursday, being staged by the base procurement office.

One of the primary purposes of the meeting will be to brief new vendors and contractors on the policies and procedures involved in making contracts with the base for supplies and services.

The day's activities start at 11:30 a.m. with an assembly at the Officers' Open Mess followed by a "dutch treat" luncheon at noon.

Colonel William G. Ivey, base commander, will speak to the group at 1 p.m. on Vietnam.

After the speech, the group will discuss and resolve mutual problems before touring the base at 3:30 p.m. The climax of the day will be an air show by the Thunderbirds, the official aerial demonstration team of the U.S. Air Force, who will perform at 4:30 p.m.

Vendors or contractors interested in attending may make reservations for the "dutch treat" luncheon by contacting the base procurement office at Blytheville Air Force Base.

DA NANG, VIETNAM (FHTNC) --Hospitalman Gary D. Greene, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Greene of 186 Cardinal Drive, Sikeston, Mo., is serving at the Naval Support Activity, Da Nang, Vietnam. He helps provide supplies and logistical support for the more than 60,000 American troops in this northern area of South Vietnam.

During the month of March, more than 150,000 measured tons were off-loaded from ships in the Da Nang Harbor by men working in shifts, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. This record surpassed the 127,547 measured tons off-loaded in January by a wide margin.

Furlough Travel Study

WASHINGTON AP -- Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., was named to a subcommittee Monday that will inquire into servicemen traveling on furlough.

Besides Ichord, others on the subcommittee include Reps. Alton Lennon, D-N.C., Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., and L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Service Committee, announced the subcommittee will inquire into what he regards as an unwarranted hardship on servicemen traveling on furlough. He said too many servicemen are forced to sit around airports awaiting plane space.

But Stewart Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, said, in effect, that the reason many servicemen sit around airports is that they are taking advantage of an opportunity to save one-half on fares by accepting space-available reservations.

Tipton said the airlines welcome an opportunity to discuss the matter with Rivers, who "has always made highly constructive contributions to the relationship between the airlines and the military."

City street departments, busy repairing last winter's damage, hope to get it done in time for next winter's damage.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. -- The terminal elevator of the Missouri Grain Company at Caruthersville has been acquired by the Missouri Farmers Assoication. The terminal is considered one of the fastest grain handling facilities on the Mississippi River. It is equipped to ship grain by rail, truck and barge and has 5 receiving dumps. The structure has 857,000 bushels of grain storage.

Missouri Grain Company Sold

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Missouri Farmers Association has acquired the Missouri Grain Company which operates a river terminal here and an elevator at Hayti.

The announcement was made at a "get acquainted" luncheon here attended by area farmers, business and civic leaders.

Albert (Al) R. Cravens of Caruthersville has been named manager of the combined facilities.

Fred V. Heinkel, president of the MFA and host to the luncheon said "for some time the MFA has realized that we needed an ice-free elevator. In the past there have been times that we have had grain sold at good prices for our members and we have been unable to make deliveries because the river was closed down."

Heinkel said that the grain productive area of the world was rather small. "The greatest grain producing area of all is located along three rivers in the heart of America -- the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois."

In the future the Caruthersville facilities will be known as the MFA Grain Terminal and Hayti will go by the name of MFA Elevator. Cravens was the manager of the grain terminal for a number of years when it was owned by a local group. The two elevators are now a part of the MFA Grain Division under the supervision of Otto Schulte, MFA vice president in charge of grain marketing.

The Caruthersville grain terminal is considered one of the fastest grain handling facilities on the Mississippi River. It can receive grain from dumps operating at the same time -- three large enough to accomodate the largest trailer trucks, another truck dump and a railroad car dump. It is located on both the Frisco and Cotton Belt railroads. The transaction included a towboat used for moving barges. The terminal has storage for 857,000 bushels of grain.

The Hayti facility has grain storage for 271,000 bushels and is of steel construction. It has two truck dumps.

Planned early improvements for the facilities include a dust collection system for the Caruthersville terminal and a new paint job for Hayti, the MFA leader commented.

Schulte explained the MFA grain marketing programs to the assembled guests. "With Caruthersville the MFA now has twelve terminal and subterminal grain elevators on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers and other 150 inland local elevators." In addition the farmer - owned cooperative has seats on grain exchanges at Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City and is developing an expanded export program.

Owls vs. Hawks

Owls have an advantage over hawks as birds of prey. Where hawks swoop down with noisy whirrs of their powerful pinions, the owls make the same deadly descent in complete silence, as their feathers are fringed with down.

Elderly Spending Giving Boost

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK AP -- A rising stream of spending by the elderly is giving the economy a boost, thanks to medicare. Merchants and service industries in communities where the over-65 gather say that the upward trend is already apparent, even though medicare itself doesn't start until July 1.

And the spending philosophy of many still some distance from the 65 mark is likely to be changed as the urge to save loses one of its most pressing reasons.

Also, corporations with employes nearing or past 65 are taking a second look at their pension plans and health insurance programs. Some of these are being revamped to cover the gaps in medicare and even to provide for the cost of the added protection -- $3 a month on a voluntary basis.

When medicare actually starts some seven weeks from now, the economy may start measuring another form of increased spending, offshoot of providing for greater consumption of medical supplies and services.

The spending trend is based on both financial psychology and hard cash realities.

Many now living on pensions, whether private or Social Security, or on fixed incomes from their life savings, are being freed from the pressure to go on putting aside part of these small amounts against the dire possibility of a health disaster.

So the fixed incomes, whether pension or otherwise, are being stretched in effectiveness. The fringe benefits of higher living standards, even small luxuries, become a possibility.

But for the economy in general, the spending splurge won't be just a one-way street. Money will be taken from the spending stream to pay for medicare. Already Social Security taxes have gone up. This means that both workers and employers are contributing more to the government agency. This is money which the worker won't be spending himself, and money which the employer won't have for conducting or expanding his business.

Taxpayers also are likely, in the months and years ahead, to be called upon to foot larger bills at all levels of government for the building of new hospitals, medical schools, and other facilities will be privately financed, but many will be met in part by public funds. And in the long run, it's the taxpayer who pays.

Dancers Highlight Party

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK AP - Din, darkness, gyrating dancers, blinking colored lights, crazy costumes and milling mobs made Arthur's birthday party ever bit as wild Monday night as its opening a year ago.

Its stockholders -- some 70 friends of Richard Burton's ex-wife Sybil - packed the chic discotheque rib-to-rib with some of the world's best-known people. Since the day it opened on the old site of El Morocco, it has been such an "in" place, it is almost impossible to get into.

On the bandstand the same rock'n roll group, "The Wild Ones," blasted at eardrums as it did one year ago. But its former leader, Jordan Christopher, 24, held hands with his new wife Sybil as they pushed their way through the crowds, accepting congratulations and eventually cutting a huge, one candle cake.

The glamorous company included Lauren Bacall, Jason Robards, Henry Fonda and daughter Jane, Maureen O'Sullivan, Betty Comden and Adolph Green.

On the tiny dance floor, avant-garde designer Joan Morse was "switched on" in a white dress made of electric light bulbs, battery operated. Her finger-snapping partner wore a prison jacket with stripes and numbers.

A leopard loin-cloth type bra dress of a bushy-haired model matched the leopard jacket of her dancing partner. Mostly though, tight hip-slung pants, garrison belts and sweater or open shirts were choices for both sexes.

An unlikely combination trying to converse over the cacophony were Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic, and rock-'n' roll disc jockey Murrey the K.

Dick Chamberlain, Troy Donahue, Barry Nelson, and Lee Remick were more familiar faces in the crowd.

Today In U.S. History

Today is Thursday, May 12, the 132nd day of 1966. There are 233 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1937, King George VI of England was crowned at Westminister Abbey.

On this date

In 1775, American troops captured Crown Point, on Lake Champlain.

In 1820, Florence Nightingale, the founder of modern nursing, was born.

In 1940, German troops occupied most of the Netherlands.

In 1943, the Battle of North Africa ended with the German surrender in Tunisia.

In 1955, the last train on the Third Avenue elevated in New York made its last run.

Ten years ago -- President Eisenhower underwent a complete physical examination at Walter Reed Hospital and doctors found that the heart damage he'd suffered in his 1955 heart attack was healed.

Five years ago--Leaders of the Congo made public the outline of a proposed constitution for a federal republic.

One year ago -- West Germany and Israel announced the establishment of diplomatic relations.

FOOD BUYING TIP

Potatoes -- the perfect first vegetable at all family meals! The U. S. Department of Agriculture says success in cooking potatoes depends on using the right potato for each purpose.

The best known potato for baking is the Russet Burbank. This variety has a low moisture content and a mealy texture. It has an elongated shape and the skin has a net - like russetted appearance.

The White Rose variety, usually known as the Long White, is good for boiling, frying, and especially for salads. It has a smooth, almost colorless skin and elongated shape.

Round white potatoes -- comprising many varieties -- are an all purpose type. They are good for frying, boiling, baking and the fancier potato styles.

Red - skinned potatoes, are also all - purpose. When harvested early in the season as "new" potatoes, their best use is for boiling.

Clean, reasonably smooth potatoes, fee from cuts or bruises, usually are the best consumer value. Store them in a cool, dark and well - ventilated place.

Change in Usage

Although celery was known to the ancient Greeks and Romans, it was used only as a flavoring for food and for medicinal purposes until the 17th century. Its use as food was first recorded in France in 1623, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

stronger, indicating a larger force. American artillery fired 1,500 shells into the jungle and advancing paratroopers found 14 dead insurgents and three weapons.

Monsoon rains pelted the jungle.

The Marines launched two new operations in the northern part of South Viet Nam, supported by massive artillery and air barrages.

Sixty helicopters airlifted a large Marine force 18 miles west of the coastal city of Quang Ngai as Marine pilots plastered the area before the landing. Supported by Vietnamese army units, the advancing Marines blew up an intricate Viet Cong tunnel network.

A spokesman said 47 guerrillas had been killed and 15 captured so far while American losses were light.

Near the old imperial capital of Hue, units of the 3rd Marine Division were in their third day of Operation Wayne and reported five Viet Cong killed. Again Marine casualties were reported light.

The U.S. Air Force said it killed "possibly 40 or more" Viet Cong in 350 combat strikes over South Viet Nam.

Romney Warns Against Govt. Control

WASHINGTON AP - Michigan Gov. George Romney said Tuesday that administration auto safety proposals would "wipe out meaningful and creative state contributions toward improved vehicle safety" and substitute "absolute federal decision-making and control."

He said federal safety standards should be enforced by states rather than the federal government.

Romney, who was president of American Motors Co. before entering politics four years ago, said he has "been a critic of the industry for its over emphasis on style, power and speed rather than on safety."

But he said the states, industry and voluntary groups have been working on safety for years, while "the federal government has been the most remiss in meeting its responsibilities."

"The long-range solution to our complex and urgent traffic safety problems does require greater federal effort - but it requires far more than that," Romney told the House Commerce Committee. "It requires us to enlist the total resources of this nation--private and governmental."

In testimony prepared for the same hearing, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, came out for federal safety standards.

He said the auto manufacturers "have amply demonstrated there is nothing voluntary about their discharge of public responsibility."

Reuther based that conclusion in part on this section of a statement written for the hearing:

"Time and again unsafe cars were delivered to unsuspecting customers. And when the car defects were discovered, the car owners were not notified -- only the dealers who were cautioned not to disclose faulty design or construction but to repair it under guise of 'product improvement' whenever the customer could be located.

In emphasizing the need for a strong state role Romney echoed testimony by the automobile industry which supported mandatory federal safety standards but urged a major part for the states and industry in developing them.

Reuther said any legislation should include "sufficient latitude for creative and imaginative product design."

Ruth Huddleston Dies In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS -- Mrs. Ruth Cross Huddleston died last night at 7 p.m. in the St. John's Mercy Hospital here, where she had been a patient for six weeks.

Harris said Spivak specified before his death that the bonds were not to be permitted to go to Russia. He also tried unsuccessfully to bring his sister over, Harris told the court. The attorney accused the petitioning Mrs. Orland of conspiring with the Russian government to obtain the money.

He said Mrs. Ross is willing to deliver the money to Mrs. Orland if she could establish her identity. Mrs. Ross would be willing to pay her plane fare and expenses Harris added.

Polio Victim Hurls Mean Fast Ball

By DON BOXMEYER
St. Paul Dispatch Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. AP -- Young Donny Warn pitches a mean fast ball.

In a vacant lot near his home, Donny drops his crutches, bends to the ground, falls to his knees and throws his fast ball.

Donny, 13, can't stand and pitch. Because of polio, he wears stiff metal braces and gets around on crutches.

But he does have a wicked fast ball thrown from his knees.

Other players in Donny's vacant lot league don't baby Donny. Sisters Audree and Joyce, brother Pow-Wow, and friends shout their encouragement, but chide him for a poor pitch.

"C'mon Donny," yells batter Pow-Wow, "how about gettin' one to me?"

Donny, his knees still on the ground, cocks his right arm back and snaps it like a pitcher with both feet solidly on the ground.

Pow-Wow gets a hit, and it is Joyce's turn. She tags a solid drive into the street, and Donny twists at the waist and follows the ball's flight silently.

Finally, Donny goes into the batter's box, crutches under his arms to prop him up, and takes a good cut at the ball thrown by Pow-Wow. He smacks it, clearly hit, but foul.

"I can hit it most of the time," Donny will say. "I hit pretty well, too. Someone does my running for me.

"I guess I bat all right, but I'd rather pitch."

Donny, who has nine brothers and sisters, was afflicted with the disease nine years ago. Doctors say he will never walk again without the aid of braces.

Precise Weather Answers

Scattered showers this afternoon. Chance of rain tonight. Well, how much chance? These are typical weather forecasts, and questions that one might ask regarding them.

Beginning May 15, 1966, you will be furnished precise answers to these questions, according to Mr. Leonard Hand, Meterologist-in-charge of the Portageville, ESSA Weather Bureau Office. The answers will be given in the forecasts for the Missouri Bootheel in a new forecasting program called Probability Forecasting.

It is impossible to tell, more than an hour or so in advance, whether or not your lawn, construction project, or picnic area will receive one of the passing showers, even when showers are certain in the area. What the forecaster will be including regularly in the forecast is the chance (probability) of receiving more than just a trace of precipitation at the particular point of interest to you.

The regular worded forecast will appear unchanged. The new information will be added in a form similar to: Precipitation probability 30 percent this afternoon, 50 per cent tonight, and less than 5 percent tomorrow.

Mr. Hand said that this is one of the Weather Bureau's ways of making its forecasts more useful to the consumer, that is, by increasing their value to the health, welfare, and economy of the community his team serves.

OUR 56TH YEAR | 10¢ PER COPY | SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, MAY 12. 1966 | NUMBER 194

Major Issues Not Effecting Votes

WASHINGTON AP -- Nine states have now held primaries without any indication to date of two chief concerns among voters -- the war in Viet Nam and the rising cost of living.

Historically, any widespread scenes of discomfort or dissatisfaction has reacted against the ins, no matter of which party. Yet in the primaries thus far the voters have evidenced no disposition to turn out incumbent members of Congress who were challenged within their own parties.

Nevertheless, political strategists are holding to their estimates that what happens in the congressional elections next fall will be greatly influenced by the developments meantime in Viet Nam and on the price front.

In the normal course, the minority party picks up seats in the House of Representatives in an off year election, particularly when it has lost heavily in the presidential year as the Republicans did in 1964.

Thus, the GOP will have to gain a substantial number of House seats in order to claim a success in this year's campaigning.

Picking any number as the break even point between success and failure could bring arguments on both sides.

But Chairman John M. Bailey told the Democratic National Committee earlier this year that historically the party in power loses 37 seats in the House in an off year election. He reminded that the Democrats lost 77 seats in 1940, two years after a landslide victory by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presidential election.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen has been talking of a possible GOP pick-up of 50 seats.

Holding 140 seats now, the Republicans would have to gain 78 in order to take control of the 435-member house.

Of the nine states which have held primaries, six have elections this year for the Senate but in only two were incumbent senators opposed in the primary. Democratic Sens. John J. Sparkman of Alabama and Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma breezed to renomination in primaries.

Democratic Sens. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia had no party opposition. Neither did Republican Sens. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and John G. Tower of Texas.

Puxico Youth Dies at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 19-year-old Puxico youth, Robert Daniel Bates Jr., died at 10 p.m. in the Southeast Missouri Hospital here, as the result of an accident Wednesday.

The accident occurred near Sturdivant on route V, in Bollinger county when a 1961 GMC lime truck, driven by John C. Bailey, 59, Sturdivant, made a left turn into a barnlot.

As he entered the lot, he struck a 1965 Ford, driven by young Bates, head-on. The body of Bates was taken to the Morgan Funeral Home in Advance. Bailey was cited for careless driving by the highway patrol.

In an accident four miles north of Bragg City yesterday at 2:50 p.m., a 1955 Buick, driven dy Pegry Ann Martin, 17, Hayti, went out of control on a gravel road and turned over. She received cuts on her left jaw. She was charged with not having an operator's license.

Sandra Struwe, 21, Sikeston, received bruises on her head and knees, when struck by a 1961 GMC truck, driven by William Summerlott, 34, East Prairie.

The driver of the truck pulled up to an intersection and did not see the 1962 Dodge, driven by Miss Struwe, whose car was struck in the side. Summerlott was charged with careless driving.

Two persons were injured on a county road, four miles east of Millersville, yesterday at 5:30 a.m.

A 1959 Ford, driven by Donald Smith, 22, Millersville, and a 1966 Chevrolet, driven by Lloyd Seabaugh, 44, also of Millersville, met headon. A passenger, Karen Seabaugh, 19, was injured, and taken to the Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau, while the driver of the Ford, was treated by a Jackson physician.

Sentence Krueger To Three Life Sentences

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS, Tex. AP -- Paul Eric Krueger, who registered in a rooming house under the name Vic Solo a few hours after he shot three fishermen for no apparent reason, was sentenced to three concurrent life terms in prison Wednesday.

The California youth's surprise pleas of guilty and immediate sentencing closed a case which Dist. Atty. Sam Jones of Corpus Christi, called "the most heinous crime ever committed in history of the Texas Gulf Coast."

Krueger, the 18-year-old son of a San Clemente, Calif., industrialist, showed no emotion as sheriff's deputies hustled him from the courtroom. The defense waived all appeal and he will be sent quickly to the state prison at Huntsville.

He was indicted for the April 12, 1965 slayings of John D. Fox, 38; Noel D. Little, 51, and Van D. Carson, 40, all from Corpus Christi. They were shot while fishing off a pier 30 miles south of Corpus Christi.

The trial was transferred to Dallas on a change of venue. A similar move to Brenham earlier this year ended in a stalemate when a jury could not be selected.

Before Judge A. D. Jim Bowie passed sentence, Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill Alexander of Dallas read into the record several affidavits. These detailed how Krueger and a companion embarked on a trip to Venezuela which ended with the unprovoked slayings.

Krueger took the witness stand briefly to state that he had changed his plea voluntarily and the affidavits were "true and correct."

One was given by John Philip Angles, 16, of Hollywood, Calif., who came from California to Texas with Krueger and was present at the slayings. He now is in the state reform school at Gatesville.

Enrollment Tomorrow In Sikeston

Pre - enrollment for next year's first grade pupils will be held in the Sikeston Elementary Schools tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Parents may enroll their children in the school nearest their home. Notification concerning school assignment will be made at that time or at a later date prior to the beginning of the next school term.

The requirements for enrollment and entrance to school for the next term are as follows:

1. A child must have reached his sixth birthday on or before September 15, 1966.

2. Parents must present a record or evidence of a successful vaccination for smallpox; also, immunizations against diptheria and polio are required in order for a child to be admitted to school next September, 1966.

3. Parents must present a valid certificate of birth issued by the state wherein the child was born for entrance to school. (Church or hospital certificates are not acceptable.)

It is absolutely necessary that all first grade children now living in the district who expect to attend school next year be enrolled tomorrow.

It will not be necessary for children to accompany the parents.

A special "orientation day" for the children will be held on May 20th, from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m.

Emergencies

Seven emergency cases were reported at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

People Urged To Convert Postal Savings

Postmaster Pleas M. Malcolm today urged citizens who have funds on deposit in the abolished Postal Savings System to convert their holdings into United States Savings Bonds.

"Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, who is Chairman of the Federal Savings Bonds Campaign, has appealed to the 930,000 Americans who have $285,000,000 on deposit with the Post Office Department to convert their investments into United States Savings Bonds.

"I join him in urging local citizens who have Postal Savings Accounts to make that change which will be of great benefit to both themselves and our country. Savings Bonds offer every advantage of convenience and security formerly available through Postal Savings Certificates plus many other advantages unique to Savings Bonds," Malcolm said.

Details about the procedure for conversion can be obtained from the Postmaster of any Postal Savings Depository Post Office, which includes Sikeston.

The Postal Savings System, in operation since January 1, 1911, was discontinued April 27, 1966, by Act of Congress. The Post Office Department presently is liquidating its accounts and July 1, 1967, will transfer all unclaimed assets of the System to the Treasury Department.

The decision to abolish the Postal Savings System was made because of declining interest in it by the general public as a savings and investment medium. Higher interest rates paid by financial institutions and other means of investment had attracted the bulk of funds which formerly went into Postal Savings and the convenience factor was negated by expanded hours of service by banks.

The original purposes of the Postal Savings system were to (1) get money out of hiding, (2) attract the savings of immigrants who were accustomed to saving at post offices in their native countries, (3) provide safe depositories for people who had lost confidence in private banks and (4) provide more convenient depositories for savings of working people who were unable to bank during regular banking hours.

"Those purposes have long since been fulfilled," Postmaster Malcolm commented, "and, as Mr. O'Brien has emphasized, no greater new purpose could now be served by funds on deposit in the Postal Savings System than to put them to work for America in the form of United States Savings Bonds."

Bids For Roadwork

The Missouri State Highway Commission has issued a call for bids May 27 for highway construction and improvements estimated to cost $13,750,000 on about 115 1/2 miles of the state's highways.

The work covers 15 1/2 miles of Interstate system projects estimated to cost $6,000,000; for 91.3 miles of Primary and Urban system routes estimated to cost $6,000,000 and 8.8 miles of Secondary (farm to market) system work estimated at $1,750,000.

Interstate system projects are:

PLATTE: Interstate Route 29 --highway beautification (planting of trees and shrubs) from the Buchanan county line southeast through Platte City.

ST. LOUIS: Interstate Route 44 -- 0.7 miles grading and 22 and 24-foot wide asphaltic concrete paving for outer roadways from Route 141 east towards Sunset Hills.

NEW MADRID: Interstate Route 55 -- constructing two rest area facilities about a mile northeast of Marston.

NEW MADRID - PEMISCOT: Interstate Route 55 -- 14.8 miles grading, bridging, signing and laying two 24-foot wide divided portland cement concrete pavements from U.S. Route 61, northeast of Marston in New Madrid county, southwesterly to present U.S. Route 61, south of Portageville in Pemiscot county. The work includes nine bridges.

NOTICE TO EDITORS

The State of Illinois and the State Highway Commission of Missouri will ask for bids on the following project on May 20:

ST. CLAIR COUNTY, ILL., AND CITY OF ST. LOUIS, MO: Interstate Route 70 -- construction of concrete bridge hub guard, parapets, median, alumunim handrail and barrier rail, bituminous wearing surface, lighting and signing on the Mississippi River Bridge at Poplar Street between the MacArthur and Eads bridges from East St. Louis, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo.

Primary system work includes:

CLINTON: Route 116 -- 4.8 miles 20-foot wide bituminous mat surfacing from Route 33

New School Park Dedicated

ORAN -- Ceremonies were held yesterday at Oran High School dedicating a campus park to the memory of the late Miss Anita Barnes. Miss Barnes was a member of the Oran faculty for 30 years and was elementary school supervisor at the time of her death in 1964.

The park will be called "Barnes Garden". It was constructed by the members of the Oran High School landscaping class under the supervision of Mr. E. G. Smith, Landscaping Instructor.

The memorial of a sundial and granite marker was financed entirely by members of the student body, board members, faculty and employes.

More Americans Killed In Viet Nam

STREET WIDENING improvement continues daily in Sikeston. The street department is shown completing the project in the 200 block of North New Madrid street. Each side of the street was widened four feet. Shown at left is William Stokes, superintendent of the department, overseeing the project.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- More Americans were killed in combat last week than troops of the South Vietnamese government, allied military spokesmen announced today.

It was the second time that American combat dead exceeded the Vietnamese in the five years of American involvement in the war.

Spokesmen announced 82 Americans died in battle last week compared with 61 Vietnamese, although the size of the government armed forces is nearly triple that of the 255,000-man U.S. force here.

It was also the lowest number of Vietnamese battle deaths this year.

During the politically turbulent week of April 3-9, 95 Americans were killed in combat compared with 67 government troops.

The 82 Americans killed brought the number of U.S. combat dead to an unofficial total of 1,386 for the year and 3,234 since Jan. 1, 1961. The Vietnamese report 3,334 killed for the year.

Viet Cong losses were reported as 456 killed--the same figure as the previous week's--and 121 captured, an increase of 23.

As the war continued today, U. S. Marines and airborne troops battled the Viet Cong in three operations while American planes continued to pound targets in North Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman reported Navy planes from the Carrier Enterprise came two miles closer to Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port, to hit a Soviet-built missile site Wednesday. The site was 10 miles from the port city, and the spokesman said smoke billowed 2,000 feet into the air after the attack.

The closest previous attack to Haiphong was 12 miles.

Three missiles were fired from the site before American bombs struck it. None of the planes was hit. But near the North Vietnamese town of Dong Hoi an F105 Thunderchief was shot down by antiaircraft fire, and its pilot was reported missing. It was the 236th U.S. plane lost in raids on North Viet Nam.

Ground action picked up sharply, and elements of two U.S. Marine divisions and of the 101st Airborne Brigade were thrown into battle.

About 90 miles northeast of Saigon, in a thick, tropical jungle, the paratroopers attacked an estimated 200 to 250 men. An American military spokesman said they were Viet Cong. Vietnamese sources said it was the crack 141st North Vietnamese regiment which had recently moved into the area.

American troops ploughing through the jungle poured fire on a small enemy unit Wednesday afternoon, and toward the end of the day enemy fire grew

$45,311 Suit Filed By Russian Lady

KANSAS CITY AP -- A suit for recovery of $45,311 in U.S. government bonds has been filed in Federal Court by Mrs. Luba Orland of Moscow, Russia, against her niece, Mrs. Dorothy Ross of Kansas City.

Judge Elmo B. Hunter took Mrs. Orland's petition under advisement following a hearing Wednesday. Judge Hunter indicated he would ask her to be present for trial.

Mrs. Ross, through her attorney, Charles Harris of Wichita, Kan., contended Mrs. Orland is an imposter and that her real aunt is dead.

In her petition, Mrs. Orland states that she is the sister of the late Rugin Spivak, the father of Mrs. Ross. Spivak, who came to the U. S. from Russia in 1911 when he was 17, died here Nov. 19, 1948.

Mrs. Orland also states that the bonds were issued to Spivak in his name and hers.

Mrs. Ross and her husband, Edward Ross, have been indicted by a Wichita grand jury charging them with forging the signature of Luba Orland to the bonds and cashing them in 1962 at Concordia, Kan.

Live Models In London

LONDON AP -- Henry Mose replaced the wax models in his shop window Wednesday with scantily clad girls and stopped traffic in Carnaby Street, the home of British "mod" fashion.

Motorists and pedestrians gaped and halted as Diane James, 18, and Gina Baker, 19, stepped into the window clad in panties and bras.

Cheers turned to boos when the pretty models started to dress. After donning pants suits, they stripped and put on evening dresses.

With the narrow street blocked by cars and about 300 people, police moved in to get traffic moving again.

Moss said he was paying the girls 5 pounds ($14 a day) "plus brandy to keep them warm."

Hearnes Signs Three Bills Into Law

JEFFERSON CITY, AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signed three bills into law Wednesday, including one to allow junior colleges to issue revenue bonds for construction of dormitory, social, recreational and dining facilities.

Another signed was an increase for members of the Board of Probation and Parole. The chairman's pay would be raised from $10,500 a year to $17,500 and associate members would get $15,000 instead of $9,000.

A third bill transfers a tract of land in Rolla from the State Division of Geological Survey and Water Resources to the State Division of Mental Diseases as a site for a new regional mental retardation clinic.

Ed Carson

Carson Ends Tenure at Sikeston

Ed Carson, who for the past six years has been instrumental music instructor in the Sikeston junior high and elementary schools, has accepted a position as music instructor at North Junior high school in Kirkwood, St. Louis county for next year.

He will be replaced by Ronald Williams, formerly of Campbell. Williams is presently a music instructor in the Woodland schools at Lutesville.

Before coming to Sikeston in 1960, Carson taught music at Clarkton, Illmo - Scott City and Jackson high school.

Williams is a graduate of Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark., with a bachelor degree in music.

His wife, Sally, was also raised in Campbell. They have one son, Brian two and one-half years old. They are members of the Baptist church.

Several Felonies At New Madrid

NEW MADRID: Several persons faced felony charges this week in the New Madrid County Magistrate Court. Judge Erie Wright of Portageville presided.

Bobby Eugene Melton, charged with seven counts of grand larceny, entered pleas of guilty to each count and was held for trial in the Circuit Court with a $1,500 bond.

James Melton also pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. He was held on $500 bond.

Walter Wells, charged with three counts of burglary and larceny, pled guilty to each count and was held for the higher court on bonds totaling $500.

Supplying beer to minors brought a fine of $20 to Muril Richardson.

Others fined were: improper registration of a motor vehicle -- James Ray Talbert, $11, R. H. Cope, $15, and Alvin Odell Cluck, $15; out of state operator's license -- Jewell Dean Woods, $25; careless and reckless driving -- Luther Sims, $25; fishing without a permit--James Filtus, $15; permit unauthorized person to drive -- William Proctor Russell, $15; operating a motor vehicle with illegal use of dealer license--Gene Fletcher Abernathy, $11; no PSC authority -- H.L. Campbell, $35; littering highway -- Alvin Odell Cluck, $36; no operator's license -- Robert Marvin Carter, $15; exceeding legal load limits -- Hedrick Concrete Company, $45 on each of two counts; cheat and defraud -- Jim Dunlap, $11.

Puxico Youth Dies at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- A 19-year-old Puxico youth, Robert Daniel Bates Jr., died at 10 p.m. in the Southeast Missouri Hospital here, as the result of an accident Wednesday.

The accident occurred near Sturdivant on route V, in Bollinger county when a 1961 GMC lime truck, driven by John C. Bailey, 59, Sturdivant, made a left turn into a barnlot.

As he entered the lot, he struck a 1965 Ford, driven by young Bates, head-on. The body of Bates was taken to the Morgan Funeral Home in Advance. Bailey was cited for careless driving by the highway patrol.

In an accident four miles north of Bragg City yesterday at 2:50 p.m., a 1955 Buick, driven dy Pegry Ann Martin, 17, Hayti, went out of control on a gravel road and turned over. She received cuts on her left jaw. She was charged with not having an operator's license.

Sandra Struwe, 21, Sikeston, received bruises on her head and knees, when struck by a 1961 GMC truck, driven by William Summerlott, 34, East Prairie.

The driver of the truck pulled up to an intersection and did not see the 1962 Dodge, driven by Miss Struwe, whose car was struck in the side. Summerlott was charged with careless driving.

Two persons were injured on a county road, four miles east of Millersville, yesterday at 5:30 a.m.

A 1959 Ford, driven by Donald Smith, 22, Millersville, and a 1966 Chevrolet, driven by Lloyd Seabaugh, 44, also of Millersville, met headon. A passenger, Karen Seabaugh, 19, was injured, and taken to the Southeast Missouri Hospital, Cape Girardeau, while the driver of the Ford, was treated by a Jackson physician.

Sentence Krueger To Three Life Sentences

By TOM JOHNSON

DALLAS, Tex. AP -- Paul Eric Krueger, who registered in a rooming house under the name Vic Solo a few hours after he shot three fishermen for no apparent reason, was sentenced to three concurrent life terms in prison Wednesday.

The California youth's surprise pleas of guilty and immediate sentencing closed a case which Dist. Atty. Sam Jones of Corpus Christi, called "the most heinous crime ever committed in history of the Texas Gulf Coast."

Krueger, the 18-year-old son of a San Clemente, Calif., industrialist, showed no emotion as sheriff's deputies hustled him from the courtroom. The defense waived all appeal and he will be sent quickly to the state prison at Huntsville.

He was indicted for the April 12, 1965 slayings of John D. Fox, 38; Noel D. Little, 51, and Van D. Carson, 40, all from Corpus Christi. They were shot while fishing off a pier 30 miles south of Corpus Christi.

The trial was transferred to Dallas on a change of venue. A similar move to Brenham earlier this year ended in a stalemate when a jury could not be selected.

Before Judge A. D. Jim Bowie passed sentence, Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill Alexander of Dallas read into the record several affidavits. These detailed how Krueger and a companion embarked on a trip to Venezuela which ended with the unprovoked slayings.

Krueger took the witness stand briefly to state that he had changed his plea voluntarily and the affidavits were "true and correct."

One was given by John Philip Angles, 16, of Hollywood, Calif., who came from California to Texas with Krueger and was present at the slayings. He now is in the state reform school at Gatesville.

Enrollment Tomorrow In Sikeston

Pre - enrollment for next year's first grade pupils will be held in the Sikeston Elementary Schools tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Parents may enroll their children in the school nearest their home. Notification concerning school assignment will be made at that time or at a later date prior to the beginning of the next school term.

The requirements for enrollment and entrance to school for the next term are as follows:

1. A child must have reached his sixth birthday on or before September 15, 1966.

2. Parents must present a record or evidence of a successful vaccination for smallpox; also, immunizations against diptheria and polio are required in order for a child to be admitted to school next September, 1966.

3. Parents must present a valid certificate of birth issued by the state wherein the child was born for entrance to school. (Church or hospital certificates are not acceptable.)

It is absolutely necessary that all first grade children now living in the district who expect to attend school next year be enrolled tomorrow.

It will not be necessary for children to accompany the parents.

A special "orientation day" for the children will be held on May 20th, from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m.

Emergencies

Seven emergency cases were reported at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital yesterday.

More Americans Killed In Viet Nam

STREET WIDENING improvement continues daily in Sikeston. The street department is shown completing the project in the 200 block of North New Madrid street. Each side of the street was widened four feet. Shown at left is William Stokes, superintendent of the department, overseeing the project.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam AP -- More Americans were killed in combat last week than troops of the South Vietnamese government, allied military spokesmen announced today.

It was the second time that American combat dead exceeded the Vietnamese in the five years of American involvement in the war.

Spokesmen announced 82 Americans died in battle last week compared with 61 Vietnamese, although the size of the government armed forces is nearly triple that of the 255,000-man U.S. force here.

It was also the lowest number of Vietnamese battle deaths this year.

During the politically turbulent week of April 3-9, 95 Americans were killed in combat compared with 67 government troops.

The 82 Americans killed brought the number of U.S. combat dead to an unofficial total of 1,386 for the year and 3,234 since Jan. 1, 1961. The Vietnamese report 3,334 killed for the year.

Viet Cong losses were reported as 456 killed--the same figure as the previous week's--and 121 captured, an increase of 23.

As the war continued today, U. S. Marines and airborne troops battled the Viet Cong in three operations while American planes continued to pound targets in North Viet Nam.

A U.S. spokesman reported Navy planes from the Carrier Enterprise came two miles closer to Haiphong, North Viet Nam's major port, to hit a Soviet-built missile site Wednesday. The site was 10 miles from the port city, and the spokesman said smoke billowed 2,000 feet into the air after the attack.

The closest previous attack to Haiphong was 12 miles.

Three missiles were fired from the site before American bombs struck it. None of the planes was hit. But near the North Vietnamese town of Dong Hoi an F105 Thunderchief was shot down by antiaircraft fire, and its pilot was reported missing. It was the 236th U.S. plane lost in raids on North Viet Nam.

Ground action picked up sharply, and elements of two U.S. Marine divisions and of the 101st Airborne Brigade were thrown into battle.

About 90 miles northeast of Saigon, in a thick, tropical jungle, the paratroopers attacked an estimated 200 to 250 men. An American military spokesman said they were Viet Cong. Vietnamese sources said it was the crack 141st North Vietnamese regiment which had recently moved into the area.

American troops ploughing through the jungle poured fire on a small enemy unit Wednesday afternoon, and toward the end of the day enemy fire grew

$45,311 Suit Filed By Russian Lady

KANSAS CITY AP -- A suit for recovery of $45,311 in U.S. government bonds has been filed in Federal Court by Mrs. Luba Orland of Moscow, Russia, against her niece, Mrs. Dorothy Ross of Kansas City.

Judge Elmo B. Hunter took Mrs. Orland's petition under advisement following a hearing Wednesday. Judge Hunter indicated he would ask her to be present for trial.

Mrs. Ross, through her attorney, Charles Harris of Wichita, Kan., contended Mrs. Orland is an imposter and that her real aunt is dead.

In her petition, Mrs. Orland states that she is the sister of the late Rugin Spivak, the father of Mrs. Ross. Spivak, who came to the U. S. from Russia in 1911 when he was 17, died here Nov. 19, 1948.

Mrs. Orland also states that the bonds were issued to Spivak in his name and hers.

Mrs. Ross and her husband, Edward Ross, have been indicted by a Wichita grand jury charging them with forging the signature of Luba Orland to the bonds and cashing them in 1962 at Concordia, Kan.

Live Models In London

LONDON AP -- Henry Mose replaced the wax models in his shop window Wednesday with scantily clad girls and stopped traffic in Carnaby Street, the home of British "mod" fashion.

Motorists and pedestrians gaped and halted as Diane James, 18, and Gina Baker, 19, stepped into the window clad in panties and bras.

Cheers turned to boos when the pretty models started to dress. After donning pants suits, they stripped and put on evening dresses.

With the narrow street blocked by cars and about 300 people, police moved in to get traffic moving again.

Moss said he was paying the girls 5 pounds ($14 a day) "plus brandy to keep them warm."

Hearnes Signs Three Bills Into Law

JEFFERSON CITY, AP -- Gov. Warren E. Hearnes signed three bills into law Wednesday, including one to allow junior colleges to issue revenue bonds for construction of dormitory, social, recreational and dining facilities.

Another signed was an increase for members of the Board of Probation and Parole. The chairman's pay would be raised from $10,500 a year to $17,500 and associate members would get $15,000 instead of $9,000.

A third bill transfers a tract of land in Rolla from the State Division of Geological Survey and Water Resources to the State Division of Mental Diseases as a site for a new regional mental retardation clinic.

Bids For Roadwork

The Missouri State Highway Commission has issued a call for bids May 27 for highway construction and improvements estimated to cost $13,750,000 on about 115 1/2 miles of the state's highways.

The work covers 15 1/2 miles of Interstate system projects estimated to cost $6,000,000; for 91.3 miles of Primary and Urban system routes estimated to cost $6,000,000 and 8.8 miles of Secondary (farm to market) system work estimated at $1,750,000.

Interstate system projects are:

PLATTE: Interstate Route 29 --highway beautification (planting of trees and shrubs) from the Buchanan county line southeast through Platte City.

ST. LOUIS: Interstate Route 44 -- 0.7 miles grading and 22 and 24-foot wide asphaltic concrete paving for outer roadways from Route 141 east towards Sunset Hills.

NEW MADRID: Interstate Route 55 -- constructing two rest area facilities about a mile northeast of Marston.

NEW MADRID - PEMISCOT: Interstate Route 55 -- 14.8 miles grading, bridging, signing and laying two 24-foot wide divided portland cement concrete pavements from U.S. Route 61, northeast of Marston in New Madrid county, southwesterly to present U.S. Route 61, south of Portageville in Pemiscot county. The work includes nine bridges.

NOTICE TO EDITORS

The State of Illinois and the State Highway Commission of Missouri will ask for bids on the following project on May 20:

ST. CLAIR COUNTY, ILL., AND CITY OF ST. LOUIS, MO: Interstate Route 70 -- construction of concrete bridge hub guard, parapets, median, alumunim handrail and barrier rail, bituminous wearing surface, lighting and signing on the Mississippi River Bridge at Poplar Street between the MacArthur and Eads bridges from East St. Louis, Ill., to St. Louis, Mo.

Primary system work includes:

CLINTON: Route 116 -- 4.8 miles 20-foot wide bituminous mat surfacing from Route 33

New School Park Dedicated

ORAN -- Ceremonies were held yesterday at Oran High School dedicating a campus park to the memory of the late Miss Anita Barnes. Miss Barnes was a member of the Oran faculty for 30 years and was elementary school supervisor at the time of her death in 1964.

The park will be called "Barnes Garden". It was constructed by the members of the Oran High School landscaping class under the supervision of Mr. E. G. Smith, Landscaping Instructor.

The memorial of a sundial and granite marker was financed entirely by members of the student body, board members, faculty and employes.

People Urged To Convert Postal Savings

Postmaster Pleas M. Malcolm today urged citizens who have funds on deposit in the abolished Postal Savings System to convert their holdings into United States Savings Bonds.

"Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, who is Chairman of the Federal Savings Bonds Campaign, has appealed to the 930,000 Americans who have $285,000,000 on deposit with the Post Office Department to convert their investments into United States Savings Bonds.

"I join him in urging local citizens who have Postal Savings Accounts to make that change which will be of great benefit to both themselves and our country. Savings Bonds offer every advantage of convenience and security formerly available through Postal Savings Certificates plus many other advantages unique to Savings Bonds," Malcolm said.

Details about the procedure for conversion can be obtained from the Postmaster of any Postal Savings Depository Post Office, which includes Sikeston.

The Postal Savings System, in operation since January 1, 1911, was discontinued April 27, 1966, by Act of Congress. The Post Office Department presently is liquidating its accounts and July 1, 1967, will transfer all unclaimed assets of the System to the Treasury Department.

The decision to abolish the Postal Savings System was made because of declining interest in it by the general public as a savings and investment medium. Higher interest rates paid by financial institutions and other means of investment had attracted the bulk of funds which formerly went into Postal Savings and the convenience factor was negated by expanded hours of service by banks.

The original purposes of the Postal Savings system were to (1) get money out of hiding, (2) attract the savings of immigrants who were accustomed to saving at post offices in their native countries, (3) provide safe depositories for people who had lost confidence in private banks and (4) provide more convenient depositories for savings of working people who were unable to bank during regular banking hours.

"Those purposes have long since been fulfilled," Postmaster Malcolm commented, "and, as Mr. O'Brien has emphasized, no greater new purpose could now be served by funds on deposit in the Postal Savings System than to put them to work for America in the form of United States Savings Bonds."

Cutrell Ends Work At Shoe Factory

Raymond Cutrell, 527 East Kathleen, who has been with the International Shoe Company 43 years, will retire June 11. He worked both in the cutting and fitting departments during his long span of employment.

He began his employment in the old building, located behind the Dunn Hotel building.

Cutrell was born in Illinois, and was married to the former Miss Edna Boardman, Sikeston, in 1924. They have no children. He plans to fish and rest after his retirement.

Several Felonies At New Madrid

NEW MADRID: Several persons faced felony charges this week in the New Madrid County Magistrate Court. Judge Erie Wright of Portageville presided.

Bobby Eugene Melton, charged with seven counts of grand larceny, entered pleas of guilty to each count and was held for trial in the Circuit Court with a $1,500 bond.

James Melton also pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny. He was held on $500 bond.

Walter Wells, charged with three counts of burglary and larceny, pled guilty to each count and was held for the higher court on bonds totaling $500.

Supplying beer to minors brought a fine of $20 to Muril Richardson.

Others fined were: improper registration of a motor vehicle -- James Ray Talbert, $11, R. H. Cope, $15, and Alvin Odell Cluck, $15; out of state operator's license -- Jewell Dean Woods, $25; careless and reckless driving -- Luther Sims, $25; fishing without a permit -- James Fiitus, $15; permit unauthorized person to drive -- William Proctor Russell, $15; operating a motor vehicle with illegal use of dealer license -- Gene Fletcher Abernathy, $11; no PSC authority -- H.L. Campbell, $35; littering highway -- Alvin Odell Cluck, $36; no operator's license -- Robert Marvin Carter, $15; exceeding legal load limits -- Hedrick Concrete Company, $45 on each of two counts; cheat and defraud -- Jim Perdue, $11.

Carson Ends Tenure at Sikeston

Ed Carson, who for the past six years has been instrumental music instructor in the Sikeston junior high and elementary schools, has accepted a position as music instructor at North Junior high school in Kirkwood, St. Louis county for next year.

He will be replaced by Ronald Williams, formerly of Campbell. Williams is presently a music instructor in the Woodland schools at Lutesville.

Before coming to Sikeston in 1960, Carson taught music at Clarkton, Illmo - Scott City and Jackson high school.

Williams is a graduate of Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark., with a bachelor degree in music.

His wife, Sally, was also raised in Campbell. They have one son, Brian two and one-half years old. They are members of the Baptist church.

A "BOSS" HAS NOTHING TO DO . . .

EXCEPT--

--decide what to do and tell somebody to do it.

--listen why it should not be done, or done by somebody else, or done differently.

--follow up to see if it has been done and discover it hasn't.

--inquire why and listen to excuses.

--follow up a second time only to discover that it has been done but done incorrectly.

--point out how it should have been done but conclude that as long as it has been done it may as well be left as it is.

--consider how much simpler and better the thing would have been done if he had done it himself in the first place.

But to do it himself would strike at the very foundation of the belief that a "BOSS" has nothing to do.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

The Business Council begins a four-day meeting at Hot Springs, Va., today.

THE STOCK MARKET, according to an old Wall Street adage, hates uncertainty. The sharply declining indices of early May are a tribute to that old saw. Traders seem not so much afraid that the government will raise interest rates and impose new taxes to cool off the boom -- or that it won't -- as they are unhappy that they don't know at all what the government really will do.

Thus a meeting in Hot Springs, Va., in mid-May presents an ideal and most discreet forum for administration leaders to give the business community some fresh confidence. This would be the semi-annual meeting of the Business Council, which is being attended by 140 to 150 executives of the country's biggest corporations. Originally the Business Advisory Council, the group once had a semi-official connection with the Commerce Department. It shook the "Advisory" and the government tie in July 1961 after a dispute with Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges over the secrecy of its meetings and over its composition.

But the relationship with government is still both intimate and respectful. Amond the administration leaders who are crossing the Potomac to brief the BC are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Presidential Economic Adviser Gardner Ackley, UN Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Commerce Secretary John T. Connor, and Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler.

IT WAS FOWLER who on May 5 firmly replied, "No, not yet" to tax increase proposals. He said that current inflationary problems could prove temporary. A hastily concocted tax boost could be an "overcure." What is needed is "to apply as much restraint as necessary -- and no more."

Two days earlier Federal Reserve Chairman William McC. Martin had called for a "simple, clean-cut, across-the-board increase in income taxes -- both corporate and individual." Martin argued that a tax increase is "the logical way" to deal with inflation problems which arise from the federal budget deficit. He said that the United States is "very near full employment, if not at it."

This point of view was echoed on May 5 by Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund. Schweitzer said that in the present situation he would "rather err on the side of increased taxes, and doing things like that."

THE THREAT OF INFLATION bothered the Federal Reserve Board long before it did the President's advisers. When the Fed raised its discount rate last Dec. 5, the almost monolithic reaction of administration spokesmen was chagrin. The President himself, in his neo-Populist fashion, had told the Business Council only three days earlier: "We can produce the goods and services we require without overheating the economy."

An interesting middle position is taken by the Washington Post. The newspaper suggests that Congress pass a tax increase without an effective date. Then the actual hike -- when and if -- would be made after an intensive consultation with government and business experts.

At any rate, the administration will soon want to share its thinking. The present meeting of the powerful and prestigious Business Council offers a good medium.

A POOR LOCATION

There is no such thing as a "poor location" for a store that advertises and promotes.

The right kind of advertising can create traffic for any store regardless of location. All that is necessary is to give the customer a good valid reason for going to the sideline location.

There is one other point worth remembering, too. Once the advertising program is started it must be continued. This means that the appropriation for advertising must be budgeted to go around the year.

A BITE OF CROW

We fought him in the past -- as hard as we knew how -- but passing years and cooling passions have opened our ears to the beginning whispers of history telling us we were wrong: Harry Truman was a good president.

We thought we were right, as did 80 percent of the nation's dailies representing 90 percent of all daily circulation. Yet the people told us we were wrong, and history upholds the people. After nearly 20 years, a thread of small truth found here, another there, have woven into a larger tapestry of truth. Integrity and conscience demand we confess our sin, apologize for our arrogance and honor our fellow Missourian.

Today, more than 400 friends honored him--ambassadors, statesmen, governors, and just plain people -- with a birthday party for Harry. The President and the chief justice of the Supreme Court took time from a busy day to call him their sincere best wishes. Not as a gesture of polity, but because here is a man who deserves honor.

Harry Truman turned 82 yesterday. A benevolent 82? Hardly; a ball of fire never cools as long as there is flame, and that "give-'em-hell" flame will burn fiercely as long as there's a breath left in the Man from Missouri.

We remember Mr. Truman vividly on the night he accepted the vice presidential nomination in his native town of Lamar. It was our first glimpse -- not a favorable one, for his voice was flat and slightly raspy, his speech uninspired. Mr. Truman never could speak from script, but off the cuff, Harry was a delight to newsmen.

The whispers of history are reminders of courage we once failed to see -- courage seldom seen in politics or statecraft.

For example in 1948, Harry Truman was licked, and everybody -- even we -- told him so. Three years in the White House -- foot in mouth many times -- had not endeared him to Americans who, a Gallup Poll revealed, were nearly two to one against him.

His party was split, not once but twice, as Henry Wallace and Strom Thurmond formed their own parties. New Dealers turned against him, Labor scorned him, and a son of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt led an open revolt to find another candidate.

In June, the Republicans, well-financed and well unified, nominated Tom Dewey, a proven administrator with a national reputation. In July, the Democrats nominated Truman for lack of another candidate, and convention banners, "We're MILD About Harry," revealed his party's real feeling. Democrats went home to dream of happier days -- in say, four or eight more years. Federal office holders put their homes up for sale getting ready for the exodus from Washington.

Democratic leaders wouldn't support his campaign, wouldn't even raise funds for it. Harry hit for the hinterlands -- the people of America. With strong, earthy, common-people talk, he fired them up. They, finally meeting and seeing this fighting bantam, gave him their hearts.

He couldn't win; everyone said it, even on election eve. No one believed in Harry -- none but the people. Result: the political upset of the century.

Courage? Statecraft? In Greece, Harry Truman stepped in and halted a Communist takeover; in Iran, he hurled the challenge of conquest back in the Kremlin teeth; in all Western Europe, he stood firm until Moscow backed down. No wonder Winston Churchill later said to Truman, "You, more than any man, saved Western Civilization."

NEW YORK AP -- How long has it been since you've taken a teen-ager to lunch?

Why not do so today -- just as a gesture of peace and to let him know you recognize him as a member of the human race?

Surely there is a teen-ager in your neighborhood who doesn't carry a switchblade knife, gulp goofballs, or go around beating up old people and snatching purses.

The teen-ager in recent years has been the target of a lot of abuse from reformers, social critics and professional woecriers. It is as if we grownups, seeing the mess the world is in, were trying to wash out our own guilt by making our next generation feel guilty.

Many teen-agers feel it is them against the world, for everywhere they turn they meet a fresh tirade.

What the average teen-ager needs is not so much a friend in court -- because he isn't haled into court -- but a friend out of court. He doesn't need someone to gnat-pick him to death, but someone to try to understand his confusion and groping dreams.

Adults smile tolerantly or sneer intolerantly at the problems of adolescence. But being an adolescent is a terrible ordeal, a lonely and private struggle of the reaching soul, a swim for life in trouble waters.

Never again in this world does one need as much help as he does in the eight years between 12 and 20, when all's in doubt and nought seems certain. Never again will he have to sift and choose between so many conflicting and bewildering values and possibilities.

For all the appalling wildness of a minority of teen-agers, the typical one today really isn't so bad, is he?

He may watch television too much, talk on the telephone too long, be a bit brash in dealing with his elders, afflicted with acne, and subject to leg cramps if he has to walk more than three blocks.

They are more than balanced by virtues. The teen-ager is no lazyboned shirker. He is being stuffed with ever-expanding knowledge as if he were a Strasbourg goose, and spends more hours studying at school and at home than most men work in offices or factories.

He is no soft-muscled coward either. He is carrying the brunt of a jungle and air war in far-off Viet Nam, a war as tough as American men have ever fought anywhere. These young soldier idealists -- and most of them are idealistic about their mission -- should be our nation's major pride.

The truth is that the American teen-ager, on the whole, is as good as any that time has ever produced. And instead of knocking him, it might be a good idea to take the kid out to lunch, pat him on the back and tell him how lucky we are to have him around in days that may get more dangerous before they get safer.

AND 30 1/2 NOT TO GROW ON

A farmer in Huron County, Ohio, notes Tax Foundation, Inc., recently took a personal puzzlement to the editor of his local paper, the "Wellington Enterprise," in these words:

"Dear Editor: The boys at the office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service . . . .say there's too much corn in the country, so they'll give me $1,170 to not plant 30 1/2 acres of it.

"But they don't want me to not grow too much corn so if I'll plant the other 30½ acres of my allotment they'll give me another $860, or $2,030 for growing 30 1/2 acres and not growing 30 1/2 acres. $585 of this is cash on the barrel head as soon as I'll sign on the dotted line. The balance I'll have to wait for until I get my 30½ acres grown and my 30 1/2 acres not grown.

"It doesn't take much work to not grow 30 1/2 acres of corn so I can get me a job and work long enough to get laid off. Then I can get paid for not working and for not growing corn and I can spend my time writing letters to the editor."

As of the end of 1965, the Commodity Credit Corporation had 530 million bushels of price-supported corn in inventory. It cost Uncle Sam $647 million, or $13.56 per U.S. family to acquire this surplus corn, the Foundation estimated.

What one hand giveth, another hand taketh awa.

That is often the case with taxes.

The Washington publicists see to it that all-out notice is given to tax reductions. But it's a different story with tax increases. As little as possible is officially said of them.

Take, for instance, the social security tax. From the time the system got under way in 1937 until 1949, the maximum was employer. Under existing law, it is scheduled to reach $222 on each of the payers in 1968.

However, a pending bill, which includes the dubious medicare program, would shoot it up farther and faster. By 1987, each employee earning $6,-600 or more a year would have to pay $369.60 and his employer would match it, for a total of $739.20.

That isn't the end to the tax story. The states have been joining in the act, with new or increased sales, income and other such taxes.

So, to repeat, what one hand giveth, another hand taketh away.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE DESIRE TO BE FREE

It is a grave error to assume that most men automatically desire freedom above all else. If they did, the history of mankind would have been vastly different, and far less tragic.

Some men in any age can always be found who put freedom first. But they must never cease to teach their fellow-men its blessings, both by words and by example. People who are losing, or who have lost their freedom, find that their lives have become barren, monotonous, empty and meaningless, but they do not understand why.

There is a concerted effort among all who wish to supplant freedom with power, or find freedom an obstacle to their plans, to convince people that freedom is undesirable after all. Their favorite device is to convince the people that security should come first and freedom later. That way they justify the use of force, the antithesis of freedom, in order to promise economic security.

Thinking that most people know little history, these planners for a total state are confident that most people do not know, and will not learn, that only in freedom and the absence of coercion is the kind of production possible which can banish poverty forever.

The desire for freedom does exist in most people. But, like a delicate plant, it must be carefully cultivated. The natural yearning for freedom must be defended and justified against all the insidious doctrines of collectivism and forced altruism that would kill it. That is the constant task and the high calling of freedom's champions. HLH

WASHINGTON -- Art Buchwald, my non-serious colleague, came out to the farm the other day for lunch. Nosing around the place, he remarked:

"I'm here for Senator Dodd to see if the place is worth $5,000,000."

"Of course Sen. Dodd has been damaged," remarked Mrs. P. "He won't be able to hold those $100-a-plate dinners anymore and put the proceeds in his own pocket."

All kidding aside, there are some important aspects to libel suits brought or threatened for the purpose of stopping public discussion.

John F. Sonnett, attorney for Sen. Dodd, let one aspect out of the bag when he appeared before Judge Alexander Holtzoff over the weekend, when courts normally are not in session and with only one side being heard, in Dodd's recent $5,000,000 publicity stunt. Very frankly Sonnett stated "The vendetta will not voluntarily stop" unless "immediate steps" are taken.

In other words, a primary purpose of Dodd's libel action was to shut off further revelations regarding Dodd.

ANOTHER LIBEL THREAT

Simulatenously, in San Francisco, the Christopher Farms Dairy sent telegrams to all of our California newspapers warning against publication of my columns regarding the convictions of George Christopher for watering milk and taking farmer kickbacks. Christopher is now running for governor of California.

The telegrams were signed by James C. Purcell on behalf of Christopher Dairy Farms, a "corporation." The telegrams emphasized three times that this "corporation" might be damaged, implying that a corporation could scare editors more than an individual.

It did scare some California editors into suppressing the column. It also scared radio station KFBK in Sacramento, owned by the McClatchy Newspapers, into suppressing part of a radio broadcast.

However, the Christopher Farms Corporation is owned by the man who aspires to the highest office in California, which rates with New York as a stepping-stone to the presidency; so it would seem fair that the voters know the full record of such an important candidate whether he hides behind a "corporation" or not.

The record consisted of criminal pleas entered in the court records and the inspection books of the California Health Department. These are privileged documents, open to public inspection. However, the average voter hasn't the time to go up to Marin County or San Francisco to look at the records, so he has to rely on the press to inform him.

The press, of course, is protected by the First Amendment of the Constitution in performing this duty and more recently by the Supreme Court's decision in New York Times versus Sullivan that public officials are definitely subject to criticism without newspapers being subjected to the expense of jury trials; though I confess that some U.S. District judges have been very slow about reading and following the Supreme Court's opinion.

In any event, regardless of the Dodd libel suit or other threats of suits, this column will continue to do its best to report the facts regarding public officials or would-be public officials who have had conflicts of interest. Sen. Dodd, Democrat of Connecticut, and Ex-Mayor Christopher, Republican of California, both fall in this category.

RELUCTANT ALLIES

It's being kept out of the British press, but U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce in London has quietly sounded out the British about transferring some of their 50,000 troops, now defending Malaysia, to South Viet Nam.

Behind the Ambassador's discreet inquiry is the fact that President Sukarno of Indonesia is now stripped of his power; so military pressure on Malaysia has eased. This makes several thousand jungle-trained British troops relatively idle. Since they are next door to Viet Nam, the United States would have to have them transferred to the South Vietnamese battlefront.

Ambassador Bruce's suggestion, however, was not well received. Opposition to the Viet Nam war is so intense in Britain that the Labor government would have a revolt from its own members if British troops were used in Viet Nam.

American diplomats abroad are doing their best to win friends for Premier Ky in South Viet Nam, but it's tough going.

Ambassador Walworth Barbour in Tel Aviv has called upon Israeli Foreign Minister Aba Eban to ask Israel to recognize South Viet Nam. Since Premier Ky has publicly stated that Hitler is his hero, this is quite a request to make of a Jewish foreign minister. Furthermore, American policies in South Viet are most unpopular all over Asia, whether Moslem or Jewish.

Foreign Minister Bean is an old friend of the United States, served a long time in Washington as ambassador, but in polite language he told Ambassador Barbour "No."

Inside Labor

Militant Leftist Bloc Launched Inside Labor To End Conflict They Call "Dirty U.S. War" in Viet Nam

New York: -- A militant labor leader, who has accused the U.S. of fighting a "dirty war which is poisoning us," has been pushing a whirlwind campaign to organize a powerful union opposed to American policies in Southeast Asia.

It is a daring move. For, if successful, the new bloc could mobilize thousands in every great city. But it is the kind of political venture with which its leader, David Livingston, has long been identified.

Though his name hardly is a byword in the land, in informed labor circles he is synonymous with mass, militant, direct labor action and perpetual left-wing stormy petrel-ism on all issues since he helped launch the Bring the Boys Back Home Movement at the end of the last big war.

Now he wants to end this one--fast. And he has gathered around him a bloc of other militants in labor who met Tuesday, May 3, and launched the Trade Union Division of SANE.

With Mr. Livingston, who is president of District 65 of the wholesale and retail international, are leaders of unions with several hundred thousand members in the hotel, banking, auto, fur, jewelry, hospital, transit, men's clothing, state, county and municipal, oil, chemical, atomic and furniture fields.

With them before the formal launching in an auditorium near the United Nations Plaza was lanky Al Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers.

After some phone conversations with Mr. Livingston, Mr. Shanker, leader of some 40,-000 New York City school teachers, quit the group. His letter to Mr. Livingston, written after he saw the "call" dispatched by the organizing group to hundreds of union chiefs, speaks quite succinctly for itself:

"Dear Dave: As I indicated to you in an earlier phone call, I did not want to speak out against our government policy in Viet Nam," Mr. Shanker wrote on April 22.

"My personal position and that of the national American Federation of Teachers is to support President Johnson. However, I did agree that it would be a good idea to have a Trade Union Division of SANE, and I did agree to act as a sponsor for a founding meeting.

"Unfortunately, the invitation that went out, while worded somewhat mildly, is also misleading.

"It talks about the fact that many have 'spoken out' on Viet Nam and goes on to say that 'one group of Americans conspicuous by their absence from the national dialogue has been organized labor.' I do not think this is so.

"The AFL-CIO and many unions have spoken out in support of the government's policy.

"Thus there can be no other interpretation of this statement than that it is the intention to organize a group to speak out against the government's policy in Viet Nam, something which I did not intend to do and do not intend to do.

"Also, after some thought, I really do not think it is a good idea to have a trade union branch of SANE since I don't think that unionists have any special interest in the problems of war and peace. We all face this issue as citizens rather than unionists.

"I think. . .it would be best . . .to remove my name from furture participation."

The SANE call, signed by 16 fairly influential labor leaders, charged that "we intend to rectify" the "condition" -- meaning the alleged failure of American labor to speak out.

Many believe this to be a strange charge, indeed. Mr. Livingston, an avid reader of labor resolutions, should have known that the AFL-CIO national convention said after careful consideration of the Viet Nam conflict:

"The Communists are waging a war of conquest, a war for the annexation of South Viet Nam by Ho Chi Minh's regime. This war is not an isolated local conflict. It is an integral phase of the Communist drive for dominating the world. . .

"In this realization, the American people fully support President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam. Our Convention pledges unstinting support by the AFL-CIO of all measures the Administration might deem necessary to halt Communist aggression and secure a just and lasting peace."

This was reaffirmed by the Executive Council two months later.

It is therefore as obvious as the stone face on the Sphinx that Mr. Livingston and his militant bloc are ignoring the voice of some 13 million unionists. It is obvious that Mr. Livingston and his group are breaking with their national leadership in the first mass schism on the labor front.

It is a daring move. It will be countered. There will be noise on the nation's streets.

A formidable left wing has surfaced in the labor movement -- and, of course, at this crucial moment in the nation's history.

DECISIONS, DECISIONS

The Business Council begins a four-day meeting at Hot Springs, Va., today.

THE STOCK MARKET, according to an old Wall Street adage, hates uncertainty. The sharply declining indices of early May are a tribute to that old saw. Traders seem not so much afraid that the government will raise interest rates and impose new taxes to cool off the boom -- or that it won't -- as they are unhappy that they don't know at all what the government really will do.

Thus a meeting in Hot Springs, Va., in mid-May presents an ideal and most discreet forum for administration leaders to give the business community some fresh confidence. This would be the semi-annual meeting of the Business Council, which is being attended by 140 to 150 executives of the country's biggest corporations. Originally the Business Advisory Council, the group once had a semi-official connection with the Commerce Department. It shook the "Advisory" and the government tie in July 1961 after a dispute with Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges over the secrecy of its meetings and over its composition.

But the relationship with government is still both intimate and respectful. Amond the administration leaders who are crossing the Potomac to brief the BC are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Presidential Economic Adviser Gardner Ackley, UN Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg, Commerce Secretary John T. Connor, and Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler.

IT WAS FOWLER who on May 5 firmly replied, "No, not yet" to tax increase proposals. He said that current inflationary problems could prove temporary. A hastily concocted tax boost could be an "overcure." What is needed is "to apply as much restraint as necessary -- and no more."

Two days earlier Federal Reserve Chairman William McC. Martin had called for a "simple, clean-cut, across-the-board increase in income taxes -- both corporate and individual." Martin argued that a tax increase is "the logical way" to deal with inflation problems which arise from the federal budget deficit. He said that the United States is "very near full employment, if not at it."

This point of view was echoed on May 5 by Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of the International Monetary Fund. Schweitzer said that in the present situation he would "rather err on the side of increased taxes, and doing things like that."

THE THREAT OF INFLATION bothered the Federal Reserve Board long before it did the President's advisers. When the Fed raised its discount rate last Dec. 5, the almost monolithic reaction of administration spokesmen was chagrin. The President himself, in his neo-Populist fashion, had told the Business Council only three days earlier: "We can produce the goods and services we require without overheating the economy."

An interesting middle position is taken by the Washington Post. The newspaper suggests that Congress pass a tax increase without an effective date. Then the actual hike -- when and if -- would be made after an intensive consultation with government and business experts.

At any rate, the administration will soon want to share its thinking. The present meeting of the powerful and prestigious Business Council offers a good medium.

A POOR LOCATION

There is no such thing as a "poor location" for a store that advertises and promotes.

The right kind of advertising can create traffic for any store regardless of location. All that is necessary is to give the customer a good valid reason for going to the sideline location.

There is one other point worth remembering, too. Once the advertising program is started it must be continued. This means that the appropriation for advertising must be budgeted to go around the year.

A BITE OF CROW

We fought him in the past -- as hard as we knew how -- but passing years and cooling passions have opened our ears to the beginning whispers of history telling us we were wrong: Harry Truman was a good president.

We thought we were right, as did 80 percent of the nation's dailies representing 90 percent of all daily circulation. Yet the people told us we were wrong, and history upholds the people. After nearly 20 years, a thread of small truth found here, another there, have woven into a larger tapestry of truth. Integrity and conscience demand we confess our sin, apologize for our arrogance and honor our fellow Missourian.

Today, more than 400 friends honored him--ambassadors, statesmen, governors, and just plain people -- with a birthday party for Harry. The President and the chief justice of the Supreme Court took time from a busy day to call him their sincere best wishes. Not as a gesture of polity, but because here is a man who deserves honor.

Harry Truman turned 82 yesterday. A benevolent 82? Hardly; a ball of fire never cools as long as there is flame, and that "give-'em-hell" flame will burn fiercely as long as there's a breath left in the Man from Missouri.

We remember Mr. Truman vividly on the night he accepted the vice presidential nomination in his native town of Lamar. It was our first glimpse -- not a favorable one, for his voice was flat and slightly raspy, his speech uninspired. Mr. Truman never could speak from script, but off the cuff, Harry was a delight to newsmen.

The whispers of history are reminders of courage we once failed to see -- courage seldom seen in politics or statecraft.

For example in 1948, Harry Truman was licked, and everybody -- even we -- told him so. Three years in the White House -- foot in mouth many times -- had not endeared him to Americans who, a Gallup Poll revealed, were nearly two to one against him.

His party was split, not once but twice, as Henry Wallace and Strom Thurmond formed their own parties. New Dealers turned against him, Labor scorned him, and a son of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt led an open revolt to find another candidate.

In June, the Republicans, well-financed and well unified, nominated Tom Dewey, a proven administrator with a national reputation. In July, the Democrats nominated Truman for lack of another candidate, and convention banners, "We're MILD About Harry," revealed his party's real feeling. Democrats went home to dream of happier days -- in say, four or eight more years. Federal office holders put their homes up for sale getting ready for the exodus from Washington.

Democratic leaders wouldn't support his campaign, wouldn't even raise funds for it. Harry hit for the hinterlands -- the people of America. With strong, earthy, common-people talk, he fired them up. They, finally meeting and seeing this fighting bantam, gave him their hearts.

He couldn't win; everyone said it, even on election eve. No one believed in Harry -- none but the people. Result: the political upset of the century.

Courage? Statecraft? In Greece, Harry Truman stepped in and halted a Communist takeover; in Iran, he hurled the challenge of conquest back in the Kremlin teeth; in all Western Europe, he stood firm until Moscow backed down. No wonder Winston Churchill later said to Truman, "You, more than any man, saved Western Civilization."

NEW YORK AP -- How long has it been since you've taken a teen-ager to lunch?

Why not do so today -- just as a gesture of peace and to let him know you recognize him as a member of the human race?

Surely there is a teen-ager in your neighborhood who doesn't carry a switchblade knife, gulp goofballs, or go around beating up old people and snatching purses.

The teen-ager in recent years has been the target of a lot of abuse from reformers, social critics and professional woecriers. It is as if we grownups, seeing the mess the world is in, were trying to wash out our own guilt by making our next generation feel guilty.

Many teen-agers feel it is them against the world, for everywhere they turn they meet a fresh tirade.

What the average teen-ager needs is not so much a friend in court -- because he isn't haled into court -- but a friend out of court. He doesn't need someone to gnat-pick him to death, but someone to try to understand his confusion and groping dreams.

Adults smile tolerantly or sneer intolerantly at the problems of adolescence. But being an adolescent is a terrible ordeal, a lonely and private struggle of the reaching soul, a swim for life in trouble waters.

Never again in this world does one need as much help as he does in the eight years between 12 and 20, when all's in doubt and nought seems certain. Never again will he have to sift and choose between so many conflicting and bewildering values and possibilities.

For all the appalling wildness of a minority of teen-agers, the typical one today really isn't so bad, is he?

He may watch television too much, talk on the telephone too long, be a bit brash in dealing with his elders, afflicted with acne, and subject to leg cramps if he has to walk more than three blocks.

They are more than balanced by virtues. The teen-ager is no lazyboned shirker. He is being stuffed with ever-expanding knowledge as if he were a Strasbourg goose, and spends more hours studying at school and at home than most men work in offices or factories.

He is no soft-muscled coward either. He is carrying the brunt of a jungle and air war in far-off Viet Nam, a war as tough as American men have ever fought anywhere. These young soldier idealists -- and most of them are idealistic about their mission -- should be our nation's major pride.

The truth is that the American teen-ager, on the whole, is as good as any that time has ever produced. And instead of knocking him, it might be a good idea to take the kid out to lunch, pat him on the back and tell him how lucky we are to have him around in days that may get more dangerous before they get safer.

AND 30 1/2 NOT TO GROW ON

A farmer in Huron County, Ohio, notes Tax Foundation, Inc., recently took a personal puzzlement to the editor of his local paper, the "Wellington Enterprise," in these words:

"Dear Editor: The boys at the office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service . . . say there's too much corn in the country, so they'll give me $1,170 to not plant 30 1/2 acres of it.

"But they don't want me to not grow too much corn so if I'll plant the other 30½ acres of my allotment they'll give me another $860, or $2,030 for growing 30 1/2 acres and not growing 30 1/2 acres. $585 of this is cash on the barrel head as soon as I'll sign on the dotted line. The balance I'll have to wait for until I get my 30½ acres grown and my 30 1/2 acres not grown.

"It doesn't take much work to not grow 30 1/2 acres of corn so I can get me a job and work long enough to get laid off. Then I can get paid for not working and for not growing corn and I can spend my time writing letters to the editor."

As of the end of 1965, the Commodity Credit Corporation had 530 million bushels of price-supported corn in inventory. It cost Uncle Sam $647 million, or $13.56 per U.S. family to acquire this surplus corn, the Foundation estimated.

Since Premier Ky has publicly stated that Hitler is his hero, this is quite a request to make of a Jewish foreign minister. Furthermore, American policies in South Viet are most unpopular all over Asia, whether Moslem or Jewish.

Foreign Minister Bean is an old friend of the United States, served a long time in Washington as ambassador, but in polite language he told Ambassador Barbour "No."

Politics Pay -- The Communications Satellite Corporation, a semi-public organization which beams radio and TV signals off a satellite to the rest of the world, is supposed to be non-political, but it certainly understands politics. It has placed one ground station in Washington state, home of Chairman Warren Magnuson of the Senate Commerce Committee, and another in Moorefield, West Virginia, the district of Chairman Harley Staggers of the House Commerce Committee.

Valenti's salary -- Jack Valenti will receive a $125,000 salary as czar of the motion picture industry, plus $50,000 for expenses. In addition, Louis Nizer, who was pushed out of the job when the President intervened on behalf of his young assistant, will get a $1 million fee to be Hollywood's legal counsel. It pays to have friends in the White House.

H. L. Hunt Says

THE DESIRE TO BE FREE

It is a grave error to assume that most men automatically desire freedom above all else. If they did, the history of mankind would have been vastly different, and far less tragic.

Some men in any age can always be found who put freedom first. But they must never cease to teach their fellow-men its blessings, both by words and by example. People who are losing, or who have lost their freedom, find that their lives have become barren, monotonous, empty and meaningless, but they do not understand why.

There is a concerted effort among all who wish to supplant freedom with power, or find freedom an obstacle to their plans, to convince people that freedom is undesirable after all. Their favorite device is to convince the people that security should come first and freedom later. That way they justify the use of force, the antithesis of freedom, in order to promise economic security.

Thinking that most people know little history, these planners for a total state are confident that most people do not know, and will not learn, that only in freedom and the absence of coercion is the kind of production possible which can banish poverty forever.

The desire for freedom does exist in most people. But, like a delicate plant, it must be carefully cultivated. The natural yearning for freedom must be defended and justified against all the insidious doctrines of collectivism and forced altruism that would kill it. That is the constant task and the high calling of freedom's champions. HLH

By Victor Riesel

Militant Leftist Bloc Launched Inside Labor To End Conflict They Call "Dirty U.S. War" in Viet Nam

New York: -- A militant labor leader, who has accused the U.S. of fighting a "dirty war which is poisoning us," has been pushing a whirlwind campaign to organize a powerful union opposed to American policies in Southeast Asia.

It is a daring move. For, if successful, the new bloc could mobilize thousands in every great city. But it is the kind of political venture with which its leader, David Livingston, has long been identified.

Though his name hardly is a byword in the land, in informed labor circles he is synonymous with mass, militant, direct labor action and perpetual left-wing stormy petrel-ism on all issues since he helped launch the Bring the Boys Back Home Movement at the end of the last big war.

Now he wants to end this one--fast. And he has gathered around him a bloc of other militants in labor who met Tuesday, May 3, and launched the Trade Union Division of SANE.

With Mr. Livingston, who is president of District 65 of the wholesale and retail international, are leaders of unions with several hundred thousand members in the hotel, banking, auto, fur, jewelry, hospital, transit, men's clothing, state, county and municipal, oil, chemical, atomic and furniture fields.

With them before the formal launching in an auditorium near the United Nations Plaza was lanky Al Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers.

After some phone conversations with Mr. Livingston, Mr. Shanker, leader of some 40,-000 New York City school teachers, quit the group. His letter to Mr. Livingston, written after he saw the "call" dispatched by the organizing group to hundreds of union chiefs, speaks quite succinctly for itself:

"Dear Dave: As I indicated to you in an earlier phone call, I did not want to speak out against our government policy in Viet Nam," Mr. Shanker wrote on April 22.

"My personal position and that of the national American Federation of Teachers is to support President Johnson. However, I did agree that it would be a good idea to have a Trade Union Division of SANE, and I did agree to act as a sponsor for a founding meeting.

"Unfortunately, the invitation that went out, while worded somewhat mildly, is also misleading.

"It talks about the fact that many have 'spoken out' on Viet Nam and goes on to say that 'one group of Americans conspicuous by their absence from the national dialogue has been organized labor.' I do not think this is so.

"The AFL-CIO and many unions have spoken out in support of the government's policy.

"Thus there can be no other interpretation of this statement than that it is the intention to organize a group to speak out against the government's policy in Viet Nam, something which I did not intend to do and do not intend to do.

"Also, after some thought, I really do not think it is a good idea to have a trade union branch of SANE since I don't think that unionists have any special interest in the problems of war and peace. We all face this issue as citizens rather than unionists.

"I think. . .it would be best . . .to remove my name from furture participation."

The SANE call, signed by 16 fairly influential labor leaders, charged that "we intend to rectify" the "condition" -- meaning the alleged failure of American labor to speak out.

Many believe this to be a strange charge, indeed. Mr. Livingston, an avid reader of labor resolutions, should have known that the AFL-CIO national convention said after careful consideration of the Viet Nam conflict:

"The Communists are waging a war of conquest, a war for the annexation of South Viet Nam by Ho Chi Minh's regime. This war is not an isolated local conflict. It is an integral phase of the Communist drive for dominating the world. . .

"In this realization, the American people fully support President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam. Our Convention pledges unstinting support by the AFL-CIO of all measures the Administration might deem necessary to halt Communist aggression and secure a just and lasting peace."

This was reaffirmed by the Executive Council two months later.

It is therefore as obvious as the stone face on the Sphinx that Mr. Livingston and his militant bloc are ignoring the voice of some 13 million unionists. It is obvious that Mr. Livingston and his group are breaking with their national leadership in the first mass schism on the labor front.

It is a daring move. It will be countered. There will be noise on the nation's streets. A formidable left wing has surfaced in the labor movement -- and, of course, at this crucial moment in the nation's history.

Miss Darlene Buchanan

Buchanan-Owens Vows To Be Pledged June 18

Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Buchanan wish to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Darlene, to Danny Owens, son of Mrs. Willis Owens and the late Mr. Owens of Vanduser.

The bride-to-be graduated from Sikeston high school and is presently employed as a bookkeeper at Jarvis and Conn Motor Company.

The prospective groom graduated from Vanduser high school and attended college in Rolla. He is now employed at the State Highway Department office.

Plans are being made for a June 18 wedding at 7:30 p.m. at the First General Baptist church. Friends and relatives are invited.

Alumni Association Has Annual Meeting Saturday

MATTHEWS -- The Alumni Association of Matthews high school held its 28th annual dinner meeting Saturday evening. Eighty - seven members and guests were present for the banquet served in the multipurpose room by members of the Christian Women's Fellowship. The school colors, black and gold, were used in the decorations, class year dates decorated the tables, and gold chrysanthemums were used in the floral arrangements on the tables.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Sam Harbin, vice-president of business developments and customer relations of the Bank of Sikeston. Harbin discussed changes in values, morals, attitudes toward essentials and luxuries. Many in the audience were in agreement that we provide our youth too much and deprive them the opportunity of developing the initiative and satisfaction of earning for themselves.

A quaret composed of Mrs. Luthada Ashley King, Mrs. Jeno Silverthorn Richards, Joe Silverthorn, and B. B. Conrad, accompanied by Miss Louanna Sutton, sang numbers that struck a note of nostalgia for alumni who were former glee club members.

Billy M. Burch presided during the business session. The invocation was given by Nelson Lumsden. Lester M. King, superintendent of schools, welcomed the group. Response was made by Wallace Waters. Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Alma Daniels Curtis. Announcement was made that Miss Sharon Shorter was the recipient last year of the $100 alumni scholarship awarded the highest ranking senior enrolling at Southeast Missouri State College, Cape Girardeau.

The Class of 1932 enjoyed a letter from Capt. Curtis Tetley of Falls Church, Va., which was accompanied by an album of color photos of his family, the oldest grandchild, and newspaper clippings concerning family activities. He mentioned the embarrassment he experienced soon after his last air view of Matthews high school. In 1942, during World War II, he was flying a plane. When an assignment brought him through the area, he "buzzed" the school, proceeded northward to the Pharris Ridge community where he flew too low when he "buzzed" the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Tetley, as a signal to meet him at the Sikeston Airport. The strand of utility wire on the plane bore mute evidence as to the cause of the community being in darkness for several hours.

The group voted to have the next meeting in February or March of 1968, the definite date to be set by the executive committee. Officers elected by acclamation as presented by chairman of the nominating committee, Gene Curtis were: President Mrs. Alma Daniels Curtis, vice president, Billy M. Burch; Secretary Mrs. Patsy McCoy Payne; and Treasurer D. G. Scott, Jr. Though there will be no general meeting in 1967 the scholarship will be awarded by the executive committee.

Those attending, other than from the Matthews - Sikeston area, were Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Daugherty, Jr., Topeka, Kans.; Mr. and Mrs. (Doris Jo Keaton) Don Lewis, Creston, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. (Barbara Ratcliff) Clifford Proffer, Mrs. Carlean Harber Binford, Weldon and Kirkland Harber, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Claudie M. (Dorothy Kelso) Walls, Normal, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hubbard, Cairo, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Limbaugh, Chaffee; Mr. and Mrs. Hestel Panter, Portageville, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ayers, Dexter.

Golf Notes

Thirteen Sikeston ladies journeyed to Blytheville, Ark., Tuesday for a day of golf and a luncheon.

The weather was very cool but dry, and all reports a very good time.

Mrs. J. F. Cox and Mrs. Glen Joyner tied for honors representing the Sikeston Club.

For the golfers who stayed at home there was golf as usual. Prizes were awarded for putting skill. The winners were Mrs. Frank Armstrong, Mrs. Charles Stamp and Mrs. Joe Dye.

Lotus Emerson joined a group of players at the Cape Girardeau J. C. Course and came home one golf ball richer.

It has been overlooked that the local players are invited to Kennett next Tuesday. However, since many of the ladies take off at the drop of a golf tee, a delegation will be made up for the trip.

May 24 is visiting day in Sikeston and some 60 guests are expected.

An old floor trunk can be used as an extra low table or seat if you dress it up with a colorful cotton slipcover. Trim the cover with ball fringe or cotton braid, stitched around the top and bottom edges.

For hot-weather driving, use cool, comfortable seat covers made of cotton terry cloth. Elasticized for perfect fit, covers are absorbent and easy to keep clean. Just remove and toss in washing machine.

Mrs. Joy Pasaka

Joy Pasaka Accepted in Dance Group

Joy Pasaka, dance instructor of Sikeston, has been notified this week of her acceptance into Dance Masters of America. This is a professional organization of nationally recognized dancing teachers who are members in good standing of Dance Masters of America, Inc., of New York, N. Y. To belong to this organization, a teacher must be judged from both a personal and professional viewpoint to make sure her students are deriving the maximum benefits of the tremendous values found in properly taught dancing. Since Mrs. Pasaka teaches more than one type of dancing, it was necessary for her to take two tests -- one in ballet and one that covered tap and jazz. The testing was in three parts, written, verbal and demonstration.

Part of the code of dance ethics a teacher must accept upon becoming a member of Dance Masters of America, is constant study of the dance as it is a living art.

Mrs. Pasaka will study ballet this summer in St. Louis and jazz in Memphis, as well as attending the clinic of Dance Caravan in St. Louis.

Several of Mrs. Pasaka's dancing students, of whom she is proud, are appearing in the Little Theatre production, "The King and I." They are Debbie Wheeler, Vinnie Ralph, Janie Vandivort, Cindi Waters, Anne Heckemeyer, Peggy McMullin, Linda Hale and Nancye Trigg.

The 1966 Joy Pasaka Dance Revue entitled "Hey Look Us Over," will be held June 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the junior high school auditorium.

Canalou PTA Installs New Officers Monday

CANALOU -- The Canalou P. T. A. met Monday for its last meeting for the school term. Mrs. Fred Lasters, a former P. T. A. president, installed the new officers. Mrs. Lasters held a lighted candle which represented the organization.

The officers are president, Mrs. Betty McCann; secretary, Mrs. Beulah Peterson and treasurer, Mrs. Martha Wilkening. Each lighted a candle from the one Mrs. Lasters held thus taking a light to direct them in their offices. Mrs. Lasters presented each with a pin.

Mrs. Collins Is Hostess to Class Meeting

The Kings Daughter class of the First Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. F. F. Collins Monday afternoon. Mrs. James W. Hackney was a visitor.

Mrs. Ruth Turner opened the meeting with prayer. The devotional was given by Mrs. Fred Tope. The title was "Praise the Lord" and the reading was from Psalms 113.

Poems in honor of Mother's Day were given. Mrs. Collins gave "Way of Cross." Mrs. Edith Spidell, the class teacher, read "Faith of Our Mothers." "A Mother Dear" was given by Mrs. Thomas Mathis. Mrs. Wade Moore read "My Mother" and Mrs. Tope gave a reading, "What Difference Does It Make."

Mrs. Stella Freeman, class president presided over the business meeting. The secretary's, treasurer's and group captain's reports were given and accepted.

Mrs. Spidell led the closing prayer. The meeting adjourned for a social meeting. The hostess served cake, punch and coffee.

The June meeting will be with Mrs. Tope.

Mrs. Joy Pasaka

Joy Pasaka Accepted in Dance Group

Joy Pasaka, dance instructor of Sikeston, has been notified this week of her acceptance into Dance Masters of America. This is a professional organization of nationally recognized dancing teachers who are members in good standing of Dance Masters of America, Inc., of New York, N. Y. To belong to this organization, a teacher must be judged from both a personal and professional viewpoint to make sure her students are deriving the maximum benefits of the tremendous values found in properly taught dancing. Since Mrs. Pasaka teaches more than one type of dancing, it was necessary for her to take two tests -- one in ballet and one that covered tap and jazz. The testing was in three parts, written, verbal and demonstration.

Part of the code of dance ethics a teacher must accept upon becoming a member of Dance Masters of America, is constant study of the dance as it is a living art.

Mrs. Pasaka will study ballet this summer in St. Louis and jazz in Memphis, as well as attending the clinic of Dance Caravan in St. Louis.

Several of Mrs. Pasaka's dancing students, of whom she is proud, are appearing in the Little Theatre production, "The King and I." They are Debbie Wheeler, Vinnie Ralph, Janie Vandivort, Cindi Waters, Anne Heckemeyer, Peggy McMullin, Linda Hale and Nancye Trigg.

The 1966 Joy Pasaka Dance Revue entitled "Hey Look Us Over," will be held June 8 at 7:30 p.m. at the junior high school auditorium.

Canalou PTA Installs New Officers Monday

CANALOU -- The Canalou P. T. A. met Monday for its last meeting for the school term. Mrs. Fred Lasters, a former P. T. A. president, installed the new officers. Mrs. Lasters held a lighted candle which represented the organization.

The officers are president, Mrs. Betty McCann; secretary, Mrs. Beulah Peterson and treasurer, Mrs. Martha Wilkening. Each lighted a candle from the one Mrs. Lasters held thus taking a light to direct them in their offices. Mrs. Lasters presented each with a pin.

Mrs. Collins Is Hostess to Class Meeting

The Kings Daughter class of the First Baptist church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. F. F. Collins Monday afternoon. Mrs. James W. Hackney was a visitor.

Mrs. Ruth Turner opened the meeting with prayer. The devotional was given by Mrs. Fred Tope. The title was "Praise the Lord" and the reading was from Psalms 113.

Poems in honor of Mother's Day were given. Mrs. Collins gave "Way of Cross." Mrs. Edith Spidell, the class teacher, read "Faith of Our Mothers." "A Mother Dear" was given by Mrs. Thomas Mathis. Mrs. Wade Moore read "My Mother" and Mrs. Tope gave a reading, "What Difference Does It Make."

Mrs. Stella Freeman, class president presided over the business meeting. The secretary's, treasurer's and group captain's reports were given and accepted.

Mrs. Spidell led the closing prayer. The meeting adjourned for a social meeting. The hostess served cake, punch and coffee.

The June meeting will be with Mrs. Tope.

Dogs Streak Past Notre Dame

Manley Hurls Two-Hitter In 4-0 Victory

The two-hit, five strikeout pitching of Sikeston pitcher Rudy Manley overpowered the visiting Notre Dame Bulldogs here yesterday afternoon 4-0.

The victory was the eighth of the year for the Dogs against one loss.

Manley was the Bulldog of the hour, pitching a near spotless game and using his batpower to club his opponents for two hits. Manley, while going two for two at the plate, drove in two runs and scored one for himself.

Manley was tapped for only one extra base-hit, as he had to pitch to only two extra batters. Manley was backed up by relief catcher Dave Shy, who connected on a putout at second base with a fine throw.

The Bulldogs next game will be in the state high school baseball tournament. They will meet either Cape Central or Fox of Arnold at Festus, Mo., next week.

Bulldog coach Hal Lane switched up the batting order. With power hitting catcher Jim Ramsey out of the lineup the team needed the punch in the middle of the batting order.

Rudy Manley set the side down in order the first three innings, with the Notre Dame nine collecting only one hit in the first three innings, and that by pitcher Paul Compass who was thrown out trying to steal second base in the second inning.

The Bulldogs started right to work on Notre Dame's pitcher. With the first two batters making outs the Dogs started a rally with Limbaugh lining a single to right, stole second, Mike Garner singled, moving Limbaugh to third, and Limbaugh scored on Rudy Manley's fielders choice. Garner collected the last out of the inning by trying to steal third base.

Notre Dame collected their second hit of the game in the fourth inning. Ernst grounded out to the first baseman, Flaker collected the hit, Wulfers walked putting men on second and first with one out, but star hurler Manley got the next two batters to fly-out.

Richard Montgomery started the Dogs rally in the third inning, after the second inning ended up with Ellison collecting the only hit for the Dogs in the inning. Montgomery singled after leadoff batter Greg Bailey flyed to the left fielder. Montgomery collected the second out as Limbaugh grounded to the third baseman who threw to second getting Montgomery. Mike Garner reached first on an error and Manley singled driving in Limbaugh. Mike Couch doubled driving in Garner and Manley. Couch was thrown out trying to reach third base, for the last out of the inning.

The Dogs had another scoring chance in the sixth inning as Garner grounded out for the first out of the game, Manley and Couch with hits and Ellison walking, loading the bases with one out, were unable to score as the next two batters popped out ending the inning.

Garner collected two stolen bases for the Dogs while Limbaugh bagged one.

Knicks Grab Russell In First Round

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- Cazzie Russell of Michigan comes out of Wednesday's National Basketball Association draft as the No. 1 college player in the country -- to the surprise of nobody.

The New York Knickerbockers, who had won first pick on the flip of a coin with the Detroit Pistons, really never hesitated in picking Russell.

"We felt this was the guy all along," said general manager Eddie Donovan of the Knicks. "After we won the toss we knew this was the man we wanted. He has a strong body and great basketball knowledge.

"We expect to try him at guard although he has the ability to be a forward, too. His forte is not shooting. He's just a well-rounded player.

"I spent a couple of hours with him at Ann Arbor about a week ago and I have a feeling he will play with us. I was very impressed by him as an individual."

Russell, who says he also has an offer from the Harlem Globetrotters, said he would make a decision next week.

The Pistons also wanted Russell but settled for Dave Bing of Syracuse as the No. 2 pick among the 79 players selected by the 10 clubs.

The pros naturally put the emphasis on size. Russell is 6-foot-5 1/2 and 218 pounds. Bing is 6-3 and 185.

Clude Lee of Vanderbilt, 6-9, 220, already has made plans to play with a company team in Milan, Italy. However, after he was picked by San Francisco in the first round, he said he would talk about pro ball in the near future.

Matt Guokas of St. Joseph's in Philadelphia had said he planned to play college ball another year but he might change his mind, too, after being taken in the first round by Philadelphia.

Bill Russell, new coach of the Boston Celtics, made his first appearance in the job as he and general manager Red Auerbach, the retiring coach, picked Jim Barnett of Oregon, 6-4, 180, as their first-round draftee.

Jerry Chambers, who led Utah to the Far West regional title in the NCAA competition, said he was shocked to learn the Los Angeles Lakers made him their No. 1 pick. "I'm happy but I thought Cincinnati or St. Louis would take me first," he said. "But it's great. I used to play against Elgin Baylor back home in Washington, D. C."

Walt Wesley, 6-11, 235, was the biggest man taken in the first round. The big boy from Kansas went to the Cincinnati Royals. Dave Schellhase of Purdue, the nation's top college scorer, lasted until Chicago got the 10th and last pick in the first round.

Other first round picks were Lou Hudson of Minnesota, by St. Louis, and Jack Marin of Duke, by Baltimore. Hudson is a top-flight scorer who suffered a broken hand in early season and played only 17 games.

Like Mays? Curt Flood Thinks It's a Compliment

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Curt Flood of the St. Louis Cardinals has spent most of his major league career playing the same position as Willie Mays.

Therefore, Curt Flood could be pardoned for feeling slightly bitter—if he felt any bitterness.

"Being second to Willie Mays?" Flood said. "How can that bother someone? Being second to him is quite a compliment because he certainly is one of the greatest athletes of the decade.

"I don't worry about it. Willie makes his money and I make mine because we both do well."

If Mays is the greatest, National Leaguers ask, how far behind is Curt Flood?

During the last five years he has batted .322, .296, .302, .311 and .310, but he's been on just one all-star team—as a pinch-runner in 1964.

"Well," Curt philosophized, "every year either Hank Aaron or Roberto Clemente gets hurt, too, and they're pretty fair ballplayers."

The 1966 season may be the biggest challenge yet for Flood, who has become the key man in the St. Louis offense now that Cardinal general manager Bob Howsam has completely remolded the 1964 World Champions.

Gone are Ken Boyer, Bill White and Dick Groat, which means opposing pitchers will be able to concentrate more on Flood this season.

"Personally," Flood said, "I hated to see our ball club break up because those men had valuable talent. They were the best in their fields. But baseball is like any other business. You have to look further than a year or two ahead. And that's what our front office was doing. Bad, good or indifferent, I will still give my 100 per cent."

Flood's 100 per cent, unfortunately, will not match Mays who, at 34, is having another great season.

"I think Willie can go five more years," Flood said. "He takes tremendous care of himself.

"If he's slowing up at all, it comes in spots. About the only time I noticed it is in his ball park where it's colder and he can't be as loose all the time. But when he gets into our ball park where it's hot, he's the old Mays—unbelievable.

"It's amazing how he keeps that pace up because he has so many outside pressures. I know I resist as many outside things as possible because I feel baseball demands all your time and concentration."

The pressure on Willie Mays grows each season, but Willie's batting average, his home runs and his RBIs grow proportionately.

Five more years.

Curt Flood isn't counting.

Major League Figuring

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- What were the odds before the start of this season that anyone other than Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale or Claude Osteen would pitch the first shutout for the Los Angeles Dodgers? Rookie Don Sutton turned it in Wednesday night in a 5-0 victory over Philadelphia.

Here are the cold facts about how the weather is affecting the major league baseball schedule: In the first 31 days of the season through Wednesday, 41 games have been postponed, 25 in the American League and 16 in the National. In the first 31 days last year, only 21 games were weathered out.

Hammerin' Hank Aaron is nailing down a fast home run pace. He's 23 games ahead of 1965. He hit his 10th and 11th homers in the Braves' 29th game, an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night. Aaron did not hit his 11th homer last season until his 52nd game, on June 19. He finished with 32.

Willie Horton, Detroit's young outfielder, has a lot of catching up to do. After 17 games a year ago, he was leading the American League in batting with a .406 average, and had nine homers and 21 runs batted in. After 17 games this season, his average is .189 with only two homers and eight RBI.

The Phillies aren't getting much hit production from Bill White, whom they obtained from St. Louis last winter. The veteran first baseman, usually a .300 hitter, slipped to .198 Wednesday night after four hitless efforts in the game against Los Angeles.

Major League Roster Cut Down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major League rosters were down to 25 players today following last-minute transactions that resulted in the shifting of several well-known baseball names.

The deadline for reaching the mandatory 25 players was midnight Wednesday. Dick Schofield, Larry Jaster, Wes Covington, Chuck Schilling and Tom Cheney were among those asked to pack their traveling bags.

Schofield was sold to the New York Yankees by San Francisco. The Yanks made room for the veteran shortstop by sending pitcher Jack Cullen to Toledo of the International League on option.

Jaster, a starting pitcher for St. Louis during the first month of the season, was optioned to Tulsa of the Pacific Coast League. The southpaw had a 1-2 record for the Cards.

Covington, 34-year-old outfielder, was released outright by the Chicago Cubs. He had been acquired from Philadelphia last winter.

Schilling, former Boston second baseman, was optioned by Minnesota to its Denver affiliate in the PCL. The Twins also cut outfielder Ted Uhlaender and Joe Nossek. Nossek was claimed on waivers by Kansas City while Uhlaender was optioned to Denver.

The Washington Senators sold Cheney to Hawaii of the PCL. He set a major league record for strikeouts in one game when he fanned 21 in a 16-inning game against Baltimore in 1962.

The pros naturally put the emphasis on size. Russell is 6-foot-5 1/2 and 218 pounds. Bing is 6-3 and 185.

Clude Lee of Vanderbilt, 6-9, 220, already has made plans to play with a company team in Milan, Italy. However, after he was picked by San Francisco in the first round, he said he would talk about pro ball in the near future.

Matt Guokas of St. Joseph's in Philadelphia had said he planned to play college ball another year but he might change his mind, too, after being taken in the first round by Philadelphia.

Bill Russell, new coach of the Boston Celtics, made his first appearance in the job as he and general manager Red Auerbach, the retiring coach, picked Jim Barnett of Oregon, 6-4, 180, as their first-round draftee.

Jerry Chambers, who led Utah to the Far West regional title in the NCAA competition, said he was shocked to learn the Los Angeles Lakers made him their No. 1 pick. "I'm happy but I thought Cincinnati or St. Louis would take me first," he said. "But it's great. I used to play against Elgin Baylor back home in Washington, D. C."

Walt Wesley, 6-11, 235, was the biggest man taken in the first round. The big boy from Kansas went to the Cincinnati Royals. Dave Schellhase of Purdue, the nation's top college scorer, lasted until Chicago got the 10th and last pick in the first round.

Other first round picks were Lou Hudson of Minnesota, by St. Louis, and Jack Marin of Duke, by Baltimore. Hudson is a top-flight scorer who suffered a broken hand in early season and played only 17 games.

Like Mays? Curt Flood Thinks It's a Compliment

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Curt Flood of the St. Louis Cardinals has spent most of his major league career playing the same position as Willie Mays.

Therefore, Curt Flood could be pardoned for feeling slightly bitter—if he felt any bitterness.

"Being second to Willie Mays?" Flood said. "How can that bother someone? Being second to him is quite a compliment because he certainly is one of the greatest athletes of the decade.

"I don't worry about it. Willie makes his money and I make mine because we both do well."

If Mays is the greatest, National Leaguers ask, how far behind is Curt Flood?

During the last five years he has batted .322, .296, .302, .311 and .310, but he's been on just one all-star team—as a pinch-runner in 1964.

"Well," Curt philosophized, "every year either Hank Aaron or Roberto Clemente gets hurt, too, and they're pretty fair ballplayers."

The 1966 season may be the biggest challenge yet for Flood, who has become the key man in the St. Louis offense now that Cardinal general manager Bob Howsam has completely remolded the 1964 World Champions.

Gone are Ken Boyer, Bill White and Dick Groat, which means opposing pitchers will be able to concentrate more on Flood this season.

"Personally," Flood said, "I hated to see our ball club break up because those men had valuable talent. They were the best in their fields. But baseball is like any other business. You have to look further than a year or two ahead. And that's what our front office was doing. Bad, good or indifferent, I will still give my 100 per cent."

Flood's 100 per cent, unfortunately, will not match Mays who, at 34, is having another great season.

"I think Willie can go five more years," Flood said. "He takes tremendous care of himself.

"If he's slowing up at all, it comes in spots. About the only time I noticed it is in his ball park where it's colder and he can't be as loose all the time. But when he gets into our ball park where it's hot, he's the old Mays—unbelievable.

"It's amazing how he keeps that pace up because he has so many outside pressures. I know I resist as many outside things as possible because I feel baseball demands all your time and concentration."

The pressure on Willie Mays grows each season, but Willie's batting average, his home runs and his RBIs grow proportionately.

Five more years.

Curt Flood isn't counting.

Major League Figuring

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK AP -- What were the odds before the start of this season that anyone other than Sandy Koufax, Don Drysdale or Claude Osteen would pitch the first shutout for the Los Angeles Dodgers? Rookie Don Sutton turned it in Wednesday night in a 5-0 victory over Philadelphia.

Here are the cold facts about how the weather is affecting the major league baseball schedule: In the first 31 days of the season through Wednesday, 41 games have been postponed, 25 in the American League and 16 in the National. In the first 31 days last year, only 21 games were weathered out.

Hammerin' Hank Aaron is nailing down a fast home run pace. He's 23 games ahead of 1965. He hit his 10th and 11th homers in the Braves' 29th game, an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night. Aaron did not hit his 11th homer last season until his 52nd game, on June 19. He finished with 32.

Willie Horton, Detroit's young outfielder, has a lot of catching up to do. After 17 games a year ago, he was leading the American League in batting with a .406 average, and had nine homers and 21 runs batted in. After 17 games this season, his average is .189 with only two homers and eight RBI.

The Phillies aren't getting much hit production from Bill White, whom they obtained from St. Louis last winter. The veteran first baseman, usually a .300 hitter, slipped to .198 Wednesday night after four hitless efforts in the game against Los Angeles.

BATTING -- Hank Aaron, Braves, hit two home runs and drove in five runs as Atlanta snapped its five-game losing streak with an 8-1 victory over Cincinnati.

PITCHING -- Gaylord Perry, Giants, won his fifth game with a six-hitter as San Francisco ran its winning streak to 10 with a 6-1 victory over Pittsburgh.

WORLD'S RICHEST RACE

Richest horse race in the world is the All-American Futurity, a 400-yard event for 2-year-old Quarter Horses held at Ruidoso Downs in New Mexico. The race, which is run each Labor Day, paid a $419,460 purse in 1965.

KEYED UP

Pickerel fishermen are all keyed up over shining up an old brass key and replacing three way swivels with it. Hole is bored in one end to receive hook snell. Sinker and line go to the other. Every pull of bait or line, triggers flash of the key.

During the winter months, cities and states spend 25 to 50 per cent of their total street maintenance budgets for snow and ice control.

Major League Roster Cut Down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Major League rosters were down to 25 players today following last-minute transactions that resulted in the shifting of several well-known baseball names.

The deadline for reaching the mandatory 25 players was midnight Wednesday. Dick Schofield, Larry Jaster, Wes Covington, Chuck Schilling and Tom Cheney were among those asked to pack their traveling bags.

Schofield was sold to the New York Yankees by San Francisco. The Yanks made room for the veteran shortstop by sending pitcher Jack Cullen to Toledo of the International League on option.

Jaster, a starting pitcher for St. Louis during the first month of the season, was optioned to Tulsa of the Pacific Coast League. The southpaw had a 1-2 record for the Cards.

Covington, 34-year-old outfielder, was released outright by the Chicago Cubs. He had been acquired from Philadelphia last winter.

Schilling, former Boston second baseman, was optioned by Minnesota to its Denver affiliate in the PCL. The Twins also cut outfielder Ted Uhlaender and Joe Nossek. Nossek was claimed on waivers by Kansas City while Uhlaender was optioned to Denver.

The Washington Senators sold Cheney to Hawaii of the PCL. He set a major league record for strikeouts in one game when he fanned 21 in a 16-inning game against Baltimore in 1962.

THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES
A Review of the 1964 Term

PROPERTY AND BUSINESS
(Conclusion)
(Justice Black dissention)

His condemnation of the philosophy by which explicit provisions of the Constitution could be read away if the Court found "competing" considerations was:

The subvert the protection of the Contract Clause here, as well as the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments' prohibition against taking private property for public use without just compensation, the Court has, as I said, imported into this constitutional insupportable due process a "balancing" technique to which I have objected in cases arising under the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments, and which has done so much to water down the safeguards of First Amendment freedoms. The Court says, "Laws which restrict a party to those gains reasonably to be expected from the contract are not subject to attack under the Contract Clause, notwithstanding that they technically alter an obligation of a contract." Otherwise stated, a person can make a good deal with a State but if it turns out to be a very good deal for him or a very bad deal for the State, the State is free to renege at any time. And whether gains can "reasonably be expected from the contract" is of course, in the Court's view, for this Court to decide. Thus this Court's judgment as to "reasonableness" of a law impairing or even repudiating a valid contract becomes the measure of the Contract Clause's protection.

The Court's position that the right of redemption is a mere technicality which Texas could alter was rebutted as follows:

Much as has been said about the wealth of Texas, I was unaware until now that a multi-million dollar windfall for that State could be dismissed as a mere technicality; it sounds like more than a technicality to me, and perhaps to the purchaser whose rights Texas took away from them.

He concluded:

At most the Court's reasons boil down to the fact that Texas' contracts, perhaps very wisely made a long time ago, turned out when land soared in value, and particularly after oil was discovered, to be costly to the State. As the Court euphemistically puts it, the contracts were "not wholly effectual to serve the objectives of the State's land program many decades later. Settlement was no longer the objective, but revenues * * *" among other things were. In plainer language, the State decided it had made a bad deal and wanted out. There is nothing unusual in this. It is a commonplace that land values steadily rise when population increases, and rise sharply when valuable minerals are discovered, and that many sellers would be much richer and happier if when lands go up in value they were able to welch on their sales. No plethora of words about State school funds can conceal the fact that to get money easily without having to tax the whole public, Texas took the easy way out and violated the Contract Clause of the Constitution as written and as applied up to now. If the value of these lands and of valid contracts to buy them have gone up in value, that increase belongs in equity as well as in sound constitutional interpretation not to Texas, but to the many people who agreed to these contracts under what now turns out to have been a mistaken belief that Texas would keep the obligations it gave to those who dealt with it.

All this for me is just another example of the delusiveness of calling "balancing" a "test." With its deprecatory view of the equities on the side of Simmons and other claimants and its remarkable sympathy for the State, the Court through its balancing process states the case in a way inevitably destined to bypass the Contract Clause and let Texas break its solemn obligation. As the Court's opinion demonstrates, constitutional adjudication under the balancing method becomes simply a matter of this Court's deciding for itself which result in a particular case seems in the circumstances the more acceptable governmental policy and then stating the facts in such a way that the considerations in the balance lead to the result. Even if I believed that we as Justices of this Court had the authority to rely on our judgment of what is best for the country instead of trying to interpret the language and purpose of our written Constitution, I would not agree that Texas should be permitted to do what it has done here. But more importantly, I most certainly cannot agree that constitutional law is simply a matter of what the Justices of this Court decide is not harmful for the country, and therefore is "reasonable" . . . James Madison said that the Contract Clause was intended to protect people from the "fluctuating policy" of the legislature. The Federalist, No. 44, at 301 (Cooke ed. 1961). Today's majority holds that people are not protected from the fluctuating policy of the legislature, so long as the legislature acts in accordance with the fluctuating policy of this Court.

This opinion should endear Mr. Justice Black to those who think that property still has a claim to constitutional protection. It is surprising to thus find him as the justice most likely to receive an award from the American Conservative Union, but perhaps this indicates better than anything else where the Court has travelled in recent years.

The Court did, however, hold that if one's rights are to be taken away, one has first the right to receive notice thereof and the opportunity to be heard. But considering how few property rights are left, it seems that answering such a notice is often an exercise in futility.

Baptist Men Have Meeting

The Baptist Men's organization of the First Baptist church met May 2 for its regular monthly dinner meeting. It was held in the church dining room where a ham dinner was served to the group.

After a time of fellowship, President Lenzi Beck called the meeting to order with Bill Hayden giving opening prayer. Beck discussed the camping opportunities for the girls and boys available at the various Baptist camping grounds. John W. David gave a report of the activities for the boys and girls at Windemere, the Baptist state assembly grounds on the Lake of the Ozarks.

Rev. Hackney gave a summary of the activities that will be available at the Van Buren Baptist assembly for the young people from June 25 to July 3. Some 750 to 850 boys and girls in this area will register there for Christian camping weeks. Also reported on was the camping area in this association, the Charleston Baptist assembly grounds. There will be three weeks camping this summer.

Beck then presented the guest speaker, Pat Lea, a member of the Baptist Men's organization, who spoke on "Life and Death" and told how related one is to the other. His talk and illustrations were a challenge.

Rev. Hackney, pastor of the church, also gave a report on his revival at the Calvary Baptist church in Jefferson City. He told of the plans to bring the Leonard Sanderson revival crusade into this area next year in cooperation with all the churches in the area.

The group discussed plans for welcoming their new minister of music and education, David Laird from the First Baptist church of Alexandria, La. He is a native of this state and is a graduate of Mehlville school and New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

The meeting adjourned with Leon Chapman and S. A. Lockhart giving closing prayer.

Small Tax Division Proposed

WASHINGTON, AP - Establishment of a "Small Tax Division" in the U.S. Tax Court was proposed in Congress yesterday.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the proposal he is sponsoring along with Sen. Edward Long, D-Mo., would give small taxpayers an opporrunity without lawyers and accountants, to air their differences with the Internal Revenue Service before an impartial commissioner.

"The small taxpayer," Magnuson said, "is faced with staggering disadvantages in his dealings with the federal government in comparison with the large, corporate taxpayer."

The large taxpayers, he said, have experts who not only wring out every conceivable deduction and exemption but who are successful in negotiating a settlement in 85 per cent of the cases brought before the tax court.

The small taxpayer's "first, and usually last, impulse is to quit -- throw in the towel, pay the deficiency no matter how unjust he believes it is, rather than face the tiers of faceless bureaucracy or bear the burdens of a court fight," Magnuson said.

The bill would call for appointment of 20 small tax commissioners to hear taxpayer appeals from deficinecy assessments of less than $2,500.

No one who has worked for the Internal Revenue Service within the preceding five years would be eligible for appointment as a commissioner.

If you're building a home this year, make sure your bathrooms are big enough says the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn. For instance, the typical 5-by-7 bathroom is really too small for the quality fixtures you want. You can squeeze in a small tub, water closet and lavatory. But there's no room for a countertop lavatory with twin bowls and storage space beneath. There's no room for the bidet, which is becoming more popular in America today and is highly recommended by many physicians for its hygienic value.

Besides adding to your family's convenience, larger bathrooms increase the resale value of your house, if you ever decide to sell. It is a commonplace that land values steadily rise when population increases, and rise sharply when valuable minerals are discovered, and that many sellers would be much richer and happier if when lands go up in value they were able to welch on their sales. No plethora of words about State school funds can conceal the fact that to get money easily without having to tax the whole public, Texas took the easy way out and violated the Contract Clause of the Constitution as written and as applied up to now. If the value of these lands and of valid contracts to buy them have gone up in value, that increase belongs in equity as well as in sound constitutional interpretation not to Texas, but to the many people who agreed to these contracts under what now turns out to have been a mistaken belief that Texas would keep the obligations it gave to those who dealt with it.

All this for me is just another example of the delusiveness of calling "balancing" a "test." With its deprecatory view of the equities on the side of Simmons and other claimants and its remarkable sympathy for the State, the Court through its balancing process states the case in a way inevitably destined to bypass the Contract Clause and let Texas break its solemn obligation. As the Court's opinion demonstrates, constitutional adjudication under the balancing method becomes simply a matter of this Court's deciding for itself which result in a particular case seems in the circumstances the more acceptable governmental policy and then stating the facts in such a way that the considerations in the balance lead to the result. Even if I believed that we as Justices of this Court had the authority to rely on our judgment of what is best for the country instead of trying to interpret the language and purpose of our written Constitution, I would not agree that Texas should be permitted to do what it has done here. But more importantly, I most certainly cannot agree that constitutional law is simply a matter of what the Justices of this Court decide is not harmful for the country, and therefore is "reasonable" . . . James Madison said that the Contract Clause was intended to protect people from the "fluctuating policy" of the legislature. The Federalist, No. 44, at 301 (Cooke ed. 1961). Today's majority holds that people are not protected from the fluctuating policy of the legislature, so long as the legislature acts in accordance with the fluctuating policy of this Court.

This opinion should endear Mr. Justice Black to those who think that property still has a claim to constitutional protection. It is surprising to thus find him as the justice most likely to receive an award from the American Conservative Union, but perhaps this indicates better than anything else where the Court has travelled in recent years.

The Court did, however, hold that if one's rights are to be taken away, one has first the right to receive notice thereof and the opportunity to be heard. But considering how few property rights are left, it seems that answering such a notice is often an exercise in futility.

Baptist Men Have Meeting

The Baptist Men's organization of the First Baptist church met May 2 for its regular monthly dinner meeting. It was held in the church dining room where a ham dinner was served to the group.

After a time of fellowship, President Lenzi Beck called the meeting to order with Bill Hayden giving opening prayer. Beck discussed the camping opportunities for the girls and boys available at the various Baptist camping grounds. John W. David gave a report of the activities for the boys and girls at Windemere, the Baptist state assembly grounds on the Lake of the Ozarks.

Rev. Hackney gave a summary of the activities that will be available at the Van Buren Baptist assembly for the young people from June 25 to July 3. Some 750 to 850 boys and girls in this area will register there for Christian camping weeks. Also reported on was the camping area in this association, the Charleston Baptist assembly grounds. There will be three weeks camping this summer.

Beck then presented the guest speaker, Pat Lea, a member of the Baptist Men's organization, who spoke on "Life and Death" and told how related one is to the other. His talk and illustrations were a challenge.

Rev. Hackney, pastor of the church, also gave a report on his revival at the Calvary Baptist church in Jefferson City. He told of the plans to bring the Leonard Sanderson revival crusade into this area next year in cooperation with all the churches in the area.

The group discussed plans for welcoming their new minister of music and education, David Laird from the First Baptist church of Alexandria, La. He is a native of this state and is a graduate of Mehlville school and New Orleans Baptist Seminary.

The meeting adjourned with Leon Chapman and S. A. Lockhart giving closing prayer.

Small Tax Division Proposed

WASHINGTON, AP - Establishment of a "Small Tax Division" in the U.S. Tax Court was proposed in Congress yesterday.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the proposal he is sponsoring along with Sen. Edward Long, D-Mo., would give small taxpayers an opporrunity without lawyers and accountants, to air their differences with the Internal Revenue Service before an impartial commissioner.

"The small taxpayer," Magnuson said, "is faced with staggering disadvantages in his dealings with the federal government in comparison with the large, corporate taxpayer."

The large taxpayers, he said, have experts who not only wring out every conceivable deduction and exemption but who are successful in negotiating a settlement in 85 per cent of the cases brought before the tax court.

The small taxpayer's "first, and usually last, impulse is to quit -- throw in the towel, pay the deficiency no matter how unjust he believes it is, rather than face the tiers of faceless bureaucracy or bear the burdens of a court fight," Magnuson said.

The bill would call for appointment of 20 small tax commissioners to hear taxpayer appeals from deficinecy assessments of less than $2,500.

No one who has worked for the Internal Revenue Service within the preceding five years would be eligible for appointment as a commissioner.

If you're building a home this year, make sure your bathrooms are big enough says the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn. For instance, the typical 5-by-7 bathroom is really too small for the quality fixtures you want. You can squeeze in a small tub, water closet and lavatory. But there's no room for a countertop lavatory with twin bowls and storage space beneath. There's no room for the bidet, which is becoming more popular in America today and is highly recommended by many physicians for its hygienic value.

Besides adding to your family's convenience, larger bathrooms increase the resale value of your house, if you ever decide to sell. A flyer on how to select bathroom fixtures and another on the bidet are available free. Write to the Plumbing Fixture Mfrs. Assn., 1145 19th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036.

Rebekah Lodge Admits Eight New Members

The Sikeston Rebekah Lodge met at the Odd Fellow Hall Friday evening with the noble grand, Mildred Vincent, presiding.

The order of business included the beautiful impressive Rebekah Degree for the following new members: Mrs. Marilyn Jo Evans, Lenell Kindred, Norma Duff, Norma Jean Yant, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Andres and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Howell.

Lecturers serving were Noble Grand, Mildred Vincent; Vice Grand, Mrs. Jim Denbow; Chaplain, Bernice Cummins; past N. G., Addie Brothers and Secretary, Alma Mackley. Other officers are Conductor, Bobbie Taylor; Warden, Freda Penrod; Musician, Float Vaughn; Guardian, Opal Greer and Color Guards Fern Taylor, Carrie Petifurd, Maggie Lee Grady and Lillas Heacox.

There were nine visitors from the Charleston lodges and the District Deputy President Ann Newton from the Morehouse lodge. Following the order of business, the Degree work and drill of the officers, all retired to the dining room for a social hour and refreshments.

MISS EMILY BRENNECKE, left, gives pointers to Jane Anne Baker, center, while Pam Ayers, right, works with oils. Sikeston Art League's exhibit May 28 and 29 hopes to have entries from both girls. Miss Brennecke will have two paintings in the exhibit.

Men and women knew they had to have knowledge to run the homes, factories, the offices, to practice medicine and law, and everything else. Even a small child has to have knowledge to learn how to walk. And that's why schooling is so important now. You have to have knowledge to go to school and get through life. And men and women do.

Even now our President Johnson is extending education throughout the United States. Just recently, President Johnson signed an education bill and made it possible for one hundred, forty thousand students to go to school.

President Johnson said in a speech that "education is no longer a luxury but a necessity". He also said "that the federal government intends to be a partner and not a boss."

And I'm very, very sure George Washington would have entirely agreed with him.

Homecoming Is Planned at Blodgett May 29

BLODGETT -- Memorial and homecoming day will be Sunday, May 29.

The basket dinner will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Methodist church. All visitors will be introduced and the audience will exchange news of mutual friends.

After dinner, the usual memorial service will be at the honor roll board at 2:30 p.m.

This affair began in 1943 and is becoming a town tradition. It affords the citizens, together with former residents, an opportunity to honor past and present members of the armed forces -- especially those who gave their lives in World War II and the Korean War.

All visitors are welcome.

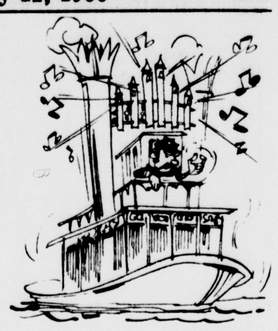
Tammy Bledsoe Celebrates 7th Birthday



MATTHEWS -- Tammy Bledsoe celebrated her seventh birthday with a party given at her home by her mother, Mrs. Vernon Bledsoe.

Guests were Tonia and Rissa Thompson, Dawn, Mike, Ronnie and Norman Hurley, Billy Ross, Martha Crump, Pamela Gollhoper, Darla and Douglas Scott, Jeanie Elrod, Sammie Whitlock and Ricky and Donald Taylor.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, punch and potato chips were served to the guests and favors were jumping ropes and puzzles.

Mothers assisting Mrs. Bledsoe were Mrs. Connie Thompson, Mrs. Nancy Hurley, Mrs. Lois Ross, Mrs. Darlene Scott, Mrs. Jewell Taylor, and Tammy's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Osteen.

The group was entertained with pony rides.

Started Custom

The custom of standing during a performance of Handel's "Messiah" originated with England's George II. The king was so moved by the Hallelujah Chorus at the London premiere that he rose and remained standing until its conclusion.

One of the important figures in the dissemination of jazz was Fate Marable, a bandleader who played on steamboats sailing up the Mississippi from New Orleans. Although he was known as a pianist, Marable also played jazz on the steam calliope.

Debbie Martin Wins State DAR History Contest

In an assembly at the Lee Hunter school Monday, Debbie Martin, a fifth grade pupil, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Martin, was presented an American History State award for her winning essay, "Washington's Advice."

She was the first prize winner and was presented a charm bracelet by her school and a book, "Watchwords of Liberty," by the King's Highway Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Sikeston. The presentation was made by Mrs. Helen Loud Jones, regent.

Debbie's essay:

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S ADVICE

Part of George Washington's Advice was about education. He said, "Promote institution for the general diffusion of knowledge. It is essential that public opinion should be enlightened."

Washington stated the above in his Farewell address published in a Philadelphia newspaper on September 19, 1796. He could see far into the future and understood, even then almost two hundred years ago, the importance of education for all. But then the importance was great too, you had to have knowledge to advance yourself. It wasn't a question of thinking you know, or not caring, you had to really know.

Men must have had knowledge to discover the atom, and to send other men up in space. They had to have knowledge to explore other lands, and to even write books. And I'm very, very sure George Washington would have entirely agreed with him.

Homecoming Is Planned at Blodgett May 29

BLODGETT -- Memorial and homecoming day will be Sunday, May 29.

The basket dinner will begin at 12:30 p.m. in the Methodist church. All visitors will be introduced and the audience will exchange news of mutual friends.

After dinner, the usual memorial service will be at the honor roll board at 2:30 p.m.

This affair began in 1943 and is becoming a town tradition. It affords the citizens, together with former residents, an opportunity to honor past and present members of the armed forces -- especially those who gave their lives in World War II and the Korean War.

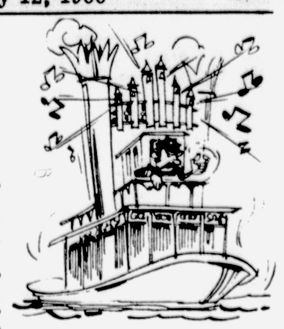
All visitors are welcome.

Commercial Cork

Most of the world's commercial cork comes from the bark of the cork oak tree which is native to the Mediterranean region, especially Spain, which has more than 2 million acres of cork forest, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

SIKESTON ROLLER RINK
Open Wed., Fri. & Sat. 7:30 - 9:30 Fri. 3:30 - 5:30. Sun. 2-4. Private parties anytime.

Tammy Bledsoe Celebrates 7th Birthday



MATTHEWS -- Tammy Bledsoe celebrated her seventh birthday with a party given at her home by her mother, Mrs. Vernon Bledsoe.

Guests were Tonia and Rissa Thompson, Dawn, Mike, Ronnie and Norman Hurley, Billy Ross, Martha Crump, Pamela Gollhoper, Darla and Douglas Scott, Jeanie Elrod, Sammie Whitlock and Ricky and Donald Taylor.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, punch and potato chips were served to the guests and favors were jumping ropes and puzzles.

Mothers assisting Mrs. Bledsoe were Mrs. Connie Thompson, Mrs. Nancy Hurley, Mrs. Lois Ross, Mrs. Darlene Scott, Mrs. Jewell Taylor, and Tammy's grandmother, Mrs. Helen Osteen.

The group was entertained with pony rides.

Started Custom

The custom of standing during a performance of Handel's "Messiah" originated with England's George II. The king was so moved by the Hallelujah Chorus at the London premiere that he rose and remained standing until its conclusion.

One of the important figures in the dissemination of jazz was Fate Marable, a bandleader who played on steamboats sailing up the Mississippi from New Orleans. Although he was known as a pianist, Marable also played jazz on the steam calliope.

FRIDAY THE 13TH
YOUR LUCKY DAY!
Let us tell you how 'Botany' 500 became the No. 1 brand of men's clothing. Don't go away! You're the hero.
Who made 'Botany' 500 the No. 1 brand of men's clothing in America? You.
You like the way Daroff takes care of you. Sees to every detail; constant underpressing that helps sculpture permanent shape into a suit . . . hand stitching in the interlining so a suit feels soft, drapes soft and stays that way through cleaning and hard wear.
You like the way Daroff's eagle eye goes over every inch of fabric to make certain it's tasteful and distinctive, London-mellowed and double-ply warp and woof.
You like the way Daroff designs sound style and comfort into every suit. Everything is so right you feel Daroff is standing by your shoulder masterminding everything to your personal taste.
So, you say it at the cash register. You like to buy 'Botany' 500 tailored by Daroff. So, come in and keep 'Botany' 500 No. 1 for the good reason that 'Botany' 500 gives you so much more of everything for every cent you spend.

While Sikeston escaped with only a steady beneficial rain Tuesday, other Southeast Missouri towns suffered from damage of wind and hail. At Charleston windows of houses and business firms, including upper ones at the Lair Company quarters, were broken and several trees were blown down by a high wind, and at Essex wind and hail together effected a damage of between $10,000 and $15,000.

An honorary society to be composed of students who participate in three activities of at least two different kinds has been organized at the high school, Superintendent Roy V. Ellise announced Wednesday. The highest award has been made this year by Joe Dover and Kenneth Hocker and regular awards went to Betty Belle Donnell, Errel Orear, Glenn Williams, Clay Mitchell, Joe McCord, Pat Wilbur, John Webb Bowman, Billy Ellis, Marvin Rayburn, Eleanor Harty, and Selma Becker.

Workmen began Thursday morning to construct a new building for members of the Pentecostal Church on a lot they have bought on North street, three and three-fourths blocks west of the postoffice.

The Front Street Kroger Store will be closed for two or three weeks starting May 20, for a complete overhauling, according to an announcement made by Hal Fagan, manager.

The Prayer

For Today From

The Upper Room

Continue thou in the things, which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them. (II Timothy 3:14)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the Holy Scriptures which have been preserved for us across the centuries. May Thy Word indeed be for me as "a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." In Jesus' name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are the proud parents of two beautiful children--a little boy three years old and a 10-month-old baby girl. We adopted these youngsters through the Tennessee department of welfare.

Not a week goes by that someone doesn't say, "It certainly is wonderful of you to take those poor little children into your home. God will bless you some day for your kindness."

The remarks are invariably made in the presence of the children who are too young to understand, but one day soon they will.

How can we make people realize that these children have made our house a home and that God has already blessed us a hundredfold? Please provide us with an answer that will assure our children that we love them and we did not take them into our home because we felt sorry for them. Thank you.--MRS. FURIOUS

Dear Mrs.: Children are given the warm feeling that they are wanted and loved by the way they are treated and not by listening to their parents talk to friends.

I do feel that you should respond to your ignorant acquaintances, however, not to reassure your children, but to educate the clods. Tell them--as you told me in your letter--that God has already blessed you, and that the children have enriched your lives beyond your ability to describe it.

Dear Ann Landers: My letter is to let you know I am with you ALL the way on this tipping nonsense.

You said, "People who do not believe in tipping should, (1) park their own cars on the street -- if they can find a space, (2) eat at home, (3) carry their coats and hats around all evening.

If enough of us who are against tipping will take your advice, Ann, the restaurant, hotel and tavern owners, the parking lot tycoons and others will surely feel the pinch and do something drastic -- like pay their employees a living wage.--TIRED OF BEING BLED

Dear Tired: You make an excellent point, but your solution would not ease the burden of the customer. The increased cost of doing business would be passed right along to you and to me in the form of higher prices. As for me, I'd prefer higher prices and no tipping, but the prospects of getting it are mighty slim.

Dear Ann Landers: The confidentials at the foot of your column have always intrigued me. You once explained that those messages are abbreviated because you have been asked not to print the letter -- just the advice.

Although some of the confidentials are fairly obscure I can often guess what the letter was about. And now I wonder if you would do something I don't believe you've ever done before. Will you let a reader supply a confidential? I'm aching to say something to the three daughters who want their 70-year-old mother to move in with one of them. They are afraid if mama goes to an old folks' home the neighbors might think the daughters didn't want to take her in.

Here is my Confidential:

Confidential to Three Daughters: Let your mother go where she will be comfortable. You have given her so little of your time and attention through the years that she knows how you really feel. I hope your mother leaves her money to charity or to some old man she met last week. -- ALSO INDEPENDENT AND UNWANTED

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex--Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Judge Granted Injunction

WASHINGTON AP -- A federal judge has granted a permanent injunction prohibiting railroad firemen from striking in an attempt to restore 18,000 jobs knocked out by an arbitration board two years ago.

The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen said it would appeal the ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff. Union President H. E. Gilbert called the decision "an unbelievable conglomeration of inconsistencies."

The ruling made permanent a temporary injunction Holtzoff had granted earlier at the railroads' request. It froze the situation for firemen in the complex legal argument which triggered last month's strike by firemen against eight carriers operating in 38 states.

The union had contended that expiration of the arbitration board's order March 31 restored rates of pay, rules and working conditions that existed before Congress created the board Aug. 28, 1963.

"On the contrary," Holtzoff ruled, "the provisions of the award and the actions taken under it during its effective period created a new set of rules and working conditions as of the date of its termination."

The decision added that any attempt to change the status of firemen must be made through procedures of the Railway Labor Act. "Any strike of railroad employes called before the exhaustion of all remedies provided by the Railway Labor Act would be illegal," he added.

On the other hand, the decision said "the carriers may not dispense with any more firemen pursuant to the terms of the award or offer comparable jobs to any of them . . ."

While Sikeston escaped with only a steady beneficial rain Tuesday, other Southeast Missouri towns suffered from damage of wind and hail. At Charleston windows of houses and business firms, including upper ones at the Lair Company quarters, were broken and several trees were blown down by a high wind, and at Essex wind and hail together effected a damage of between $10,000 and $15,000.

An honorary society to be composed of students who participate in three activities of at least two different kinds has been organized at the high school, Superintendent Roy V. Ellise announced Wednesday. The highest award has been made this year by Joe Dover and Kenneth Hocker and regular awards went to Betty Belle Donnell, Errel Orear, Glenn Williams, Clay Mitchell, Joe McCord, Pat Wilbur, John Webb Bowman, Billy Ellis, Marvin Rayburn, Eleanor Harty, and Selma Becker.

Workmen began Thursday morning to construct a new building for members of the Pentecostal Church on a lot they have bought on North street, three and three-fourths blocks west of the postoffice.

Cleveland G. Rodgers, 54 years old, well - known former citizen of Sikeston and Benton, Mo., but more recently of Stutgart, Ark., died at Veterans Hospital No. 2 in Memphis, Tenn., Wednesday morning.

George Davis, 36 year old member of the Sikeston police force was shot and seriously wounded by a drunk crazed Negro, who in turn was shot and wounded by Allan Ross, another member of the night police force, in a gun battle near the Sikeston Compress and Warehouse Co., plant in Sunset Addition Wednesday night.

The Superior Stationery Co., a recently organized business firm, announces through its business manager, Howard Handwerker, that it is open for business at 211 East Malone Avenue.

The Front Street Kroger Store will be closed for two or three weeks starting May 20, for a complete overhauling, according to an announcement made by Hal Fagan, manager.

The Prayer

For Today From The Upper Room

Continue thou in the things, which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them. (II Timothy 3:14)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the Holy Scriptures which have been preserved for us across the centuries. May Thy Word indeed be for me as "a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path." In Jesus' name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are the proud parents of two beautiful children--a little boy three years old and a 10-month-old baby girl. We adopted these youngsters through the Tennessee department of welfare.

Not a week goes by that someone doesn't say, "It certainly is wonderful of you to take those poor little children into your home. God will bless you some day for your kindness."

The remarks are invariably made in the presence of the children who are too young to understand, but one day soon they will.

How can we make people realize that these children have made our house a home and that God has already blessed us a hundredfold? Please provide us with an answer that will assure our children that we love them and we did not take them into our home because we felt sorry for them. Thank you.--MRS. FURIOUS

Dear Mrs.: Children are given the warm feeling that they are wanted and loved by the way they are treated and not by listening to their parents talk to friends.

I do feel that you should respond to your ignorant acquaintances, however, not to reassure your children, but to educate the clods. Tell them--as you told me in your letter--that God has already blessed you, and that the children have enriched your lives beyond your ability to describe it.

Dear Ann Landers: My letter is to let you know I am with you ALL the way on this tipping nonsense.

You said, "People who do not believe in tipping should, (1) park their own cars on the street -- if they can find a space, (2) eat at home, (3) carry their coats and hats around all evening.

If enough of us who are against tipping will take your advice, Ann, the restaurant, hotel and tavern owners, the parking lot tycoons and others will surely feel the pinch and do something drastic -- like pay their employees a living wage.--TIRED OF BEING BLED

Dear Tired: You make an excellent point, but your solution would not ease the burden of the customer. The increased cost of doing business would be passed right along to you and to me in the form of higher prices. As for me, I'd prefer higher prices and no tipping, but the prospects of getting it are mighty slim.

Dear Ann Landers: The confidentials at the foot of your column have always intrigued me. You once explained that those messages are abbreviated because you have been asked not to print the letter -- just the advice.

Although some of the confidentials are fairly obscure I can often guess what the letter was about. And now I wonder if you would do something I don't believe you've ever done before. Will you let a reader supply a confidential? I'm aching to say something to the three daughters who want their 70-year-old mother to move in with one of them. They are afraid if mama goes to an old folks' home the neighbors might think the daughters didn't want to take her in.

Here is my Confidential:

Confidential to Three Daughters: Let your mother go where she will be comfortable. You have given her so little of your time and attention through the years that she knows how you really feel. I hope your mother leaves her money to charity or to some old man she met last week. -- ALSO INDEPENDENT AND UNWANTED

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits -- the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex--Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50¢ in coin and a long, self- addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Judge Granted Injunction

WASHINGTON AP -- A federal judge has granted a permanent injunction prohibiting railroad firemen from striking in an attempt to restore 18,000 jobs knocked out by an arbitration board two years ago.

The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen said it would appeal the ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff. Union President H. E. Gilbert called the decision "an unbelievable conglomeration of inconsistencies."

The ruling made permanent a temporary injunction Holtzoff had granted earlier at the railroads' request. It froze the situation for firemen in the complex legal argument which triggered last month's strike by firemen against eight carriers operating in 38 states.

The union had contended that expiration of the arbitration board's order March 31 restored rates of pay, rules and working conditions that existed before Congress created the board Aug. 28, 1963.

"On the contrary," Holtzoff ruled, "the provisions of the award and the actions taken under it during its effective period created a new set of rules and working conditions as of the date of its termination."

The decision added that any attempt to change the status of firemen must be made through procedures of the Railway Labor Act. "Any strike of railroad employes called before the exhaustion of all remedies provided by the Railway Labor Act would be illegal," he added.

On the other hand, the decision said "the carriers may not dispense with any more firemen pursuant to the terms of the award or offer comparable jobs to any of them . . ."

Bodies Found In Wreckage

By VINCE CAROCCI

SOMERSET, PA. AP – The bodies of Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Walter E. Allessandroni, his wife and two other persons were found Monday night in the wreckage of a light airplane in a snow-coated mountain gully.

Allesandroni, 51, managed Gov. William W. Scranton's unsuccessful battle to wrest the Republican presidential nomination from Barry Goldwater in 1964.

He was making the flight for a campaign speech in his bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor in the May 17 state primary.

The four died Sunday when their private twin-engine plane fell in rugged Allegheny Mountain terrain -- known to pilots as the "graveyard of the Alleghenies" because of the dangerous weather conditions that often prevail.

Besides Alessandroni and his wife, Ethel, the dead include James E. Staudinger of Abington Twp., who was the Republican chairman of Montgomery County and a member of the State Liquor Control Board, and the pilot, Melvin E. Ladin, 28, of Collingswood, N.J.

The plane was carrying Alessandroni from the state capital at Harrisburg to Uniontown where he was to address the Fayette County Tavern Association.

An association official said later that there wasn't much concern when he didn't arrive because it was snowing and sleeting and it was assumed that the plane had turned back.

The discovery that the plane was missing wasn't made until about 24 hours after it went down. Mrs. Staudinger phoned Harrisburg to inquire about her husband, State officials began checking.

Probably more books have been written about birds than any other member of the animal world. There are between 10,000 and 12,000 living species of birds, and human curiosity about them is greater than ever. It is estimated that, in North America, 250,000 persons own at least one book about birds. In Great Britain, the figure is 100,000 persons. In the latter nation, one book about birds is published every week.

Hearnes Urges Bankers Cooperation

ST. LOUIS AP - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes urged the bankers of Missouri Tuesday to cooperate in improving the state legislative program in order to "design and build a better state."

"Unless the state government and state banking join to maintain a strong program," he said, "and even improve that program, a vacuum will be created."

He added this warning in a speech prepared for the annual Missouri Bankers Association convention:

"In state government, when a vacuum exists, the federal government fills it with their seemingly unlimited prerogatives. At the risk of being called hardheaded and lacking vision, it is my belief that Missourians prefer to have those of you here today --their fellow Missourians -- handle their financial affairs, rather than transfer that administrative privilege to Washington."

The governor pledged his administration "will join you in every effort to keep your industry healthy and growing."

Hearnes disclosed appointment of a special committee headed by C. W. Culley, head of the State Finance Division, to propose updating of banking laws in the 1967 legislature.

It includes nine bankers, four legislators, plus representatives of the bankers association, the Missouri Bar Association and the State Banking Board.

The governor noted the assets of Missouri state banks have risen from $4.8 billion at the end of 1964 to more than $5 billion at the close of 1965. He said this rise of 5.5 per cent is "indicative of a sound state as reflected by sound banking."

Hearnes also commented on the $1.116 billion budget. Approved by the special legislative session, an increase over his recommendation.

He said he had not had time to study the bills in detail, "but it occurs to me that it has not been too many years ago that the variance of $18 or $19 million would have been a matter of concern because probably the governor at that time would not have been fortunate enough to enjoy an economy expanding rapidly enough to give hope that such elasticity in state financing could be absorbed without a tax increase or without endangering the type of budgeting I personally prefer -- the tight type."

Johnson Defended

WASHINGTON AP -- The Johnson administration's "unexampled record of success in agriculture" was defended Monday by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman said this record stands as a convincing reply to 40 Republican House members who recently criticized administration farm policies.

"The American farmer working with this administration and a majority of the Congress has acted these past five years to develop farm programs that have brought about amazing results," Freeman said.

Freeman said those results include an increase of nearly $3.5 billion in net farm income since 1960.

The Republican congressmen sent a telegram to President Johnson April 29, saying that actions taken by the administration in recent weeks to put a lid on rising food and farm prices "have done and will do little to lower consumer food prices but would insure financial hardships for many farm families."

Mongolia Draws Renewed Interest

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON AP -- U.S. officials were reported looking with renewed interest Tuesday at the possibility of opening diplomatic relations with Mongolia, a pro-Soviet Communist country in central Asia bordering the Soviet Union and Red China.

The move was proposed Monday by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. He said it would help to ease international tensions and provide the United States with "a valuable listening post" at a strategic point of the rivalry between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The State Department was silent on Mansfield's proposal but policymakers are known to believe that it would work to U. S. advantage. However, the government of Nationalist China on Formosa has opposed U.S. recognition of Mongolia in the past. It regards that remote land as a part of China.

The issue of U.S. nonrecognition policy toward Mongolia arose in its sharpest form in 1961 after the Soviet Union insisted that if the African country of Mauritania was to be given a seat in the United Nations Mongolia must be admitted at the same time.

As a result U. S. diplomats in Moscow discussed recognition with Mongolian diplomats and found that the Mongolian government was agreeable to establishing diplomatic relations. Action was blocked, however, by Nationalist China which, as a member of the U.N. Security Council, threatened to veto Mongolian membership in the United Nations.

The political tangle thus created was straightened out when the United States dropped its recognition plan and both Mauritania and Mongolia were voted into the world organization.

Since that time U.S. policy on the recognition question has been reviewed periodically but without any publicly known action being taken.

"Hobson's Choice"

The expression "Hobson's choice" to mean "this or nothing" arose from the refusal of the London carrier, Thomas Hobson, when letting his horses on hire, to allow any animal to leave the stable out of its turn.

Bodies Found In Wreckage

By VINCE CAROCCI

SOMERSET, PA. AP – The bodies of Pennsylvania Atty. Gen. Walter E. Allessandroni, his wife and two other persons were found Monday night in the wreckage of a light airplane in a snow-coated mountain gully.

Allesandroni, 51, managed Gov. William W. Scranton's unsuccessful battle to wrest the Republican presidential nomination from Barry Goldwater in 1964.

He was making the flight for a campaign speech in his bid for the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor in the May 17 state primary.

The four died Sunday when their private twin-engine plane fell in rugged Allegheny Mountain terrain -- known to pilots as the "graveyard of the Alleghenies" because of the dangerous weather conditions that often prevail.

Besides Alessandroni and his wife, Ethel, the dead include James E. Staudinger of Abington Twp., who was the Republican chairman of Montgomery County and a member of the State Liquor Control Board, and the pilot, Melvin E. Ladin, 28, of Collingswood, N.J.

The plane was carrying Alessandroni from the state capital at Harrisburg to Uniontown where he was to address the Fayette County Tavern Association.

An association official said later that there wasn't much concern when he didn't arrive because it was snowing and sleeting and it was assumed that the plane had turned back.

The discovery that the plane was missing wasn't made until about 24 hours after it went down. Mrs. Staudinger phoned Harrisburg to inquire about her husband. State officials began checking.

Probably more books have been written about birds than any other member of the animal world. There are between 10,000 and 12,000 living species of birds, and human curiosity about them is greater than ever. It is estimated that, in North America, 250,000 persons own at least one book about birds. In Great Britain, the figure is 100,000 persons. In the latter nation, one book about birds is published every week.

Hearnes Urges Bankers Cooperation

ST. LOUIS AP - Gov. Warren E. Hearnes urged the bankers of Missouri Tuesday to cooperate in improving the state legislative program in order to "design and build a better state."

"Unless the state government and state banking join to maintain a strong program," he said, "and even improve that program, a vacuum will be created."

He added this warning in a speech prepared for the annual Missouri Bankers Association convention:

"In state government, when a vacuum exists, the federal government fills it with their seemingly unlimited prerogatives. At the risk of being called hardheaded and lacking vision, it is my belief that Missourians prefer to have those of you here today --their fellow Missourians -- handle their financial affairs, rather than transfer that administrative privilege to Washington."

The governor pledged his administration "will join you in every effort to keep your industry healthy and growing."

Hearnes disclosed appointment of a special committee headed by C. W. Culley, head of the State Finance Division, to propose updating of banking laws in the 1967 legislature.

It includes nine bankers, four legislators, plus representatives of the bankers association, the Missouri Bar Association and the State Banking Board.

The governor noted the assets of Missouri state banks have risen from $4.8 billion at the end of 1964 to more than $5 billion at the close of 1965. He said this rise of 5.5 per cent is "indicative of a sound state as reflected by sound banking."

Hearnes also commented on the $1.116 billion budget. Approved by the special legislative session, an increase over his recommendation.

He said he had not had time to study the bills in detail, "but it occurs to me that it has not been too many years ago that the variance of $18 or $19 million would have been a matter of concern because probably the governor at that time would not have been fortunate enough to enjoy an economy expanding rapidly enough to give hope that such elasticity in state financing could be absorbed without a tax increase or without endangering the type of budgeting I personally prefer -- the tight type."

Johnson Defended

WASHINGTON AP -- The Johnson administration's "unexampled record of success in agriculture" was defended Monday by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

Freeman said this record stands as a convincing reply to 40 Republican House members who recently criticized administration farm policies.

"The American farmer working with this administration and a majority of the Congress has acted these past five years to develop farm programs that have brought about amazing results," Freeman said.

Freeman said those results include an increase of nearly $3.5 billion in net farm income since 1960.

The Republican congressmen sent a telegram to President Johnson April 29, saying that actions taken by the administration in recent weeks to put a lid on rising food and farm prices "have done and will do little to lower consumer food prices but would insure financial hardships for many farm families."

Mongolia Draws Renewed Interest

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON AP -- U.S. officials were reported looking with renewed interest Tuesday at the possibility of opening diplomatic relations with Mongolia, a pro-Soviet Communist country in central Asia bordering the Soviet Union and Red China.

The move was proposed Monday by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. He said it would help to ease international tensions and provide the United States with "a valuable listening post" at a strategic point of the rivalry between Red China and the Soviet Union.

The State Department was silent on Mansfield's proposal but policymakers are known to believe that it would work to U. S. advantage. However, the government of Nationalist China on Formosa has opposed U.S. recognition of Mongolia in the past. It regards that remote land as a part of China.

The issue of U.S. nonrecognition policy toward Mongolia arose in its sharpest form in 1961 after the Soviet Union insisted that if the African country of Mauritania was to be given a seat in the United Nations Mongolia must be admitted at the same time.

As a result U. S. diplomats in Moscow discussed recognition with Mongolian diplomats and found that the Mongolian government was agreeable to establishing diplomatic relations. Action was blocked, however, by Nationalist China which, as a member of the U.N. Security Council, threatened to veto Mongolian membership in the United Nations.

The political tangle thus created was straightened out when the United States dropped its recognition plan and both Mauritania and Mongolia were voted into the world organization.

Since that time U.S. policy on the recognition question has been reviewed periodically but without any publicly known action being taken.

"Hobson's Choice"

The expression "Hobson's choice" to mean "this or nothing" arose from the refusal of the London carrier, Thomas Hobson, when letting his horses on hire, to allow any animal to leave the stable out of its turn.

1st Lieutenant Michael R. Cook

FORT BUCKNER, OKINAWA (AHTNC) -- Army 1st Lt. Michael R. Cook (right), whose cousin, Mrs. Karen S. Pratt, lives on Route 2, Sikeston, Mo., receives the Purple Heart Medal for wounds received in Vietnam from General Harold K. Johnson, Army Chief of Staff, at Fort Buckner, Okinawa, April 17.

The Purple Heart Medal is given to soldiers wounded in battle.

General Johnson was on a one-day visit to Army units and facilities in Okinawa when he presented the medal.

Lieutenant Cook, a member of the Military Advisory Command, Vietnam, is recovering at Fort Buckner.

The 24-year-old officer is a 1959 graduate of Sikeston (Mo.) High School and received his B. S. degree in 1964 from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y.

PACIFIC, MO. (AHTNC) -- Army PFC James T. Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Butler, Parma, Mo., was assigned to Battery C, 1st Battalion, 62d Artillery, in Pacific, Mo., May 3.

This unit, part of the nationwide U.S. Army Air Defense Command, provides air defense in the St. Louis area.

Butler, a generator operator with the unit, entered the Army in February 1965 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 18-year-old soldier attended Parma High School.

FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, IND. (AHTNC) -- Army Pvt. Jerry K. Keene, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Keene Sr., 305 Ramsey st., East Prairie, Mo., completed a journalism course at the Defense Information School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., April 22.

During the ten-week course, Keene was taught to make Army news releases to military publications and civilian news media. He also received instruction in producing tape interviews and speech writing.

Keene entered the Army in October 1965 and received basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

The 19-year-old soldier was graduated from East Prairie High School in 1964 and was engaged in farming before entering the Army.

A change in the criteria has revised the requirements covering the enlistment of prior servicemen into the Air Force.

A prior serviceman may now enlist at the same grade he held at the time of his separation from active duty if the enlistment is completed prior to the 2nd anniversary of his date of separation. Before this change was announced, a prior serviceman had only one year in which to re-enlist in the same grade he held when separated from military service.

This change is effective immediately and is expected to remain in effect through June 30, 1966.

A former serviceman of any of the Armed Forces may also enlist within 180 days after the 2nd anniversary of his separation from military service at only one grade lower than held at the time of his separation, 2 grades lower prior to the 3rd anniversary of his separation, and 3 grades lower prior to the 4th anniversary of his separation from active service in any of the Armed Forces.

Complete details on joining the Air Force may be obtained from your local Air Force recruiter.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, ARK. -- Vendors and contractors in the surrounding area of Blytheville Air Force Base will attend a special Vendors Appreciation Day here Thursday, being staged by the base procurement office.

One of the primary purposes of the meeting will be to brief new vendors and contractors on the policies and procedures involved in making contracts with the base for supplies and services.

The day's activities start at 11:30 a.m. with an assembly at the Officers' Open Mess followed by a "dutch treat" luncheon at noon.

Colonel William G. Ivey, base commander, will speak to the group at 1 p.m. on Vietnam.

After the speech, the group will discuss and resolve mutual problems before touring the base at 3:30 p.m. The climax of the day will be an air show by the Thunderbirds, the official aerial demonstration team of the U.S. Air Force, who will perform at 4:30 p.m.

Vendors or contractors interested in attending may make reservations for the "dutch treat" luncheon by contacting the base procurement office at Blytheville Air Force Base.

DA NANG, VIETNAM (FHTNC) --Hospitalman Gary D. Greene, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Greene of 186 Cardinal Drive, Sikeston, Mo., is serving at the Naval Support Activity, Da Nang, Vietnam. He helps provide supplies and logistical support for the more than 60,000 American troops in this northern area of South Vietnam.

During the month of March, more than 150,000 measured tons were off-loaded from ships in the Da Nang Harbor by men working in shifts, 24 hours a day, seven days a week. This record surpassed the 127,547 measured tons off-loaded in January by a wide margin.

Furlough Travel Study

WASHINGTON AP -- Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., was named to a subcommittee Monday that will inquire into servicemen traveling on furlough.

Besides Ichord, others on the subcommittee include Reps. Alton Lennon, D-N.C., Charles E. Chamberlain, R-Mich., and L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Service Committee, announced the subcommittee will inquire into what he regards as an unwarranted hardship on servicemen traveling on furlough. He said too many servicemen are forced to sit around airports awaiting plane space.

But Stewart Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, said, in effect, that the reason many servicemen sit around airports is that they are taking advantage of an opportunity to save one-half on fares by accepting space-available reservations.

Tipton said the airlines welcome an opportunity to discuss the matter with Rivers, who "has always made highly constructive contributions to the relationship between the airlines and the military."

City street departments, busy repairing last winter's damage, hope to get it done in time for next winter's damage.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. -- The terminal elevator of the Missouri Grain Company at Caruthersville has been acquired by the Missouri Farmers Assoication. The terminal is considered one of the fastest grain handling facilities on the Mississippi River. It is equipped to ship grain by rail, truck and barge and has 5 receiving dumps. The structure has 857,000 bushels of grain storage.

Missouri Grain Company Sold

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Missouri Farmers Association has acquired the Missouri Grain Company which operates a river terminal here and an elevator at Hayti.

The announcement was made at a "get acquainted" luncheon here attended by area farmers, business and civic leaders.

Albert (Al) R. Cravens of Caruthersville has been named manager of the combined facilities.

Fred V. Heinkel, president of the MFA and host to the luncheon said "for some time the MFA has realized that we needed an ice-free elevator. In the past there have been times that we have had grain sold at good prices for our members and we have been unable to make deliveries because the river was closed down."

Heinkel said that the grain productive area of the world was rather small. "The greatest grain producing area of all is located along three rivers in the heart of America -- the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois."

In the future the Caruthersville facilities will be known as the MFA Grain Terminal and Hayti will go by the name of MFA Elevator. Cravens was the manager of the grain terminal for a number of years when it was owned by a local group. The two elevators are now a part of the MFA Grain Division under the supervision of Otto Schulte, MFA vice president in charge of grain marketing.

The Caruthersville grain terminal is considered one of the fastest grain handling facilities on the Mississippi River. It can receive grain from dumps operating at the same time -- three large enough to accomodate the largest trailer trucks, another truck dump and a railroad car dump. It is located on both the Frisco and Cotton Belt railroads. The transaction included a towboat used for moving barges. The terminal has storage for 857,000 bushels of grain.

The Hayti facility has grain storage for 271,000 bushels and is of steel construction. It has two truck dumps.

Planned early improvements for the facilities include a dust collection system for the Caruthersville terminal and a new paint job for Hayti, the MFA leader commented.

Schulte explained the MFA grain marketing programs to the assembled guests. "With Caruthersville the MFA now has twelve terminal and subterminal grain elevators on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers and other 150 inland local elevators." In addition the farmer - owned cooperative has seats on grain exchanges at Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City and is developing an expanded export program.

Owls vs. Hawks

Owls have an advantage over hawks as birds of prey. Where hawks swoop down with noisy whirrs of their powerful pinions, the owls make the same deadly descent in complete silence, as their feathers are fringed with down.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. -- The terminal elevator of the Missouri Grain Company at Caruthersville has been acquired by the Missouri Farmers Assoication. The terminal is considered one of the fastest grain handling facilities on the Mississippi River. It is equipped to ship grain by rail, truck and barge and has 5 receiving dumps. The structure has 857,000 bushels of grain storage.

Missouri Grain Company Sold

CARUTHERSVILLE -- The Missouri Farmers Association has acquired the Missouri Grain Company which operates a river terminal here and an elevator at Hayti.

The announcement was made at a "get acquainted" luncheon here attended by area farmers, business and civic leaders.

Albert (Al) R. Cravens of Caruthersville has been named manager of the combined facilities.

Fred V. Heinkel, president of the MFA and host to the luncheon said "for some time the MFA has realized that we needed an ice-free elevator. In the past there have been times that we have had grain sold at good prices for our members and we have been unable to make deliveries because the river was closed down."

Heinkel said that the grain productive area of the world was rather small. "The greatest grain producing area of all is located along three rivers in the heart of America -- the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois."

In the future the Caruthersville facilities will be known as the MFA Grain Terminal and Hayti will go by the name of MFA Elevator. Cravens was the manager of the grain terminal for a number of years when it was owned by a local group. The two elevators are now a part of the MFA Grain Division under the supervision of Otto Schulte, MFA vice president in charge of grain marketing.

The Caruthersville grain terminal is considered one of the fastest grain handling facilities on the Mississippi River. It can receive grain from dumps operating at the same time -- three large enough to accomodate the largest trailer trucks, another truck dump and a railroad car dump. It is located on both the Frisco and Cotton Belt railroads. The transaction included a towboat used for moving barges. The terminal has storage for 857,000 bushels of grain.

The Hayti facility has grain storage for 271,000 bushels and is of steel construction. It has two truck dumps.

Planned early improvements for the facilities include a dust collection system for the Caruthersville terminal and a new paint job for Hayti, the MFA leader commented.

Schulte explained the MFA grain marketing programs to the assembled guests. "With Caruthersville the MFA now has twelve terminal and subterminal grain elevators on the Missouri and Mississippi rivers and other 150 inland local elevators." In addition the farmer - owned cooperative has seats on grain exchanges at Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City and is developing an expanded export program.

Owls vs. Hawks

Owls have an advantage over hawks as birds of prey. Where hawks swoop down with noisy whirrs of their powerful pinions, the owls make the same deadly descent in complete silence, as their feathers are fringed with down.

Elderly Spending Giving Boost

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK AP -- A rising stream of spending by the elderly is giving the economy a boost, thanks to medicare. Merchants and service industries in communities where the over-65 gather say that the upward trend is already apparent, even though medicare itself doesn't start until July 1.

And the spending philosophy of many still some distance from the 65 mark is likely to be changed as the urge to save loses one of its most pressing reasons.

Also, corporations with employes nearing or past 65 are taking a second look at their pension plans and health insurance programs. Some of these are being revamped to cover the gaps in medicare and even to provide for the cost of the added protection -- $3 a month on a voluntary basis.

When medicare actually starts some seven weeks from now, the economy may start measuring another form of increased spending, offshoot of providing for greater consumption of medical supplies and services.

The spending trend is based on both financial psychology and hard cash realities.

Many now living on pensions, whether private or Social Security, or on fixed incomes from their life savings, are being freed from the pressure to go on putting aside part of these small amounts against the dire possibility of a health disaster.

So the fixed incomes, whether pension or otherwise, are being stretched in effectiveness. The fringe benefits of higher living standards, even small luxuries, become a possibility.

But for the economy in general, the spending splurge won't be just a one-way street. Money will be taken from the spending stream to pay for medicare. Already Social Security taxes have gone up. This means that both workers and employers are contributing more to the government agency. This is money which the worker won't be spending himself, and money which the employer won't have for conducting or expanding his business.

Taxpayers also are likely, in the months and years ahead, to be called upon to foot larger bills at all levels of government for the building of new hospitals, medical schools, and other facilities will be privately financed, but many will be met in part by public funds. And in the long run, it's the taxpayer who pays.

Dancers Highlight Party

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK AP - Din, darkness, gyrating dancers, blinking colored lights, crazy costumes and milling mobs made Arthur's birthday party ever bit as wild Monday night as its opening a year ago.

Its stockholders -- some 70 friends of Richard Burton's ex-wife Sybil - packed the chic discotheque rib-to-rib with some of the world's best-known people. Since the day it opened on the old site of El Morocco, it has been such an "in" place, it is almost impossible to get into.

On the bandstand the same rock'n roll group, "The Wild Ones," blasted at eardrums as it did one year ago. But its former leader, Jordan Christopher, 24, held hands with his new wife Sybil as they pushed their way through the crowds, accepting congratulations and eventually cutting a huge, one candle cake.

The glamorous company included Lauren Bacall, Jason Robards, Henry Fonda and daughter Jane, Maureen O'Sullivan, Betty Comden and Adolph Green.

On the tiny dance floor, avant-garde designer Joan Morse was "switched on" in a white dress made of electric light bulbs, battery operated. Her finger-snapping partner wore a prison jacket with stripes and numbers.

A leopard loin-cloth type bra dress of a bushy-haired model matched the leopard jacket of her dancing partner. Mostly though, tight hip-slung pants, garrison belts and sweater or open shirts were choices for both sexes.

An unlikely combination trying to converse over the cacophony were Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic, and rock-'n' roll disc jockey Murrey the K.

Dick Chamberlain, Troy Donahue, Barry Nelson, and Lee Remick were more familiar faces in the crowd.

Five years ago--Leaders of the Congo made public the outline of a proposed constitution for a federal republic.

One year ago -- West Germany and Israel announced the establishment of diplomatic relations.

FOOD BUYING TIP

Potatoes -- the perfect first vegetable at all family meals! The U. S. Department of Agriculture says success in cooking potatoes depends on using the right potato for each purpose.

The best known potato for baking is the Russet Burbank. This variety has a low moisture content and a mealy texture. It has an elongated shape and the skin has a net - like russetted appearance.

The White Rose variety, usually known as the Long White, is good for boiling, frying, and especially for salads. It has a smooth, almost colorless skin and elongated shape.

Round white potatoes -- comprising many varieties -- are an all purpose type. They are good for frying, boiling, baking and the fancier potato styles.

Red - skinned potatoes, are also all - purpose. When harvested early in the season as "new" potatoes, their best use is for boiling.

Clean, reasonably smooth potatoes, fee from cuts or bruises, usually are the best consumer value. Store them in a cool, dark and well - ventilated place.

Change in Usage

Although celery was known to the ancient Greeks and Romans, it was used only as a flavoring for food and for medicinal purposes until the 17th century. Its use as food was first recorded in France in 1623, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

stronger, indicating a larger force. American artillery fired 1,500 shells into the jungle and advancing paratroopers found 14 dead insurgents and three weapons.

Monsoon rains pelted the jungle.

The Marines launched two new operations in the northern part of South Viet Nam, supported by massive artillery and air barrages.

Sixty helicopters airlifted a large Marine force 18 miles west of the coastal city of Quang Ngai as Marine pilots plastered the area before the landing. Supported by Vietnamese army units, the advancing Marines blew up an intricate Viet Cong tunnel network.

A spokesman said 47 guerrillas had been killed and 15 captured so far while American losses were light.

Near the old imperial capital of Hue, units of the 3rd Marine Division were in their third day of Operation Wayne and reported five Viet Cong killed. Again Marine casualties were reported light.

The U.S. Air Force said it killed "possibly 40 or more" Viet Cong in 350 combat strikes over South Viet Nam.

Romney Warns Against Govt. Control

WASHINGTON AP - Michigan Gov. George Romney said Tuesday that administration auto safety proposals would "wipe out meaningful and creative state contributions toward improved vehicle safety" and substitute "absolute federal decision-making and control."

He said federal safety standards should be enforced by states rather than the federal government.

Romney, who was president of American Motors Co. before entering politics four years ago, said he has "been a critic of the industry for its over emphasis on style, power and speed rather than on safety."

But he said the states, industry and voluntary groups have been working on safety for years, while "the federal government has been the most remiss in meeting its responsibilities."

"The long-range solution to our complex and urgent traffic safety problems does require greater federal effort - but it requires far more than that," Romney told the House Commerce Committee. "It requires us to enlist the total resources of this nation--private and governmental."

In testimony prepared for the same hearing, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, came out for federal safety standards.

He said the auto manufacturers "have amply demonstrated there is nothing voluntary about their discharge of public responsibility."

Reuther based that conclusion in part on this section of a statement written for the hearing:

"Time and again unsafe cars were delivered to unsuspecting customers. And when the car defects were discovered, the car owners were not notified -- only the dealers who were cautioned not to disclose faulty design or construction but to repair it under guise of 'product improvement' whenever the customer could be located.

In emphasizing the need for a strong state role Romney echoed testimony by the automobile industry which supported mandatory federal safety standards but urged a major part for the states and industry in developing them.

Reuther said any legislation should include "sufficient latitude for creative and imaginative product design."

Harris said Spivak specified before his death that the bonds were not to be permitted to go to Russia. He also tried unsuccessfully to bring his sister over, Harris told the court. The attorney accused the petitioning Mrs. Orland of conspiring with the Russian government to obtain the money.

He said Mrs. Ross is willing to deliver the money to Mrs. Orland if she could establish her identity. Mrs. Ross would be willing to pay her plane fare and expenses Harris added.

Polio Victim Hurls Mean Fast Ball

By DON BOXMEYER
St. Paul Dispatch Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. AP -- Young Donny Warn pitches a mean fast ball.

In a vacant lot near his home, Donny drops his crutches, bends to the ground, falls to his knees and throws his fast ball.

Donny, 13, can't stand and pitch. Because of polio, he wears stiff metal braces and gets around on crutches.

But he does have a wicked fast ball thrown from his knees.

Other players in Donny's vacant lot league don't baby Donny. Sisters Audree and Joyce, brother Pow-Wow, and friends shout their encouagement, but chide him for a poor pitch.

"C'mon Donny," yells batter Pow-Wow, "how about gettin' one to me?"

Donny, his knees still on the ground, cocks his right arm back and snaps it like a pitcher with both feet solidly on the ground.

Pow-Wow gets a hit, and it is Joyce's turn. She tags a solid drive into the street, and Donny twists at the waist and follows the ball's flight silently.

Finally, Donny goes into the batter's box, crutches under his arms to prop him up, and takes a good cut at the ball thrown by Pow-Wow. He smacks it, clearly hit, but foul.

"I can hit it most of the time," Donny will say. "I hit pretty well, too. Someone does my running for me.

"I guess I bat all right, but I'd rather pitch."

Donny, who has nine brothers and sisters, was afflicted with the disease nine years ago. Doctors say he will never walk again without the aid of braces.

Precise Weather Answers

Scattered showers this afternoon. Chance of rain tonight. Well, how much chance? These are typical weather forecasts, and questions that one might ask regarding them.

Beginning May 15, 1966, you will be furnished precise answers to these questions, according to Mr. Leonard Hand, Meterologist-in-charge of the Portageville, ESSA Weather Bureau Office. The answers will be given in the forecasts for the Missouri Bootheel in a new forecasting program called Probability Forecasting.

It is impossible to tell, more than an hour or so in advance, whether or not your lawn, construction project, or picnic area will receive one of the passing showers, even when showers are certain in the area. What the forecaster will be including regularly in the forecast is the chance (probability) of receiving more than just a trace of precipitation at the particular point of interest to you.

The regular worded forecast will appear unchanged. The new information will be added in a form similar to: Precipitation probability 30 percent this afternoon, 50 per cent tonight, and less than 5 percent tomorrow.

Mr. Hand said that this is one of the Weather Bureau's ways of making its forecasts more useful to the consumer, that is, by increasing their value to the health, welfare, and economy of the community his team serves.

Monsoon rains pelted the jungle.

The Marines launched two new operations in the northern part of South Viet Nam, supported by massive artillery and air barrages.

Sixty helicopters airlifted a large Marine force 18 miles west of the coastal city of Quang Ngai as Marine pilots plastered the area before the landing. Supported by Vietnamese army units, the advancing Marines blew up an intricate Viet Cong tunnel network.

A spokesman said 47 guerrillas had been killed and 15 captured so far while American losses were light.

Near the old imperial capital of Hue, units of the 3rd Marine Division were in their third day of Operation Wayne and reported five Viet Cong killed. Again Marine casualties were reported light.

The U.S. Air Force said it killed "possibly 40 or more" Viet Cong in 350 combat strikes over South Viet Nam.

Romney Warns Against Govt. Control

WASHINGTON AP - Michigan Gov. George Romney said Tuesday that administration auto safety proposals would "wipe out meaningful and creative state contributions toward improved vehicle safety" and substitute "absolute federal decision-making and control."

He said federal safety standards should be enforced by states rather than the federal government.

Romney, who was president of American Motors Co. before entering politics four years ago, said he has "been a critic of the industry for its over emphasis on style, power and speed rather than on safety."

But he said the states, industry and voluntary groups have been working on safety for years, while "the federal government has been the most remiss in meeting its responsibilities."

"The long-range solution to our complex and urgent traffic safety problems does require greater federal effort - but it requires far more than that," Romney told the House Commerce Committee. "It requires us to enlist the total resources of this nation--private and governmental."

In testimony prepared for the same hearing, Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union, came out for federal safety standards.

He said the auto manufacturers "have amply demonstrated there is nothing voluntary about their discharge of public responsibility."

Reuther based that conclusion in part on this section of a statement written for the hearing:

"Time and again unsafe cars were delivered to unsuspecting customers. And when the car defects were discovered, the car owners were not notified -- only the dealers who were cautioned not to disclose faulty design or construction but to repair it under guise of 'product improvement' whenever the customer could be located.

In emphasizing the need for a strong state role Romney echoed testimony by the automobile industry which supported mandatory federal safety standards but urged a major part for the states and industry in developing them.

Reuther said any legislation should include "sufficient latitude for creative and imaginative product design."

Harris said Spivak specified before his death that the bonds were not to be permitted to go to Russia. He also tried unsuccessfully to bring his sister over, Harris told the court. The attorney accused the petitioning Mrs. Orland of conspiring with the Russian government to obtain the money.

He said Mrs. Ross is willing to deliver the money to Mrs. Orland if she could establish her identity. Mrs. Ross would be willing to pay her plane fare and expenses Harris added.

Polio Victim Hurls Mean Fast Ball

By DON BOXMEYER
St. Paul Dispatch Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. AP -- Young Donny Warn pitches a mean fast ball.

In a vacant lot near his home, Donny drops his crutches, bends to the ground, falls to his knees and throws his fast ball.

Donny, 13, can't stand and pitch. Because of polio, he wears stiff metal braces and gets around on crutches.

But he does have a wicked fast ball thrown from his knees.

Other players in Donny's vacant lot league don't baby Donny. Sisters Audree and Joyce, brother Pow-Wow, and friends shout their encouragement, but chide him for a poor pitch.

"C'mon Donny," yells batter Pow-Wow, "how about gettin' one to me?"

Donny, his knees still on the ground, cocks his right arm back and snaps it like a pitcher with both feet solidly on the ground.

Pow-Wow gets a hit, and it is Joyce's turn. She tags a solid drive into the street, and Donny twists at the waist and follows the ball's flight silently.

Finally, Donny goes into the batter's box, crutches under his arms to prop him up, and takes a good cut at the ball thrown by Pow-Wow. He smacks it, clearly hit, but foul.

"I can hit it most of the time," Donny will say. "I hit pretty well, too. Someone does my running for me.

"I guess I bat all right, but I'd rather pitch."

Donny, who has nine brothers and sisters, was afflicted with the disease nine years ago. Doctors say he will never walk again without the aid of braces.

Precise Weather Answers

Scattered showers this afternoon. Chance of rain tonight. Well, how much chance? These are typical weather forecasts, and questions that one might ask regarding them.

Beginning May 15, 1966, you will be furnished precise answers to these questions, according to Mr. Leonard Hand, Meterologist-in-charge of the Portageville, ESSA Weather Bureau Office. The answers will be given in the forecasts for the Missouri Bootheel in a new forecasting program called Probability Forecasting.

It is impossible to tell, more than an hour or so in advance, whether or not your lawn, construction project, or picnic area will receive one of the passing showers, even when showers are certain in the area. What the forecaster will be including regularly in the forecast is the chance (probability) of receiving more than just a trace of precipitation at the particular point of interest to you.

The regular worded forecast will appear unchanged. The new information will be added in a form similar to: Precipitation probability 30 percent this afternoon, 50 per cent tonight, and less than 5 percent tomorrow.

Mr. Hand said that this is one of the Weather Bureau's ways of making its forecasts more useful to the consumer, that is, by increasing their value to the health, welfare, and economy of the community his team serves.
